of these six states did not then greatly affect politicians.

Now it is different. "The number of woman suffrage states not only is greater this year," said the New York Press of May 5 editorially, "but it is more important than the electoral vote itself indicates, for they are in nearly every case doubtful states, all in the West and none of them having the traditional allegiance to political parties."

Since 1896 in twenty-nine congresses not one of the eleven full suffrage states was carried steadily year after year for the Democratic party and there were only five out of the eleven which remained constant to the Republicans. In every presidential election during these years a small percentage of votes could have changed the election. In 1912 none of the equal suffrage states would have required more than 7.8 per cent to turn the presidential election to the other party. In congressional elections since 1896 six elections have been carried by a majority of less than 80 votes, in twenty-eight by a majority of less than 500 votes. What may happen in these states if even a small group of women decide to put suffrage ahead of party politics is that these women will hold the balance of power for the presidential election in their states. "It is not a theory," says the Press, "but an actual condition which confronts politicians."

"This fact," says the Sun of May 12, "has begun to engage the serious attention of practical politicians. It is hard for men of this type to realize the full significance of the fact that several million women in the enfranchised states will vote for presidential electors in November, complicated as this fact is by the avowed purpose of the women in these states to place their loyalty to suffrage above all personal party predilections. The enfranchised women of the country are divided among themselves upon such issues as preparedness, the tariff, Mexican intervention, the rights of neutrals, etc., but they are united in their belief that woman suffrage is at this moment the most important question before the nation, embracing and overshadowing all others, and that their highest duty as voters is to their sex rather than to any party or political platform. It is conceivable that in a close election the

WHY YOU ARE NERVOUS

The nervous system is the steering system of the human body.

In perfect health we hardly realize that we have a network of nerves, but when health is ebbing, when strength is declining, the same nervous system gives the alarm in headaches, tiredness, restless sleep, irritability and unless corrected, leads straight to a breakdown.

To correct nervousness, Scott's Emulsion is exactly what you should take. Its rich nutriment gets into the blood and the rich blood feeds the tiny nerve-cells while the whole system responds to its refreshing tonic force. It is free from alcohol.

WOMEN UP AND READY.

Suffragists Preparing For Victory In New York Next Year.

One of the best symptoms of suffrage victory in 1917 is the "up to the minute" action of the suffragists. Evidence of it is seen all over New York state, but one of the most recent instances was in Westchester county, when the suffrage convention of the Third assembly district was held in Tarrytown on May 11.

Westchester county has grown to such an extent that it is going to have more representation at Albany—an other state senator and another assemblyman. Therefore the Westchester division of the New York State Woman Suffrage party anticipated official political action and prepared its list of county officers to include a new assembly district under the reapportionment act. So far as is known this was the first section of the state and the first political organization to provide for reapportioned district leaders. "My, but you suffragists are up to the minute!" remarked one man, a local political leader.

The wisest investment for savings is in real estate—in almost any section. Every real estate ad that's printed should have some interests for you.

PRESIDENTIAL VOTE OF WOMEN IMPORTANT
Will Cast Ballots In Twelve Doubtful States.

Who is to be nominated for president of the United States is the one question in men's minds just now. Every American citizen has his eyes turned toward Chicago and St. Louis, where the great national parties are to hold their political conventions. A new element has entered into this presidential campaign, one to which political leaders are giving much thought.

In twelve states women will vote for president next November. These states will cast ninety-one electoral votes. They will control nearly one-fifth of the electoral college. They will cast one-third of the votes necessary to elect the next president. Four years ago only six states permitted women to vote. The thirty-seven electoral votes
