Prisoners of War Association at Friendship, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Calhoun and son, Charles, and Wellington Briggs were visiting relatives and friends at Penn Yan, and also others points on Keuka Lake, Sunday.

Mrs. E. J. Reiman and son, Leo Reiman, of Angelica, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Hunt from Sunday to Wednesday. Dr. Reiman graduated last week from the Buffalo Medical College.

A. R. Baker, of the local hardware firm of Baker Brothers, has this week been in attendance at the Retail Hardware Dealer's National Convention in Boston, Mass. He was a delegate from the New York State Association. The party started from Buffalo where a special train took them to Kingston, and from Kingston to Montreal by boat. Mr. Baker will be away from home all the week.

BEST OF LIGHT LITERATURE

Host of Good Books That Will Take the Middle-Aged Back to Their Childhood Days.

Like Grandfather William, we delight, upon occasion, to retire to "the green, enchanted forest" of boyhood. One of the quickest short cuts leads back via fairy tales. It is a pity more grown-ups do not know this. In the field of light literature, fairy tales should stand pre-eminent; for they are light of heart, and not, like frothy novels, merely light of substance.

What fresh charms we discover when we pick up Grimm's again after a neglect of twenty years! Nuggets of immortal characterization glitter beside the path: The musician cat of Bremen, "with a face like three rainy days!" The Valiant Little Tailor—"his heart fluttered with joy, like a lambkin's tail." And don't you remember young Alice, Alice, who was so clever that her mother declared "she could see the wind blow up the street, and hear the flies cough!"

If you sigh for a recess from war news, why not try some genuine light literature—the Poor Miller's Boy and the Cat, Little Snow-White, Hansel and Gretel, Cinderella, Red Riding Hood or the King of the Golden Mountain? Retire to the enchanted forest again, to "the olden days when to wish was to have."

Doctor Watson—How do you know that man is married?
Sherlock Holmes—Because he is wearing safety pins instead of suspender buttons.

47 YEARS AGO TO-DAY

The National Peace Jubilee Was Held in Colosseum in Boston

Had all the European countries been as anxious to keep peace with their neighbors as has the United States, the present war, the worst in the world's history, would have been averted.

Peace of mind is as essential to happiness as peace between countries to their inhabitants.
