CONCERNING SUFFRAGE

Since the birth of the Republican party, the suffragists have been trying to get it to say "Vote for Women" but all in vain. The national convention of 1872-1876 and 1896 did contain some "glittering generalities" about the "rights of women" but nothing about their right to vote. The year 1916 is a notable one in suffrage history as the time when women suffrage finally arrived at the status of a full fledged plank not only in the Republican platform but in the platform of every political party. This can mean nothing if not that success is in sight.

The editor of the Edgemony Enterprise watched at election time, so he says, auto load after auto load of old women being taken to the polls to vote. It occurred to him that sitting uncounted in Dakota homes were thousands of upright cultured women denied the same right that the bums were exercising. Then he forthwith owned up that he had always been ashamed not to be on the right side of the suffrage cause and added, "This paper is for woman suffrage all right from this time on."

CHAUTAUQUA BEGIN NEXT WEDNESDAY

Lee S. Estelle, the Famous Court Judge of Chautauqua, will be here one of the many Good Attractions.

many a lad has been put to the gutter and set on the story told in his Chautauqua address by Lee S. Estelle, the famous court judge, who is here to speak on "The Lass and the Lad."

Omaha, Neb., Judge Estelle established a child labor station that has been used as a model for the country. He has made many Chautauqua appearances and is in demand as a speaker.

Chautauqua has been kind and fatherly interested in the boys and girls of the state of whom he without his whose homes good conduct is always taught as it must be.

the success of any juvenile is dependent upon the ability of the presiding judge and the method of dealing with the girls charged with the case. Judge Estelle's method was radically changed when he established his court of correction in Chautauqua, which was to be a reform school for the child rather than a punishment. He saw to it that the offender was not drawn out like a hardened criminal, but had a policeman or a deputy sheriff as a parent or guardian and brought to the judge his own officer. There is no trial proceedings. The judge makes an advance and the interests of the child are considered. Judge Estelle often puts the child to work for his own story. Judge Estelle often puts the child to work for his own story. Judge Estelle often puts the child to work for his own story.

other strong features. Judge J. Ward of the federal court of education will spend the second day on social work in which he has been successful. He was in charge of the center bureau in the city for five years ago, which attracted wide attention. He was put in charge of the center work for the state of Wisconsin. About a year ago he was appointed to the post in Washington, D. C. The subject of his address will be "Going to One Another," or some other community work.

lecture features are "P. Bible" in "Fads and Fashions" and Lorenzo Zwickert entertainment and applied art.

Chautauqua will be struck with an entirely different distinct company each of the five days. On the Castle Square there will be here, on the Rogers; on the special Russian Quartet; on the Josef Mach and Bohemian Band and on the fifth the E. Prompters.

features have been for the boys and girls. The price of magic is that will be of special interest to all the children of the season.
