GREENWOOD LOCAL BRIEFS

The dance at Rexville drew many from Greenwood. Charles D. Horton, of Troupsburg, was in our city Thursday.

Thomas O'Hagan, of West Hill, was a business visitor in town Tuesday.

Atty. and Mrs. Davis Webster, of Cleveland, Ohio, were guests of their mother last week.

Jay Covert, who works at Painted Post, was at his home in Greenwood Thanksgiving.

George Rollins, of Rough-and-Ready was a city visitor Thursday.

The venerable Levi House, of West Union, was a Friday caller in Greenwood.

Theodore Cobb, Esq., was the guest of his son in Greenwood Thursday.

Mrs. N. E. Coston and daughter, Miss Mary Coston, were in Hornell Tuesday.

Archie McCalister, of West Union, was in Hornell Tuesday to visit his daughter who is a patient in St. Mercy's Hospital.

Mrs. Ernest Jeffers, of Canisteo, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rollins, of this place.

Riley Hale was in Canisteo Wednesday.

The citizens of Bucharest dwell in great suspense. The Teutons are knocking at their gates.

The house and barns of Mrs. Mary Kelly on Dryden Hill burned at an early hour, Tuesday morning. The fire originated in the big barn and as there was no help within reach both barn and house burned with their contents. The barn was one of the finest in town and had been recently built. The house was an old one but good one and was in fine shape as it had been rebuilt recently. The loss is a heavy one, and at this writing it is not known how much insurance was carried. The loss will probably exceed $2,000.00.

Women suffragists do not help the cause by unseemly conduct regarding the same. The only result is injury thereto. Others are too apt to confound their actions with the question at issue and form a wrong opinion concerning the same. The interrupting both the highest legislative and executive branches of the government by openly disturbing a meeting of the Congress and the President, and while the latter was speaking, was a gross mistake on their part. We believe in impartial suffrage and regret to see attention drawn from the main issue and have the same condemned with the acts mentioned.

The enslaving of the Belgians will estrange what few friends the Teutons have left. The dealing with the subjects of a conquered country and a neutral one at that shows what treatment lies in store for other nations that may be conquered by them in the future and tends to cause all nations of the world to unite against them for self preservation.

Premier Asquith has resigned after many years service for his king and country.

Different legislative bodies are appointing committees to ascertain the cause of "high cost of living" just for the purpose of evasion on their part of the issue. Is not the cause easily traceable to the union strikes and that they dare not offend the union vote? The increase in the cost of food is the natural result of strikes and hoarding up the prices of labor. Have not producers of cereals, the same right to strike in order that their labor may pay them better, as any other class of laborers? The farmer-to-day gets less pay and works more hours than any other class of men. Would it be right to allow others to band together and force up their wages and then try to compel the farmer to accept what others say for his products. There is no doubt but that in many cases the middleman is to blame, but they did not cause present prices for potatoes, cereals or dairy products and the farmer is not getting his benefit and let those who are perpetually striking and getting more pay keep hands off of the farmers' rights.

The motive of the negro, who is alleged by the defence in the "Hesperia" case to have done the killing, does not clearly appear. He was not after money as he did not take any. No old grudge does not appear to lead him in the work and it would hardly seem that he would act without one. Great Britain is to deal out her food supply in rations. That is a fair system at least.

Boycott on rotten eggs is now being tried out in this state.

Willard's right to wear the championship belt is challenged by a Frenchman. Many men have worn it before and probably many will do so hereafter.

A Trying Moment.

What is the most trying position in which an actress was ever put on the stage? Mrs. E. W. Ward in her "Reminiscences" tells of a predicament of Mme. Vestris, while playing the principal role in an opera, which will take some beating.

"Owing to the vehemence of her acting Mme. Vestris' false teeth suddenly became loose. With sly movements of her tapering fingers the famous singer endeavored to coax them back; but, finding it was of no avail and perceiving there was no other alternative, she suddenly turned her back on the audience, and, taking the plate right out of her mouth, carefully readjusted it. Then she finished her song."

Right in Style.

In a shop recently a well known actress, who is noted for her perennial youth, asked for a traveling bag of alligator skin. The shopkeeper, who had none of that particular sort, brought out instead some of smooth leather.

"And you tell me this is alligator skin?" objected the actress.

"Why, where are all its wrinkles?"

"Ah, madam," replied the wily dealer, who knew his customer, "wrinkles are out of vogue. The correct alligator bag is made from the skin of an alligator that has been massaged."

TOMBS OF THE PHARAOHS

ingenious Devices Used to Guard Against Grave Robbers.

The ingenuity displayed by the ancient Egyptians to prevent robbers from breaking into the Pharaonic graves merits admiration from present day engineers, says a work on the sarcophagus of Khafra, the builder of the second Gizeh pyramid, who reigned in Egypt some 5,000 years ago.

The lid of the red granite sarcophagus was dovetailed with minute precision into the receptacle. To prevent the cover from being drawn back the Egyptian builders bored two holes in the underside of the lid near the edge, not showing above. These corresponded exactly with two similar holes, less deep than the other two, sunk in the front-end of the receptacle. Two copper bolts were then placed in the lid holes, and at the moment the sarcophagus was fully closed the upper and lower holes met and the bolts dropped in position from the upper holes partly into the lower, thus making it impossible to move the lid.

It must have struck the Egyptian engineers that grave robbers might get at the body by turning the sarcophagus upside down, in which case the bolts would glide back into their original position and permit the lid being drawn out. To prevent this they filled the lower holes with wax and made the bolts hot. Upon the lids being placed in position the bolts melted their way into the wax and upon cooling became so firmly fixed that nothing short of complete destruction could open the royal tomb.

It must have been a herculean labor to how the whole edge away, but that is what grave desecrators did, and the wax can still be seen in the bore holes.

Way to His Heart.

A young woman who thought she was losing her husband's affection went to a seventh daughter for a love powder. The mystery woman told her:

"Get a raw piece of beef, cut flat, about an inch thick. Slice an onion in two and rub the meat on both sides with it. Put on pepper and salt and toast it on each side over a red coal fire. Drop on it three lumps of butter and two springs of parsley and get him to eat it."

The young wife did so, and her husband loved her ever after.

The Magnetic Poles.

The consensus of scientific opinion is to the effect that the magnetic poles are not stationary. This conviction is based on the fact of the variation of the magnetic needle, which leads to the thought that the magnetic poles have a slow motion around the geographical poles. The subject is a mysterious one and constitutes one of the many as yet unsolved problems in terrestrial physics.

At a Last Resort.

After being unsuccessfully to open the door, one small boy turned to his brother and said:

"I'll go in. None of these boys'll get in."

"All right," said Jim resignedly. "I'll have to wait till mother comes home and ask her for something for being good boys."

Spiteful.

"Yes," said the engaged girl. "Dick is very methodical. He gives me one kiss when he comes and two when he goes away."

"That's always been his way," returned her dearest friend. "I've heard lots of girls comment on it."

Thus it happens that they cease to speak to each other.

Boston Man Tells His Experience With "Fruit-a-tives".—Now Made in U.S.A.

MR. JAS. J. ROYALL, S.S., "Boston", Central Bldg., Boston, Mass., April 26th, 1914.

"For three years, I was troubled with Constipation. At times, the attacks would be very severe, accompanied by Dizziness and Violent Headaches. I took medicine and laxatives the whole time, but as soon as I discontinued the treatment, my bowels would refuse to move. Last October, I went to Montreal and there heard of 'Fruit-a-tives'. I used one box and the results were so pronounced that I bought two dozen boxes. I continued using 'Fruit-a-tives' and noticed a decided improvement. I gradually reduced the dose from three to one tablet every three or four days until the twenty-four boxes were finished when my physical condition was perfect."

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. All dealers or sent by Fruit-a-tives Co., New York.
