Of Interest to Farmers

ALLEGANY-STEUBEN AYRSHIRE BREEDERS TO ORGANIZE A CALF CLUB

Owing to the splendid success achieved by the Allegany-Steuben Ayrshire Club and the ever increasing interest taken in this popular breed, it has been decided to carry out the Calf Club work. The Hornell Fair Association offers special premiums for Calf Club calves and the leading banks of the two counties will furnish generous special prizes. After the Club is organized, it will be entirely supervised by the Junior Project Department of the State School of Agriculture at Alfred.

Every farm-boy or girl of the ages of ten to eighteen years is eligible to participate in this Calf Club. Doubtless the demand for membership will exceed the supply of calves so we take this way of giving every worthy boy and girl in these two counties an equal opportunity. It will be a case of first-to-apply first to be accepted.

We assure you this Calf Club will be promoted along entirely new lines and there will be positively no partiality shown. Boys and girls, you will not be obligating yourselves in any way by writing for our new Calf Club plans. If you are interested write at once. Do not let the lack of ready money worry you either for we have a plan for helping you which will not cost a cent extra. It will only involve a small charge for interest at the regular rate and a charge for insurance. Write at once. Do not delay. Irving M. Jones, Alfred, N. Y.

EGG SHIPMENT LOSSES SHOW BIG DECREASE

Damages in 1921 Nearly Million Dollars Less Than in 1920, Express Company Officials Say

That the loss and damage in egg shipments decreased from $1,267,229.87 in 1920 to $375,000 in 1921 was one of the most striking facts presented by J. H. Butler, manager of the loss and claim department of the American Railway Express Company, in an address before a Farmers' Week audience at the State College of Agriculture at Ithaca last week. This saving was brought about by education and co-operation in proper shipping.

"We consider it highly preferable that claims in connection with shipments of poultry, eggs, etc., be entered by shippers," he said. "A claim indicates that something is wrong with the manner of shipping, with the service, or in the operation of the service. Shippers of poultry and poultry products should get first-hand information regarding the causes of claims on their shipments. They should not be satisfied to have the receivers file claims on their account, but they should find out what caused the loss or damage and what action should be taken to prevent a recurrence.

"Commission men enter these claims, but do not in many cases feel disposed to inform the shipper just how his packing contributed to the loss or damage. If the shipper handles the claim, these facts are developed and he is benefited thereby.

Proper Packing Needed "The proper preparation of shipments is vitally important. It is not a mere whim of the carrier, but it is a real factor in the success of the business of the shipper and in the determination of prices.

"If eggs are sent to market in old cases with old fillers, some damage is very likely to occur regardless of careful handling. Shipments then reach destination in no condition to bring the highest prevailing price.

"Poultry shipped in old coops or overcrowded coops cannot reach market in first class condition. The shipper has the right to expect reasonably safe handling by carrier, but he should not expect the carrier to perform the impossible. The shipper should take into consideration all the facts and factors connected with ordinary handling, and should select markets which will not involve too much handling."

MINERALS IN VEGETABLES

"Don't ever throw away a bunch of spinach," says the Happy Health Calendar. "It has too much iron in it." The vegetables which are especially rich in iron include all those whose leaves are eaten, except lettuce. Fair amounts are present also in asparagus, cabbage, sweet corn, white potatoes and turnips. The iron in vegetables is believed, moreover, to be in a form especially adapted to body needs. We desire no sand in vegetables, tho we sometimes get it in spinach which has not been well washed, but we may obtain lime, to stiffen our back bones, in the leafy vegetables, in okra, rutabagas, cabbage, carrots and parsnips. Phosphorus is not so abundant in vegetables but is found in fair amounts in cabbage, dandelions, spinach, kohlrabi and parsnips. All three of the minerals named are furnished by dried beans and peas.

To-day's want ads will be answered in person and by letter, by all sorts of alive people — and most of these will be glad they didn't overlook

After all the only feed cheap enough to make our dairies pay is pasture, for a part of the year at least. Keeping them productive is worth while and not so difficult; ask for bulletin E. 46 from the State College at Ithaca.

Since manure is favorable to the development of scab in potatoes, good growers more and more are applying the manure to the grain or grass crops in rotation, and fertilizing the potatoes liberally with commercial fertilizer.

SIGN-BOARDS ON THE UP-ROAD

JOURNEY'S END

Shall it be Uphill always, Master The Road that winds afar? Yea, by this Road I, too, climbed, comrade, To My Star. Is there a Tavern waiting, Master, When I reach journey's end? Yea, there's a bed and bread, my comrade, And a Friend. Will the Good Host have welcome, Master, Although I journey late? Yea, there's a lamp to guide all travelers To the Gate. But, see I am a beggar, Master, Behold my empty pack. Thou bringest here best riches, comrade, In thy lack. Yea, but my clothes are soiled, my Master, I should make Thee a shame. Ah, so, those white-robed folk, my comrade, Dragged came. No, let me dwell outside, my Master, My wasted years, my sin. Who bringeth contrite heart, my comrade, Entereth in. Hark, how the people sing, my Master, Theirs' not my darkened days. They came up through great sorrow, comrade, To their praise. See how His Face is dazzling, Master, And I am stained with mire. Yea, but that Light, my comrade, is Love's Cleansing fire.

Kipling calls those folk masters of modern business has become christ- literature whose words live in the corridors of the soul.

Jesus is the supreme one of all thinkers by this test. His words have been the foundations and walls and beauty of more buildings — of all kinds — wood, brick, gold, soul, creeds, charters, than may be computed.

We are words — ideas — made flesh and substance.

In Atlanta, Ga., the other day, a business man was made president of a large concern. It should not be, but it is a matter of rather large comment, that this business concern operates according to the religion of Jesus Christ.

How extraordinary that the world has been so long finding out that the Golden Rule is, and it only is Business. Any method of running business that does not operate on fair play is not business.

I had occasion not long ago to say this before 150 business men of a certain city, and the that was immediately approved. The heart of office is situated. The new procedure places applicants for rural carrier appointments on the same basis as applicants for postmaster appointments, so far as the matter of residence is concerned. The civil service commission states that this change has been made after due consideration and meets with the approval of the Post Office Department.

Finding a buyer for your property is a task of importance — and may require some patience and persistence in advertising. Even if it does, it's worth it — and success is merely a matter of sticking to it.

LOCAL RESIDENTS WILL GET RURAL CARRIER JOBS HERE AFTER

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7. — The principle of the local resident for the local job is further carried out by a ruling of the civil service commission today. Hereafter, the commission states, only persons who have their residence within the delivery of the office in which the vacancy exists will be certified for rural carrier appointment. Heretofore certification has been made to eligibles residing within the delivery of any office in the entire county in which the vacancy
