Beautiful Sea Shells.

It is a very pleasant hobby for those people who live by the sea to gather on suitable shores the delightful sea shells that lie on the beach among the pebbles or glitter beneath the water. No understanding of conchology is necessary to appreciate the beauty of the shells that invite attention. There is none more delightful to look at for perfection of design than the nautilus, which reminds us vividly of the illustrations to the stories of Charles Dickens. The painted top, the Venus, and lace sea shells are equally attractive. Many artists have derived direct inspiration from these little wonders. The fan tracery in European architecture must have owed its origin to the fan shells, with their exquisite markings. The colors frequently seem to have been put on by hand, so geometrically do they encircle the tiny home.—Christian Science Monitor.

DESERTER IN CUSTODY

A man tramped into Friendship last week and going to the home of an officer gave his name as Frank J. Moran, his home town as Coudersport, Pa., and stated that he was a deserter from the Marine Corps of the U. S. N. since August, 1920, and requested that he be taken in charge and sent back to his company.
Moran claimed he had served in the Marine service for 12 years with a perfect record, his last enlistment being in May, 1917, for four years. On August 10th he was off on leave and failed to report for duty on time. Afraid of the consequences he kept on traveling until he dared not return. He has wandered all over the country, several times just escaping detection. Coming near his home he then realized he could not return as his family knew of his desertion. Facing this humiliation and worn-out and un-nerved by the strain, he decided to return and accept his punishment. The officer took him into his home, gave him food and after he had rested and made comfortable and clean summoned the sheriff from Belmont who took him into custody.

RED CROSS RESCUED 600,000 FROM DEATH

Spent $1,200,000 for Relief of Famine Sufferers in China Last Year.

To help overcome conditions of acute distress in five famine stricken provinces of Northern China, where millions of persons were affected by an unprecedented shortage of food, the American Red Cross during the last fiscal year spent more than $1,200,000, $1,000,000 of which was contributed directly by National Headquarters and the remainder by various groups interested in the welfare of China.
Through the wide relief operations thus made possible it is estimated that more than 600,000 famine sufferers were saved from starvation.
To the end that similar prompt relief measures by the organization may always be possible the Red Cross is asking continued support by the American people by universal renewal of membership at the Annual Red Cross Roll Call, November 11 to 24.
The method of relief employed by the American Red Cross in its operations in China was particularly effective, for in addition to saving hundreds of thousands of lives it provided China with more than 900 miles of permanent roads that are sorely needed to prevent a recurrence of famine. At one time the Red Cross employed 74,000 Chinese workmen, paying them in food for themselves and dependents, this food being brought in from Manchuria and elsewhere.
