NEWCOMERS LEAD IN DAIRY RECORDS

First Place in Butter Fat and Second in Milk Go to Erie County Improvement Association

First in the state in butter fat and second in milk production are the records made by a new member of a comparatively new dairy improvement association, according to the report for February just compiled at the State College at Ithaca. The Alden-Akron dairy improvement association in Erie County carries off the honors for the state in its third month of work.

Breeding and Feeding Pay. A Holstein-Friesian, owned by F. W. Zwilling, a new member of the association, produced the most butter fat, 96.4 pounds, and was second in amount of milk, 2,461 pounds. The agent attributes Mr. Zwilling's success to careful feeding and persistent breeding. Second in butter fat was a grade Holstein, owned by Arthur Lelaney of the Livonia, Livingston County Association. She produced 95.8 pounds of fat. E. H. Witter, of the Western Allegany County Association, owned the third highest cow in production of fat, another Holstein-Friesian credited with 92 pounds for the month.

Tons of Milk Produced. In amount of milk produced, a Holstein owned by Luther Carrier of the Oswego County Association, led the rest with 2,552 pounds to her credit. Zwilling's cow was second and another of the same breed owned by E. E. Franklin of the Western Broome County Association, was third with 2,442 pounds of milk. The agent of this association reported that Jim Donovan of Sun Briar Court, produced milk at a cost of $1 a hundred pounds and kept his cows in fine shape.

During March, two new dairy improvement associations started operations, bringing the total number to 31 in 24 counties of New York. One of the new organizations is in Chautauque County and the other in Herkimer County.

NEW YORK SOILS NEED NO SULPHUR

Altho sulphur is absolutely essential for plant growth, there is no evidence of any deficiency having developed in connection with New York agriculture, say the soil men at the State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, referring to recent mention of inoculated sulphur and agricultural gypsum in some parts of the state. Eastern soils are about as well supplied with total sulphur as with phosphorus, whereas the normal cropping system requires less sulphur than phosphorus.

Have Sulphur Anyway. Since it is brought to the soil by rain and is contained in both farm manure and the commercial fertilizers commonly used, the present system of soil treatment leaves no need for sulphur as plant food. Further experiments may justify its use under certain conditions as a fungicide and may lead to the use of sulphur with rock phosphate instead of acid phosphate, but there seems no reason for advocating sulphur as a plant food in New York agriculture, say the specialists.

GARDEN TALKS

"Well Begun, Half Done" is Doubly True in the Garden. The Small Garden.

Have you more land than time or more time than land? The amount of land and time available for gardening largely determines the methods and the point of view of the gardener. If your land is limited and your leisure hours relatively plentiful, as is often the case in town, be an intensive gardener, say the specialists at the State Agricultural College at Ithaca. Have your soil as fertile as possible, space the rows closely and try to follow one crop by another the same year. Radishes grown between rows of parsnips or carrots will be gone before the latter crops need the space. Lettuce may be grown between cabbage rows and even between cabbage plants in the row. Onion sets may be thrust into the ground wherever there is a vacant space and used early as green onions. Peas and early turnips may be removed in time for late snap beans in most parts of the state. The longer your growing season, the more possibilities there are for these "double plays."

The Large Garden. The gardener who has plenty of land at his disposal may well scorn the "fussy" ways of the small garden man. He will do well to have long straight rows spaced far enough apart for horse cultivation or at least for easy wheel-hoe work, and he need give little attention to the conservation of space by intercropping and succession cropping. Broadly speaking, the same distinction holds between the garden of limited area and the farm garden which holds between European and American farming — one seeks the greatest possible production from a given area, the other maximum production from a given amount of time and labor.

USING ALFALFA HAY LOWERS FEED COST

Problems of Cheaper Protein and Summer Succulents Important This Spring — April Rations Suggested

Because they realize that alfalfa hay is now the cheapest source of protein, careful feeders are paying particular attention to the seeding of alfalfa this spring, according to the State Agricultural College at Ithaca. Alfalfa Lowers Cost. Of late years the value of alfalfa for protein has been lost sight of somewhat because high protein feeds were often much cheaper to feed than low protein materials, and it was a question of using all the protein in the ration one dared. Now the problem is to get protein cheaper, say the feed men, and the possession of a good barn full of alfalfa hay with corn silage makes the feeder of any kind of stock mighty independent.

Ration For April. The ration recommended for April is made up of 300 pounds wheat bran 300 pounds ground oats, 400 pounds hominy, 700 pounds gluten feed 200 pounds cottonseed meal 43% 200 pounds oil meal. The amount of oats, bran and hominy in this mixture could be increased from 50 to 60%, or even 80%, and the amount of high protein feeds decreased accordingly if one had alfalfa hay to feed.

TAKE GUDE'S PEPTO-MANGAN

It is the Safe and Reliable Tonic Used by Physicians For 30 Years

There are "new styles" even in medicines. A new "fad" comes, is popular for a while, and then fades out of public view. A remedy that has stood the test for thirty years must have remarkable merit and cannot be called a "fad." Such is Gude's Pepto-Mangan, originated by Dr. A. Gude over a quarter century ago, which has helped many thousands of people back to good health by improving the blood. Pepto-Mangan is an iron tonic. It contains iron in a special form easily absorbed by the system. It puts color into the lip and cheeks and improves the entire body by improving and enriching the blood. It is sold by druggists in both liquid and tablet form. If you want to be well and strong and look fine and healthy, take Gude's Pepto-Mangan. Advertisement.
