REAPING AS WE SOW

AS a people we Americans are too indifferent to matters of national concern.

We are indifferent because we do not enter actively into the discussing and shaping of such affairs.

This trait is not found only in the Republican party, or in the Democratic party, or among any certain class of people.

If things don't go to suit us in Washington we roar chestily for a day or two, and then forget all about it.

Because of this weakness we suffer from appalling waste and extravagance in our national life.

And, above everything else, we see crime rampant thruout the country, and taxation scraping the lining of the skies.

We reap as we sow, and the yield is no more than we sow.

EASY ON THE BRAIN

OCCASIONALLY we hear of a brainy man who reads action stories in order to divert his mind from the strenuousness of his career.

Stories founded upon the wild and woolly days of the early West appeal to him. The heroes are genuine "he men," with oceans of red blood in their veins, and he thrills as he reads of their marvelous exploits.

He should read the Bible.

No writer of modern or other fiction has ever been able to duplicate the wonders that are told in that book.

No human mind has ever been able to fully grasp the import of the deeds recorded therein.

It is the only book that has ever been written that holds its own against the lapse of an eternity of time.

Even brainy men will find rest and relaxation in reading of the glories that are told in the Book of Books.

Try it.

GIVE 'EM HELL

THE government is said to place the blame for the latest coal strike on the shoulders of the operators of Western Pennsylvania.

Some one is guilty. Some one is responsible for this great strike which may cause endless distress to an entire nation of people.

If the government is satisfied that certain parties are to blame, then those parties, regardless of who they may be, should be punished.

Operators are entitled to a fair profit, and miners are entitled to a reasonable wage. Neither side has a right to "hog it all."

Route the culprits out and give 'em hell.

A FITTING END

SOME people loaf themselves to death. They are chronically lazy, lacking in ambition, and without sufficient energy to take the daily exercise that nature requires in order to keep the body functioning in normal condition.

Their intellects become dulled, their minds become clogged, their joints become stiff, and the red blood of youth turns to the water of premature old age.

They just drift and sink, and are promptly forgotten.

A fitting end to a worthless career.

Say it with dollars. We like to hear you talk.

Help yourself by helping others who are willing to help you.

The fellow who talks of himself seldom finds an opportunity to talk.

Keep moving forward. Everything behind has been picked clean.

Some people claim that our prohibition law will keep us out of war. No foreigner would ever risk guzzling our booze.

Life is full of joy to those who are willing to forget their sorrows.

Why should we refer to them as jazz hounds? Most of them are only pups.

Never threaten to lick the fellow who calls you bad names. Do it instead.

Why continue to refer to them as murderers? The art has been reduced to such a science they are entitled to a more aristocratic designation.

THE LATEST FAD

WE make rapid strides in this country, and as soon as one stride is completed we start off on another.

A year or two ago the aeroplane was the whole thing. Now it is but an incident in our daily life. It has ceased to thrill.

The all absorbing topic to-day is the radiophone, the latest wireless invention.

You know all about it — how you place an instrument in the house, stick a receiver up in the top of a tree, and then sit back and listen to market reports or a concert being given a thousand miles away.

Even the officials of the University of Wisconsin have got the bug, and are arranging to educate the public by wireless.

It's a great stunt. What will the next one be?

JUST LIVING, THAT'S ALL

SOME people mean well, but never do well.

They are always intending to do something that never gets done.

Instead of taking a just pride in accomplishment, they are continually humiliated by the inadequacy of their excuses.

They do not even drift with the tide of humanity, but are simply switched into the eddies of life.

For them there is a beginning, and an end, but nothing in between.

They have neither true friends nor bitter enemies, because they do nothing to inspire either friendship or enmity.

They are nameless, because no one is sufficiently interested to name them.

They live — but only the Lord knows how.

IS IT LOOKS ONLY?

A banker sued his wife for divorce because she spent $3,500 a year for cosmetics.

If she hadn't used the cosmetics to make herself beautiful he probably would have tired of her sooner than he did.

When a man becomes bald headed and dignified he can discard his aging wife and go out and pick up a "chick-en," one who does not require cosmetics to put the bloom on her rounded cheeks.

But not so the woman. When age overtakes her she must travel along with others who have passed the meridian of life.

There are no young bucks available for the woman who has lost her charm.

WE KNOW 'EM

WE often wonder why candidates can't act like normal human beings, or at least just as they do before they acquire an itch for office.
