FERTILIZING OF CORN DEPENDS ON PURPOSE

Whether fertilizer for corn should be applied in the row or hill or broadcast depends on whether its principal use is for that one crop alone, or as a part of a definite system of soil management, where it is intended to benefit the whole rotation, according to the State Agricultural College at Ithaca.

The latter method gives the maximum residual effect. When it is used the fertilizer is distributed uniformly and incorporated with the surface inch or two of soil. On the other hand there is no doubt, the college says, that with a light application, say of 200 pounds or less to the acre, of a mixed fertilizer, greater benefit will result on the corn crop itself when the application is in the row or hill.

HEALTH TALKS

No. 4

Thousands of women suffer chagrin from blemished, pimply faces, as well as systemic distresses caused by impure blood—before they appreciate the need of helping nature keep their internal body clean. Delicate female organism demands utmost discretion in aiding digestive or eliminative functions.

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy—a doctor's own medicine—is safely used; gentle, but effective in its stimulative, laxative and purifying action; is agreeable, convenient, and must be taken independently. Ask any good druggist for—
