

SIGN-BOARDS ON THE UP-ROAD

Hamilton B. Williams

Friendship is the word of modern civilization. Henry Churchill King, President of Oberlin College, is an outstanding among thinkers who are serving the age by restating the truths of religion in terms of democracy. Kings and kingdoms and words of class are utterly incapable of holding the new wine of modern civilization. God never was a king — that was simply a primitive way of expressing a concept of relationship. God always has been, always shall be, a Friend. The development of democracy has necessitated restatement of relationship-concepts. If democracy is superceded by a better system the defining words will have to be invented to express a higher relationship. Modern psychology finds friendship fairly expressive of the attitude civilized folk hold to this newly discovered world of people. One-half of the world are children mentally, morally, spiritually. Friendship on God's part and man's is the privilege. The Prodigal Son was not so reprobate — a simply undeveloped. He came to himself and turned home. Chances are he was always in need of supervision. The father recognized and provided for the situation. Jesus anticipated the 20th century's necessary paternalism in the social and industrial and political life. The Samaritan story deals with the exploited in a friendship fashion. If the personality of Jesus accounts for the spiritual expansion of this age He would be, if fleshed, the most modern of moderns. The words of to-day would be His words. He was a radical 19 centuries ago. He would be radical to-day. Kingdoms would be shelled for community even as He shelved the clan-Jehovah for the universal Father. Father names God. Friend is the necessity of Fatherhood. All primitive, exclusive, clanish, punitive, occasional, arbitrary, Mechanical ideas of God are swept out by the torrential idea of a Father. Friendship interprets the highest reach of human life — God is Friendship.

Wherever stands a friendly soul, there God is smiling through the open door. Where swiftly on joy-sandaled feet go kindly souls Another runs with them The feet of those who bring good news to folk how beautiful they flash in the sun. God keeps His Gardens that world's gentlefolk may lack no garlands for the world. They know who bow before the human soul why God might die to lead a hand. They know who seek the House of Broken Hopes, the Hearth of Gray Dreams why God Christ Climbed His steep Hill and made the ways straight for all who dare the utter most roads. He has God's eyes who sees beneath the mar and stain a soul — waiting the dawn.

MUST NEVER BE OFF GUARD

Men Who Train or Care for Wild Animals in Circuses Cannot Afford to Relax Vigilance.

There's a saying in the circus zoo when a new attendant, disregarding the warnings of old-timers, becomes careless while working about the cages. "Here's a new animal trainer," the veterans will remark, as they watch the fresh helper petting a tiger or a leopard. They know that it is only a matter of a few days until the "cat" will lash out with its claws unheeded and rip the arm of the newcomer. They also know that nothing will teach this type of attendant the alert carelessness necessary in handling wild beasts but an ugly scratching. They can only hope that the man's hurt will be slight. He must have a lesson. He must realize that all animals are dangerous at all times, even if some are more so than others. One often hears it contemptuously remarked, writes Frank Braden, in Popular Mechanics Magazine, that such and such a beast in an act is "just a mungy, toothless old lion," but often that mungy, toothless old lion, because of its rage, is more dangerous than its mates in their prime. The old lion is testy, and no matter what its years, it carries a wallop backed by ripping claws. Some of the world's foremost trainers, working with the same beasts in acts year after year, have paid for the slight carelessness that familiarity with and affection for their jungle pets have insistently brought about. As an unexpected diversion—the overturning of a pedestal, for instance—the animals have leaped upon their mentor, but with the element of complete surprise absent, no real wild-animal expert is caught completely unaware by a beast's leap.

KNEW ALL ABOUT "LA GRIPPE"

People of the Eighteenth Century Suffered From its Attacks as Do Those of Today.

Amid all our sufferings from the "grip," "Russian influenza," "blitz katarrh," "Spanish influenza," "flu," et id omne genus, the name and writings of Sebastian Mercier are too much forgotten. In his picturesque "Tableau de Paris" is to be found the following passage on the "grippe," written in 1787, which might have been written today:

"Almost every year toward the middle of November occur catarrhal indispositions caused by the presence of a humid and cold atmosphere and fog which suppress transpiration. Many die of it, but the Parisians, who laugh at everything, call these colds the 'grippe,' the 'flut,' but these colds three days later is himself 'gripped' by it and goes down to the grave."

"Passing from old rooms and theater halls to the open air makes this suppression of the transpiration almost unavoidable. The new fashion of wearing long cloaks is excellent. It gives protection against the cold. Taking good exercise is even a surer remedy. The women who are compelled to wait some time for their carriages—those charming, delicate women I see shivering along the staircases and porticoes—should consider that their petticoats are not sufficient to protect them against mishaps."

What would he have said to the abbreviated skirts of today?

Radio in Yosemite.

Yosemite's granite cliffs rise straight into the air for 3,400, 4,000 and occasionally 5,000 feet. Yosemite valley is literally a "hole in the ground," and some wireless experts declared local conditions were entirely against successful operation of a wireless station there. Nevertheless, valley folk recently have been getting news reports, weather predictions, market quotations and lots of good music right out of the air, with no other aerial than wires strung between two of the giant trees with which the valley floor is forested.

Edwin J. Symmes, of Alameda, put in the first wireless set for his own amusement and has received messages from several score damped and undamped wave stations, including Honolulu and Catalina Island. Government authorities also have put in a station, which will be used to keep in touch with the outside world.

France Encourages Aviation.

France recognizes the value of air travel and its importance to the future. She has budgeted 154,575,000 francs for civilian aviation for the year 1922. Naturally, Paris is the great center of French commercial aviation, the Le Bourget airfield in the suburbs taking on the appearance of a busy railway terminal. Airplanes to and from London (five departures daily) and Brussels carry the largest number of passengers.

MR. MERCHANT

Do you realize the importance of getting your advertising copy prepared early? You know our old friend procrastination. He's a cousin to the cow's tail. Why follow, when you lead? Supposing all your customers left their shopping in your store until an hour before you were closing up at night, what would happen? You know. It would make great confusion, you couldn't give service and your customers would leave the store dissatisfied. Well, in a way, that's what you often ask the newspapers to do. You wait until the ninth hour to prepare your copy and when it reaches the office you expect the compositors to do two hours' work in one. It can't be done. The result is that your advertisement is slapped together in great haste with a chance for errors and without proper display. It can't be otherwise. Stop that old habit of putting off till the last day, the last hour and the last minute to send your copy to the newspaper office. Get it out early when you have time to think and prepare it properly. Then send it to the newspaper office two or three days ahead. That will give the newspaper time to prepare your advertisement properly. You can see the logic of it. It will mean better advs., better service and better results. That's what you want. That's why you advertise. Give the newspaper a chance. Apply the Golden Rule.
