THE DAY THAT NEVER DIES

NO DAY of the Christian calendar is on a par with that of Christmas, but next to it the Fourth of July is the one most indelibly fixed in the minds of all American people.

It signifies LIBERTY, and liberty is our most cherished inheritance, bequeathed to us by our sturdy forefathers and maintained by our own strength and determination.

July 4th is a great day for flag-waving, speech-making, and general jollification. It is our method of signifying our undiminished admiration of and gratitude to the heroes of 1776 who won imperishable fame by freeing our struggling colonies from the oppressive rule of a foreign king.

Great events of history become dim in the minds of men as time flies on, but Independence Day remains ever green in memory and the deeds of its creators never die.

Attention, Americans! Right hand, Salute!

Step lively or be stepped upon. Love may be blind, but it knows how to feel.

Life, for some, is what they don't make of it.

'Tis a wise speaker who knows when to keep still.

Life is a long dream of things that never materialize.

The fellow who heads the procession never lags behind.

A vain man is fortunate. He doesn't have to admit it.

Keep moving. The world won't stand still and wait for you.

Keep in touch with the world if you don't want to be "touched."

After all, wisdom is nothing but understanding put to good use.

Before pointing an unloaded gun at your friend first try it on yourself.

Never believe all that another tells you, especially if he calls you a d. f.

The fellow who knows it all has little knowledge to impart to others.

Even a noisy tongue serves a good purpose. It proclaims an empty head.

Humorous speakers are generally experts at letting us know when to laugh.

Life consists of a lot of things that we think we know and a few that we do.

Speak of the devil, and half of the town wonders if you are becoming personal.

Get all the enjoyment possible out of life. It may have to last you thru the next.

Speak well of your friends if you don't want them to tell the truth about you.

The man who receives his just rewards here below generally does a lot of beeping.

Yes, the world owes you a living, but it expects you to get out and grub for it.

Keeping your best foot forward sounds good, but alternating is what gets you there.

The events of the night before generally stand out most forcibly the day following.

Join the procession, even if you can't do anything more than swing omits coastals.

America is rolling in wealth, but a lot of its citizens are not doing any of the rolling.

Well filled pocketbooks are often like some heads. There is nothing of value in them.

The truth should always be told, but sometimes it is safer to let the other fellow do the telling.

It is quite proper for the punishment to be in proportion to the crime, but the important part is to have it overtake the criminal.

THE WHO'S AND THE WHAT'S

EVERYBODY talks of the whys and wherefores, but not always do we consider the who's and the what's.

In agitating for local improvements the most vital of all considerations are WHO will get the benefit and WHAT will be the results.

These are important questions which should be uppermost in our minds. They are questions which should be satisfactorily answered before any action is taken.

Let us continue to strive for the upbuilding of this community, but in the crystallization of our efforts let us go beyond the whys and the wherefores. The who's and the what's are of greater import.

ONLY A TRIFLE

SOME days have passed now since J. P. Morgan and his syndicate of bankers refused to sanction a German loan, yet it has failed to create even a ripple of excitement, either of chagrin or relief.

The reason for our sublime indifference. The amount was too insignificant. Only a paltry billion dollars, or three hundred billions of German marks at the present rate of foreign exchange.

Trifles never bother us.

ONLY a few short years ago the "shirt sleeve" diplomacy of our American diplomats abroad was secretly ridiculed by foreign nations.

Now it is openly emulated by the wisest of them all. The pygmy invariably envies the giant who has grown beyond his reach.

Don't stand still as the years go by. You can never catch up.

ANDOVER'S CONEY

Claude Eldridge has rented the ground by the Andover Lake (The Pond) and is fitting it up for use of the public. He will have boats to rent, and ice cream and soft drinks will be on sale on the grounds.

The opening day will be next Sunday, July 2nd. Everything will be done for the pleasure and enjoyment of those who care to take advantage of this opportunity.

Mr. Eldridge will soon have things in shape so that picnic parties and others can avail themselves of a fine shady place for an outing near home. Boats will be rented at reasonable rates at any time.

Stores that advertise a good deal "happen" to be the stores where shoppers find the greatest values. If it were not so, these stores would have little occasion to advertise.

AS THE EDITOR SEES IT

THE most desirable of reputations are the easiest to lose. It requires years of correct living to build them up, and but an incautious moment to destroy them.

Too many men seem to forget that they are judged not by what they really are, but by what they seem to be. Their actions and their words are the only things that count.

The little things of life are of vast importance. They indicate the character that lies beneath the polished surface, and it is from them that the most lasting impressions are formed.

A sanctimonious countenance is not indicative of a clean heart. It is a cloak under which many disreputable deeds are performed.

A cheerful smile, a truthful tongue and an honest heart are all that any person requires.

Character is built from these, and reputation is but the aftermath of character.

QUITE a discussion is springing up as to who is "our richest" man. Some hand the palm to John D., while others claim that Henry Ford is entitled to the blue ribbon.

One enterprising writer suggests that the question be settled by reference to their tax receipts. But that would only serve to increase the doubt. Tax receipts are very deceptive and misleading.

There is, however, one way in which a solution to the problem could be found. Let them emulate Andrew Carnegie and give away their wealth. Then the ribbon could go to the one who coughs up the most.

DON'T be too hasty in condemning the fellow whose conscience troubles him. Possibly he is to be admired.

Wherever there is a normal mind there is supposed to be a conscience. But many of them do not function. Some, apparently, have even ceased to exist.

A conscience is a troublesome thing when it is in good working order. It is forever interfering with some long cherished plan or pet project. When we want to lull it to sleep it insists upon remaining wide awake.

Hence we kick it, and cuff it, and trample upon it until it becomes blunted and calloused from incessant abuse.

And then it droops and fades away, and we, being emancipated, proceed to prosper in the world of material affairs.

THE more a girl pulls a young man's leg while single the tighter he will draw the purse strings after marriage. It is his only method of evening up the score.

The average young man with a best girl has to cough up lively these days. He has to put up a front in order to outdistance his rivals and remain in the running.

Coughing up is his specialty, and many girls are experts in leading him up to the coughery.

But it don't pay the girl. Pulling his leg for endless treats may be great sport while it lasts, but it don't last long and it leaves a bad impression.

Even a very young man looks beyond the day when the preacher ties the knot.

Maidenhood should do no less.

A CITY exchange remarks that some towns spend more time in sounding their slogans than they do in cleaning their streets.

It is quite true, to the detriment of the towns. Glowing slogans cause the stranger to expect something out of the ordinary, and when he learns his mistake his interest ceases to exist.

Fine words on the wings of wind travel a long way, but a clean street leaves a more lasting impression.

JUDGES FOR THE CHILDREN'S COURTS

County Judges in Nineteen Counties Have Been Designated to Preside Over the Juvenile Courts

Albany, June 27.—County judges in at least nineteen counties in this state will preside over all children's courts. Up to the present time, the counties of Allegany, Chenango, Columbia, Cortland, Broome, Lewis, Nassau, Orleans, Putnam, St. Lawrence, Schenectady, Seneca, Schoharie, Sullivan, Rockland, Schuyler, Tioga, Wyoming and Yates, have notified Secretary of State John J. Lyons to that effect. The law establishing children's courts in this state went into effect May 1st.

Under a provision of the law, each county has the right to say whether or not it wishes to elect a judge to preside at children's courts, or to transfer such duties to the present county judge. This decision, made by boards of supervisors and county judges, is largely determined by the amount of business which would naturally come before a children's court. Additional salary, based upon a county's population is to be paid county judges looking after juvenile courts, this ranging all the way from $500 a year in counties with a population of 50,000 or less, to as high as $1,500 in counties having better than 150,000 persons.

McNIELL — JOYCE

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Mary's Church, Tuesday morning, at 8 o'clock, when Harriet Lucille McNieill became the wife of William Francis Joyce. They were attended by Elizabeth A. Joyce, sister of the groom, and Leo W. Hunt.

The bride wore periwinkle Canton crepe and white hat and carried white roses. The bridesmaid wore Henna Canton crepe and carried white roses.

Amid showers of rice, the bridal company left for the bride's home where a bounteous wedding breakfast was served, after which they left on a trip to western points.

They will be at home to their many friends on West Greenwood Hill.
