

Among Our Neighbors

South Hill

July 5. — The continued wet weather is a bad handicap to farmers in their work.

"The day we celebrate" was not celebrated in this vicinity, but a few of our residents motored out in the evening for the fire works and other entertainments.

John Dean and Miss Mary were Wellsville visitors one day last week.

Misses Nora and Eva McAndrew visited the farm home one day last week, and accompanied by their father, again on Wednesday, for the cherry harvest.

A party of Andover people spent the night of the 4th at the home of Steve Ordway.

P. A. Dean was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sauter, of Hornell, a few days last week.

Mrs. Edson Langworthy, of Andover, was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Rob. Dean on Thursday, their first wedding anniversary.

Miss Lenora Dean returned home from Salamanca last Thursday for the summer vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Appier and little son enjoyed an auto trip Sunday.

A number of our residents attended a barn dance at the Stout farm, in Fulmer Valley, Friday night, mine host being Simon Reisman.

Our people were indeed sorry to hear of the very serious condition of Frank Horan, whose death seems now but a matter of a short time.

Mike Casey, of Andover, spent Sunday and Monday nights at the Mingus home, where Mr. Mingus was on the sick list for a few days.

Voorhees Hill

July 4th. — The "ever glorious" and not a sprinkle of rain. No rural mail service.

Haying time is here if the rain will give the sun a chance now.

Abram Slocum and Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis drove to Almond after cherries Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Allison Baker and family attended the Baker reunion, and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Fanton, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Church and their families and Carroll Church attended the Church reunion, July 4th, at Andover.

The little Misses Ella and Carrie Lewis, of Independence, were guests of their cousin, Thelma, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Fanton entertained at dinner Sunday in honor of her sister, Mrs. Hope Brown, of Lawrence, Mich., who is visiting friends in this section.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis and Thelma attended the Lewis reunion, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Allison Baker entertained her brother from Hornell Saturday night and Sunday.

AT REST ON BARREN ISLAND

Land Where Sir Ernest Shackleton Sleeps Was Discovered by the Famous Captain Cook.

South Georgia Island, where Sir Ernest Shackleton will sleep on the fringe of the wild and frozen solitudes against which he opposed the might of a hero's will, is in about the same latitude as Cape Horn, which lies 1,250 miles westward of it.

When Captain Cook was making one of his historic voyages around the world in the Eighteenth century he happened on South Georgia Island; it is recorded. At first he thought it might be the "terra incognita Australis" he was in search of, so he went ashore and as he recorded in his diary, "took possession of the country" in his majesty's name, under a discharge of small arms.

When the great circumnavigator examined his discovery a little more closely and found it to be a mere bunch of icy mountains, he concluded that it was "not worth the discovery." Nevertheless he "called this land the Isle of Georgia in honor of his majesty." His majesty, by the way, was none other than George III.

A hundred years later the seafaring men of New England came to the conclusion that South Georgia Island was not as worthless as Captain Cook had supposed. It was a great place for fur seals. They slaughtered more than 1,000,000, virtually exterminating them in that part of the Antarctic. Then came a harvest of "elephant oil," extracted from the blubber of the sea elephant, the giant of the seal family.

If you lost it, the finder wants to find you.

WHY WE ADVERTISE

Our successful practice is largely the result of the reference and recommendation of the thousands of cases whom we have served; however, our realization of the relation between correct vision and health convinces us that there should be continual effort on our part to assist in educating the public upon this important subject.

PARIS ETCHER FOUND ARTIST

Marketed Prints Which Brought Fame to Soldier of the American Expeditionary Force.

Alonso C. Webb, the American soldier who has won sudden fame in Paris art circles by his distinctive etchings, was content to pass his prints out among his friends. One day, however, while he was having his etchings printed by the old-fashioned process called "taille douce," the printer said: "Why don't you sell these etchings?" "They're not good enough," replied Webb.

"You're crazy," said the printer; "you wouldn't mind selling them, would you? Don't you need the money?"

"Yes, God knows I need it, but I never thought of selling these things," rejoined Webb.

The old man gave Webb a note to a dealer in the Rue de Rivoli who took "on deposit" one each of five prints. The very next day Webb received a letter at his home at Bellevue, asking for three more to replace those the dealer had sold the next day.

"That must have been a happy morning at Bellevue," I remarked, somewhat stirred at this turning point in the life story.

"Not especially," Webb replied. "I'm partly Scotch and don't often get excited. I take good luck just as I take bad. I rarely even tell about good luck."

"But don't you deprive yourself of a delightful thrill?"

"The pleasure is no less in the aggregate. I take it in a quieter form; it lasts longer and there is no reaction."—Charles H. Gray in the New York Times.

NOT ENOUGH TO KNOW RULES

Successful Authors Have to Pass Very Far Beyond That Stage of the Writing Game.

"A man," said the Schoolmaster, "may know all the rules of poetry and never write a poem; know all the rules of art and never paint a picture; know all the laws of harmony, thorough bass and counterpoint and never write or sing a song that touches a man's soul and starts him drifting on gay dreams or reveries that are sad."

"The reason is that these people never progress farther than rules. Knowing rules is but the beginning. Perhaps a man cannot write without having learned certain rules, though that is debatable, but to write well, a man must have passed so far beyond rules that he does not think of them. But pardon me for speaking at such length on this subject. I was led to thinking of it by hearing so much talk of what is called 'newspaper English.'"

"You have all heard ten and women say, and giving an upward tilt to the nose or brow, 'Oh, it is newspaper English! Sometimes they say with a high air, 'Oh, no, I do not write for the newspapers. I contribute to the magazines.' Why, bless your dear hearts, the best English today is written for newspapers and much of the rottenest written in books and magazines. There is a wider and a deeper knowledge of the English language in a newspaper office than in any other kind of office."

"There are too many 'professors of English' handing out bunk to a gullible public."—Boston Herald.

Childish Observation.

"Mother, does the monkey work for the organ grinder or does the organ grinder work for the monkey?"

"It's a sort of partnership, I suppose. Why do you ask?"

"I notice the monkey collects the money."

The Lure of Summer Sports

Whether it be the links, the turf, the courts, or the water that appeals strongest—fashionably attired throngs are sure to be there.

And here you will find the accepted modes in sports wear—bewitching affairs that are decidedly youthful in their style treatments; for does not madam, who retains her interest in sports, also retain her youth?

Youthful Frocks

A glorious array of smartly fashioned frocks of shantung, crepe knit and other popular sports wear silks. Cape costume suits are also especially appropriate for any sports occasion. Prices are exceedingly moderate.

Sports Skirts

The skirt with a fringed hem of sponge or a tweed skirt find the utmost favor among fashionable women. Then there are the lustrous silk skirts in white or novelty colored effects.

Smart Sweaters

One may swing one's tennis racket or golf club fully and in full comfort, too, if one wears one of our charming sweaters. The many handsome colors make choosing a delight.

Sports Hats

The crowning touch to a smart sports costume—fluffy knitted affairs of knitted wool or perhaps a hat of ribbon, felt or wool combined with stray braid in white or colors.

Vacation Luggage

Luggage becomes the constant victim of the most arduous side of travel, conveys in appearance the character of its owner and serves in all the exigencies of the tour on land or sea. To secure Babcock quality luggage is the first step to a successful vacation.

Bathing Suits

For the dip and the sun bath after the new bathing suits have taken unto themselves a new grace and beauty. The pleated skirt effects, for instance, are very stunning. Bathing suits are priced here from $1.49 to $11.50.
