K. O. T. M. WINS FROM ALFRED

Andover K. O. T. M. Boys Pulled Sunday's Game With Alfred Bull Dogs, Out of the Fire.

The local K. O. T. M. Team pulled out of a hard-fought game with the Alfred Bull Dogs Sunday, by a grand stand finish. The game up to the sixth stood 1 to 0 in favor of Alfred. In Alfred's half of this inning they added two more tallies to their side of the sheet, giving them a three-run lead. The Andover boys then woke up, and began to show their usual "pep," that had been lacking for some reason or other in the first part of the game. "Lauty" was transformed from a spectator to a ball player and things started to boom. They succeeded in getting back the two runs they lost in the first half of the inning, bringing Alfred's lead down to one run again. The seventh inning Alfred got two more runs, but the local enthusiasm couldn't be stopped until Andover had sent three runs across the plate, breaking the visitors' lead. Alfred went out in one, two, three order in the eighth and Andover secured two more tallies, giving them a two-run lead which Alfred tried hard to overcome in the last frame, but were only able to push one man across the rubber.

Both teams played good ball and gave the spectators their money's worth.

FUNERAL OF LEROY DEMING

LeRoy Deming died Wednesday morning, at the home of David Bullard, after several week's illness with heart trouble, aged 78 years.

DIED ALONE IN ALMOND HOME

The lifeless body of Mrs. A. R. E. Montgomery, for years a well known resident of Almond, was found shortly after 6 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon in her home in that village. The discovery was made by Mr. and Mrs. George Brink of Hornell, who stopped to visit her.

According to the physicians she had been dead about three hours. The body was taken to the home of Mrs. William Leach in Troupsburg where the funeral services will be held.

Mr. and Mrs. Brink, who were friends of Mrs. Montgomery, happened to be passing thru Almond yesterday and they would stop and pay her a visit.

They rapped on the door, but received no answer, and began to investigate and found her body on the floor near a couch. One of the neighbors had been over to the house earlier in the day and she was apparently in good health at that time. She was seen again about 3 o'clock.

Death was due to natural causes. Mrs. Leach is the only survivor. An undertaker came from Troupsburg last night and took the body back with him. Mrs. Montgomery has resided in Almond for years and was very well known. She was formerly a school teacher.

NEW BUREAU OF HOME ECONOMICS

The U. S. Department of Agriculture Makes Announcement of Unusual Significance to Women

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3. — An announcement of unusual significance to both farm and city women was made today by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to the effect that steps will be taken shortly to strengthen the scientific work of the Department as it may be related to home economics. A similar statement from Secretary Wallace is being made today by Assistant Secretary Pugsley.

"Ultimately I have in view making the home economics work an independent bureau," said Secretary Wallace in his preliminary announcement. "Ranking with the other bureaus of the department, and placing at the head of it a woman of executive ability, thorough scientific training, and a broad and sympathetic understanding of what is needed to make such a bureau most helpful to the women of the country."

Work for women has grown steadily in the Department of Agriculture. In 1915 what has been called the Office of Home Economics was created as a part of the extension service. In this home economics work a great deal of attention has been given to studies of foods and how best to use them, labor-saving devices for the home, studies of dress-making and materials, etc. While work of this sort is planned primarily for the help of women on the farms much of it is equally helpful to those in moderate circumstances who must exercise economy and get the greatest value for the money spent.

The women chief of the proposed new bureau will rank with the chiefs of the other bureaus of the Department of Agriculture, attend the weekly conferences in the Secretary's office and thus bring the women's viewpoint into the general work of the department.

LIQUOR ISSUE RUN OHIO PRIMARIES

Anti-Saloon League Forces Have Stiff Fight on Hand and Organization's Edict Resented by Candidates

Cincinnati, O., July 31. — Here in Ohio, where the Anti-Saloon League first found a place in the political sun, it is beginning to shrivel under the fierce glare of popular resentment.

Candidates for one seat among the mighty (talkers) in the United States Senate, the governorship and many state legislative and local offices prattle personal opinions which they assert to be issues, but what they really think about is the 18th amendment statutory Volstead act.

Whether the 800,000 partisans of the rival parties will express satisfaction with the organic and statutory law prohibiting the manufacture, sale and transportation of portable beverages of adequate alcoholic content or demand the repeal or modification of the last named instrument is a matter of opinion, some betting and much acrimonious controversy.

The votes will show. The Ohio yeomanry and artisans appear to be very much worked up over the problem and are giving full vent to their surcharged emotions. In common with the voters in Missouri and other states who are about to register their opinions, those in the Buckeye state whose principal indoor and outdoor sports are providing presidents and yearning for light wines, and beer manifest rather more interest in that phase of the impending political contests than in any of the so-called issues of partisan fabrication.

The wet and dry issue has no legitimate place in the programs of the two parties. The voters of both sides seem to be interested in only one extraneous question: Are you for perpetuating or modifying the Volstead act to permit a more satisfactory legal kick in the national concomitants of pumperknickle, seasoned cheese and hot dogs?

That is really all there is to the primary contests in the glorious state of Ohio. The Anti-Saloon League appreciates the fact quite as much as the unorganized opposition wettling its chops in anticipation of moister days to come. To be baited in the theory spread from which it has, in drought from ocean to ocean and the Canadian and Mexican borders, is most disturbing to Colonel Wayne B. Wheeler and his winged aides.

Some of the candidates for party nomination are displaying a surprising degree of independence of dry influence and an audacious indifference to the threats of the dry leaders to whom they earlier appealed with sycophantic subservency. One Republican candidate for the gubernatorial nomination who is attracting a big figure has run up the wet skull and crossbones and defied the Anti-Saloon League to do its worst.

In an unprecedented and highly significant appeal to voters the dry league said: "This is not the year to take chances, this is not the time to waste your vote on a candidate even though he is a dry, when he has not as good a chance of winning as another candidate, for if you do you increase the possibilities of the nomination of a wet candidate."

This ultimatum is in danger of turning out to be a boomerang. Already it has provoked a howl from some of the Republican candidates who were pussyfooting on the wet and dry issues. The purpose of the league's edict was to throw the bulk of the Republican vote to Carnal Thompson, who is regarded as the administration candidate for the party nomination for governor, despite the impartially neutral position of President Harding and the party organization of which he is commander-in-chief.

association, resigned his position as he has left the service, much to the regret of all present.

Two more carriers were enrolled and Clair Rigby of Bolivar and Robert Church of this village were chosen delegates to the State Convention to be held at Canandaigua the 10th and 11th of August.

WANTS STREETS ALL PATROLLED

"Plain Bill" Got Frightened By Big Crowd on Main Street, Saturday Evening. Will Try Again.

Years ago people would say, "Can we possibly afford to keep a car?" Now it seems to be "We couldn't afford to be without a car."

Why, a car takes the place of the flower garden, also the vegetable garden, the fruit trees, the hen house, and park, yes the "little ole car" will even take the place of the old cow if you know where some farmer keeps his milk cans.

Its all very simple, you just go for a little ride, pick out your own place and along in the shank of the evening park your car by the side of the street, turn off all lights, set quiet and watch it. Everyone that sees you thinks its just another buzzing bee and pays no attention. Then when the coast is clear slip out and help yourself.

I guess that's some easier than working an old garden in the hot sun. The raiding of gardens is carried on quite frequently already this fall. The fruit and chickens will come later. Its all perfectly safe as long as you stay on the side streets, of course you won't try it on Main street, for Main street has a night watchman.

Its to bad we who live on the side streets can't afford a night watchman too.

Now I am an ignorant sort of a cuss. That's the reason I have to ask so many questions. But I am willing to learn. Won't someone please tell me if this Main street night watchman isn't paid out of the general taxes that we all pay? If he is, why is Main street the only street that gets protection? There is nothing that gets my goat so quickly as to pay for something I don't get and have anyone think I am so foolish I don't know it.

I may be getting off on the wrong foot entirely. He may patrol the whole town and I not know it, but have you ever seen him off Main street and never did. I have asked several and they all say the same.

Then again Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer, maybe you like it this way. Of course I don't know unless you tell me. Someway it don't look just right to me and I don't believe even the merchants on Main street will say they think its a square deal.

Really, you know, I don't think its so much the protection we miss as it is the pleasure. Why, if we could only look out once in awhile and see a large handsome policeman marching past, we would feel so stuck up and cityfied and the girls would be tickled they would probably all rush out and give him a nice sweet kiss— Oh, Mushi!

Now my dear girls (girls are females between the age of 29 and 99, all under 29 are children) I am so disappointed about last Saturday evening, but, when I was in the corner I looked down Main street and it was so crowded and I am so bashful, and then I remembered I didn't say which way I would go, so I thought it best to go around by Church street to the Cold Storage and back same way.

That's a long walk for an old man and I was so tired and my Geranium was wilted so went home. But cheer up, Girls, I'll make another date with you soon if you are curious.

ANNUAL FARMERS' FIELD DAY PICNIC

Carl S. Vrooman Will Be the Speaker at Island Park, Wellsville, Aug. 10th, Also Hot Ball Game.

Thursday, August 10th, is the day set aside for the farmers of this county and neighboring communities to gather for their Annual Field Day and Picnic. Definite plans have been completed to hold the Picnic at Island Park, which is one of the likeliest spots in the county for such an event.

One of the big features of the day will be an address by Carl S. Vrooman, assistant secretary of Agriculture from 1914 to 1919, secured for the occasion by the New York State Farm Bureau Federation. Mr. Vrooman has been a farmer all his life. In addition to operation of his large farm in Illinois, he has spent much time studying agricultural problems, particularly the economic side of the industry, his work on transportation, for instance, being considered as authoritative. It is certain that Allegheny county farmers will appreciate Mr. Vrooman's address.

Another interesting event of the day will be the ball game. Potter County Dairymen's League will venture across the line with a nine of sluggers for the purpose of trimming the Allegheny County League members.

The ball diamond adjoining the park will be the place and 3:00 p. m. will be the time when the balls start rolling.

Then there are games, the races and the horse shoe pitching contest, which are in charge of the County Y. M. C. A. secretary, S. F. Lester. Sound practical prizes will be given for the first and second places in these events, together with a prize for the oldest married couple, newest newly weds and the largest family. Shortly after lunch an outdoor juvenile play will be staged entitled "Little Vegetable Man," under the direction of Miss Bertha Titsworth of Alfred, cooperating with the Alfred Station Home Bureau.

The Wellsville Committee representing the Business Men's Association and the people of that village have been asked to provide the music for the day. The Wellsville Band will provide music throughout the day.

WOUNDED IN SHOULDER

Hornell Boy Playing With Rifle Did Not Know It Was Loaded

Hornell, July 30.—While cleaning rifle today at his home, No. 20 Armory place, Bruce Martz, 16 years old, accidentally shot himself through the shoulder. The rifle had a cartridge in the magazine and the boy did not know it was loaded. He was taken to the Bethesda Hospital, where it was learned that the bullet passed entirely through the shoulder joint. It was removed and the boy will recover.

BUSINESS BOOM IS NOW ON WAY

Nation-wide Survey Shows Most of Last Year's Crops Marketed — Purchasing Power of Farmer Greater.

An average total of 95 per cent. of last year's crops has been marketed, increasing the purchasing power of the farmer, and prospects for Fall crops and Fall business are reported as either excellent, good, or fair in all parts of the country, according to an article in the August number of American Industries, the magazine of the National Association of Manufacturers, by Walter L. Todd, vice president and general manager of the Todd Protograph Company, Rochester, New York.

The poll was undertaken by the company in an effort to determine the extent of the sales campaign to be conducted next year. In the instructions accompanying the brief form of questions to be answered, the salesmen were impressed with the fact that on the accuracy of the information obtained depended largely the success of an extended production and sales campaign that was contemplated.

The nature of the company's business, that of selling safety check paper and check protection devices to bankers, manufacturers and merchants doing a large annual business and with well organized means for gathering information in their territories, gave its salesmen ready access to just the sort of information desired in the canvass.

The intensive survey was directed to the task of gathering information on conditions and prospects in agriculture, manufacturing and the wholesale and retail trades, the questions being so phrased as to bring answers revealing the fundamental conditions governing each phase of the business outlined. Less than five per cent of business houses collecting the information in their territories reported trade conditions as poor and not one went on record as regarding the Fall outlook for business as anything less than fair.

The agricultural group prospects for this year's crops were reported as good by 48 per cent. of the answers; fair by 27 per cent., and excellent by 25 per cent.

HARVEST HOME

The Regular Presbyterian Harvest Home This Year Aug. 17th

held during the past week, it was decided to hold the annual Harvest Home dinner and festival on Thursday, August 17th. Inasmuch as conditions, due to the recent cyclone, render it practically impossible to have the celebration in the Grove, the dinner will be served in the Auditorium and will be up to the high standard as heretofore. During the afternoon and evening pictures will be shown in the Auditorium, under the auspices of the Harvest Home Committee. It is also expected that there will be a ball game on the Silk Mill diamond in the afternoon, and that a band will be secured to furnish the music for the occasion. The program and details of the celebration will be announced definitely in the very near future.
