

THE ANDOVER NEWS

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY J. HARVEY BACKUS & SON

Our Keynote: "If There is Not a Way, Cut a Way."

ANDOVER, N. Y. AUGUST 4, 1922.

"THE LEADING STATESMAN OF THE DAY."

Six rather commonplace, inoffensive little words and yet they have started the biggest kind of a battle in the Republican organization in New York State...

Since the resolution was made public the wires between New York and Washington have been kept at white heat with demands for explanations and explanations that do not satisfy.

Speaker Machold of the Assembly, who made the six little words famous by featuring them in the resolution, discreetly went into retirement after starting the rumpus.

While the Republican leaders of New York and Washington are up to their necks in the controversy the rank and file of the party are bombarding Republican newspapers throughout the State with requests for the reasons which prompted the State Committee's snub to President Harding.

"Never has a Republican President of the United States suffered greater humiliation at the hands of his own party," said a leading Republican merchant in New York City.

And that is the way thousands of other Republicans feel about it. As for the Democratic leaders they declare the Republican State Committee didn't have the effrontery to brag about President Harding and his administration with its record of industrial paralysis, unemployment, staggering taxation and general incompetency.

When tired of talking, give others a chance. Don't marry money, sister. Marry a fellow who has it. The latch string swings outward only to those who pull it in moderation. The straight and narrow path is too small. Most of us object to crowding.

AS THE EDITOR SEES IT

IT HAS been stated that England will cancel the war debt owed to her by France. It has been further stated that she will remit her portion of the German reparations.

This, it is understood, is conditioned upon financial and other arrangements being made whereby Germany may be enabled to weather the storm and avoid a total collapse.

Many months ago, and more recently, it was suggested by Europe that all of the allied governments cancel their war debts to each other.

But if France, Italy and the other nations of the conquering Europe meet England in the same spirit and take the action that is required to restore the stability of the world, then it would be quite proper for our government to take similar action in so far as justice will sanction.

We cannot permit ourselves to be charged with a dog in the manger attitude, neither can we be tempted to pull other people's chestnuts out of the fire.

We can afford to remit, dollar for dollar, as much as any other country, all conditions being equal.

More than this, Europe can not in justice ask.

A YEAR or two ago hundreds of thousands of our people were buying German marks, expecting to get rich quickly by buying at what was then considered the low ebb and selling out again when the rise came.

But the rise did not materialize. Instead, the price of marks is now only a fraction of what it was then. And they have either pocketed their losses or are still holding the bag.

It is not our purpose to tell people what to do with their money. That is their business — certainly not ours.

But as a loyal American citizen we feel justified in suggesting that there is no better investment than good sound American stocks or bonds.

Your money invested in American securities keeps American people employed and American business on the up grade.

When thrown to the birds it is wasted. Even they cannot eat it. Think twice before investing, once, and you will be able to retire earlier in life.

CONGRESS is still talking about the soldiers' bonus. Talk is cheap — except to the taxpayers.

Every time there is a possibility of a bill being enacted into law somebody throws a monkey wrench into the machinery.

Soon, we fear, the bill for wrenches will be greater than the total cost of the bonus.

Anyway, Congress is long on talk and short on bonus.

More trouble for the owners of agonized throats.
