

Labor Day

It is by Their Labor
That Men Live

Through labor well performed they are happy, and because of great merit in their labor they are honored.

The comforts we enjoy to-day and the privileges that are ours are legacies of labor well performed.

And for the future? It is dependent on how well we work to-day. Let's work together. This Institution invites and assures co-operation.

Reportorial

Richard McAndrew is repainting his residence on Chestnut Street.

Dr. Stewart, of Hornell, was a professional caller in town Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Kelly, of Salamanca, were Sunday callers at the home of her mother, Mrs. Ellen Regan.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Sloucom, of Paynesville, former residents of this village, recently passed their golden wedding anniversary.

Miss Neva and John Henry Coleman returned to their home in Wellsville Saturday, after two weeks' visit with Andover relatives.

The W. F. M. S. of the M. E. Church will have a variety food sale at B. C. Williams' Store, Saturday morning. Come early to avoid the rush.

Harold S. Arthur, of Watertown, was elected Grand Master of the State of New York at the recent session of the Grand Lodge I. O. O. F. in session at Albany.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Trowbridge and Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Trowbridge and family were guests at the home of Albert Trowbridge and family at Greenwood, Sunday.

The parties who broke into the cottage at the Pond several weeks ago have been located, and some arrests made. Other arrests will be made in the near future.

B. S. Brundage was taken ill Sunday and his condition became so critical that Dr. Stewart of Hornell, was summoned in consultation. Although some easier he is still confined to the house.

E. J. Atwood completed a fine oil well on the Heselon farm the past week. There was 42 feet of good sand. While the well was not a gusher, it will be a barrel producer a year from to-day, and will be a stayer, as it has the sand to keep it going.

Max Richardson came near receiving serious injuries Wednesday morning, while raising a heavy ladder. He had the ladder very near up when the round he was holding it by broke and let the ladder down on his shoulder forcing him over backward badly straining his back.

Mildred, 12-year-old daughter of John Wray of Canaseraga, was burned to death at their home, Aug. 23rd. The child's clothing caught fire from a gasoline stove. Her parent did everything possible and quickly smothered the flames, but she was burned so badly as to cause death within a short time.

Miss Emma Folsing won 5th in the 8 prizes offered by the Hornell Fair Association in the school exhibits at the Hornell Fair this week. Miss Folsing represents the Lane School District and would have ranked higher if it had not been for a lack in quantity rather than quality of exhibits.

An Association of Fillmore business-men have purchased four acres of ground to be fitted up as a public park. There will be a baseball diamond, grandstand, a tennis court, and croquet ground. Trees and shrubs are to be planted, seats provided and the grounds lighted with electricity.

HERE'S THE ANSWER TO "SIC M. TIGH"

"Plain Bill" Says Worrying Over What Girls Wear is First Symptom of Softening of the Brain

Maybe you noticed I didn't have a word to say last week. Well, I wasn't to blame. Mrs. Bill went to a party last week and heard a girl say: "Oh, I always read 'Plain Bill.' You bet he can go with me," and another one said: "Yes, 'Plain Bill' is all right. And 'Mrs. Bill' came home mad, said she was onto my curves all right and she wouldn't let me write anything for the City Dads, nor any one else. Now please girls, I know you love me, but don't say so before 'Mrs. Bill.'" She said I might answer "Sic M.," but make it short.

He wants to know how the girls are going to get their long hair back when the style changes. Leave that to the girls "Sic M." It's none of our darned business. And what remedy would I suggest for the wearing apparel in vogue at the present time? Why, that's easy. I wouldn't suggest any remedy, the present style suits me precisely. The shorter they wear them the longer I'll look. I'll admit I don't like to see a middle-aged lady 104 or more years old, prancing down the street dressed up like a girl of 44, but really it's none of my business. If it's too painful I can look the other way.

Talking about style, do you remember when the girls wore hoop skirts and then bustles? Hoops were made especially for the girls unfortunate enough to have legs put on bottom-side up, and bustles, well, I know what they wore them for, but I ain't going to tell you.

I bet a fellow had to figure some to kiss a girl who wore hoops, unless she helped a little, which she usually did, and when they wore bustles, well you never kissed them on the back of their neck, that's certain.

I had a girl once who had a beautiful form. She was a perfect sixty-five, sixty inches tall and five feet across. She didn't need hoops. You couldn't tell whether she had them on or not, and as for a bustle. Oh Lordy, don't make me laugh, I've got a lame side.

I tell you when that girl kissed you you knew you were kissed, you felt as tho you had swallowed a nice big ripe, juicy watermelon and it was going down sideways. Backward, turn backward on time in your fight, give me a watermelon just for one night. Oh mush! Never worry about what the girls wear. That's the first symptom of softening of the brain. The same kind of a girl is wearing short skirts to-day that in years back wore the hoops and bustles, the big sleeves, the thousand and one other foolish things, but no matter what she wears, she is all right and we all love her. Then again she don't wear all the fool things. I never heard she wore cuffs on the bottom of her pants and we do that. You can't buy a pair of cheap overalls without a pair of cuffs to carry around a half bushel of dirt in. But it's the style.

Yours in style,
PLAIN BILL.

AG. COLLEGE PLANNING STATE FAIR EXHIBITS

Action Displays to Feature Cornell's Contribution to Exposition Staged at Syracuse, Sept. 11-15

Plenty of action is promised in the exhibits which the State College of Agriculture at Ithaca will take to the State Fair at Syracuse this fall, according to an announcement from the extension department of the college this week. Sept. 11-16 are the dates.

As in the past, the Cornell exhibits will center in the State Institutions Building, where the big water wheel shown in operation as it produces electricity to light the farm home and barns and to operate labor-saving machinery, is likely again to be the main attraction. The wheel was shown for the first time last year, and many additions and improvements are promised for this September.

How Eggs are Shipped
Another action display which no doubt will get its share of attention is the model of the United States showing the transportation of eggs from the great producing centers to the cities where they are used and distributed. This is the same model which the poultry department exhibited at the recent world poultry congress in Holland.

The publications office will show the entrance to a farm home in winter. In the rural delivery mail box will be seen bulletins and lessons in correspondence courses which the mail carrier has just left. Through the window will be a glimpse of a cheerful interior.

The interest in the country schools just now resulting from the activities of the committee of 21, is being taken advantage of by the rural education department to show a model rural school and grounds.

Other departments which will exhibit are plant breeding, dairy industry and forestry. The junior project work has a department all to itself.
