Creeds have certain historical value, but it is life that produces the creeds. We may reject a creed, but be loyal to the spirit that produces the creed. He is most likely to lead a noble life who has the clearest vision of Truth. Sincerity in matters of faith is more to be desired than subservience to a creed or doctrine or prejudice. Life is to broad to be hemmed in by fences. The tendency of fences is to prevent progress and foster suspicion. The tendency of creeds and bigotry is to promote hypocrisy, jealousy, suspicion and malice, rather than the more abundant life that Jesus offers!
