The Way a Small Town May Come Into It's Own

appealed for patronage upon any basis except that of merit. Here is characteristic statement: "The merchants of Gridley are making a sincere effort to give you good service and the right merchandise at the right price. They expect to enjoy your trade on MERIT ONLY. They will do their best to make your visit a pleasant one, whenever you may come."

And five months later, Gridley had a well-merited Merchants' Association engaged in promoting effectively the interests of the retail merchants. Every member of the entire group was making money—and with a better volume and a better net profit than last year.

These Gridley merchants realize that the first round in the battle for success is not final victory. They are determined, however, that their little city shall not be beaten by the indifference and lack of merchandising ability of its own merchants. They are studying merchandising as never before, buying books on retailing, making frequent trips to the larger cities to study methods, show windows and merchandise display, buying etc. Every week sees change and improvement in their own stores.

Business history is filled with many illustrations of a big business located in a small town, or some man with a vision of the right merchandise, and service and price in the little village, and who undertook to give them all, and whose business, like Jack's bean stalk, grew and grew and grew, and finally landed the owner into the lap of wealth and fame.

There is no place, however small, that does not hold an opportunity for some one who has a real desire and the ability to SERVE—and real service is so rare that it always pays very large returns.

From a sleepy-eyed village of country storekeepers, Gridley is rapidly turning into one of the modern small towns of the country. And no big town can win its trade.

Healthographs

Avoid the devious sidetracks or the rosy pathway of Good Health. Wet feet may lead to other than watery grave.

"An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure."

Wear your arctics, they certainly weren't made to look at.

If sickness, unhappily, overtakes you, keep it to yourself.

Neither sneeze at another nor at "sick and accident" policy.

Many a cough has sent another person or two to the hospital or worse.

Cough at your handkerchief and send it to the laundry.

A child, exposed to a catching eye-trouble is a site for sore eyes.

More cold does not exclude or excuse good ventilation in these days of coal and gas—not so much gas.

These are only trite remarks, but timely, nevertheless.

The people who would buy what you would like to sell—or who would sell what you'd like to buy—are, of course, readers of the classified ads.

We guarantee our job printing to please.

Mate Swink of Andover has been in town the past week superintending the unloading of the bluestone for the state highway.—Whitesville News.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Lester and Mrs. Lester's mother, Mrs. Augusta Clure of Wellsville, were Christmas guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Stearns.

Franklin Cannon of New York City arrived in Andover Wednesday to pass New Year's with his brothers, James P. and John E. Cannon and families.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Stearns went to Camp Shenawanna Wednesday, to assist Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Lester as host and hostess at the Camp's New Year open house festivity.

Mrs. Eda. Shepard of Alfred, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Shepard and Mrs. A. C. Hawkins of Buffalo, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bordan of Rochester were guests at the home of Attorney and Mrs. C. L. Earley, Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Casey and Peter Pealer of Du. Bois, Pa., Patrick Casey of Susquehanna, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moran and son Jack, and Mrs. P. F. Moran of Wellsville spent Christmas with Mrs. Ellen Casey.

Under New Management

The new manager of the Auditorium, John Karacanes, took over the reins January 1st and is endeavoring in every way to give Andover people the very best there is in entertainments.

Saturday night, "Safety Last," by Harold Lloyd, a laugh-provoking comedy-drama is on the boards and is sure to give enjoyment.

Wednesday evening "The King of Wild Horses" is the attraction by Hal Roach. This is a fine production of the Western type, cowboys, good horses and a pretty love romance are featured.

This week the Auditorium has procured the very latest thing in lenses and applied them to the moving picture machines, whereby the pictures come out fifty per cent brighter. They are the Superlite lenses and are the very latest thing in the moving picture world.

Dies From Wounds

Mrs. Lee Wallace, of Canistota, who, a few weeks ago, in an attack of temporary insanity, cut her throat in a most horrible manner, died from the effects of the wounds December 23rd. Mrs. Wallace had been in ill health for a year and had just returned to her home from a hospital where she had undergone a surgical operation. Her husband and two small sons survive.

Cuba-Olean Road Open

C. P. Luther, president of the Olean Automobile Club, has announced that the Cuba-Hinsdale-Olean road is now completed and open to the public. The completion of this section of highway provides a very fine stretch of concrete road between Andover and Olean. More than half the distance is now concrete road. It will be a relief next summer not to have to detour so much when going west.

OUR CHURCHES

SEVENTH-DAY BAPTIST

Rev. Walter L. Greene, Pastor.

Sabbath Services at 2:30 o'clock; the pastor will speak. Covenant and communion services.

Sabbath School following the church service. Election of officers. Prayer meeting Friday evening; the pastor is the leader.

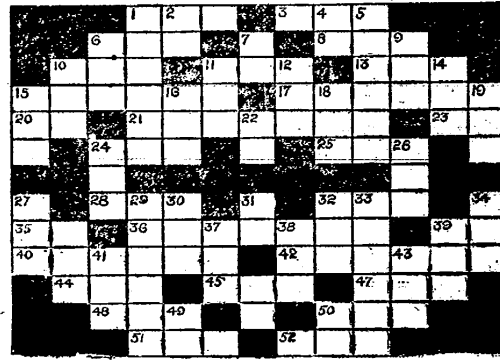

The annual church dinner and business meeting Sunday, Jan. 4th. Church and devotional funds from individual contributors should be handed to the treasurer, Miss Alice Clarke before that date.

THIS WEEK'S CROSS WORD PUZZLE

Audrey A. Foster arranged the brain twister this week and there is a word that is not well known. As a matter of fact, it would be a good test to try to find the correct words this week without the use of a dictionary.

This puzzle is an exception to those wherein a number of three letter words are used. The three letter words hid here are all common words and well known and you will observe Mr. Foster has the perfect cross-word arrangement where the words are interlocked thruout the puzzle. The answer will be in next week's paper.

Why don't you arrange a cross-word puzzle. If it is a good one and the design allows the opportunity for clever interlocking of words thruout, we will be mighty glad to publish it. Send it in this week.
