Hand Raised Butterfly

George Cook brought to the News office Tuesday, a beautiful butterfly, which he raised himself. President Watson, Andover's authority on entomology, says it is a cyropia moth, a specie of the American silk worm moth. Mr. Cook picked the this winter, took it into the kitchen cocoon from one of his plum trees and in about 30 days it came to life. The cocoon is at the News office was also the butterfly until it took French leave.

Graves of Revolutionary Soldiers

Mrs. Earl P. Saunders was in Belmont, Monday afternoon, attending a special meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution, to arrange for the marking of the graves of Revolutionary soldiers. At Elm Valley lies the body of Nathaniel Dyke, who was the first white settler in Allegany county, and a Revolutionary soldier. The daughter, Schuyler chapter, is preparing to mark his grave. Beside him lies the body of the first white child born in Allegany county.—Alfred Sun.
