

WON SUNDAY'S GAME IN NINTH

Six Hits in a Row, Takes Sunday's Game at Canadea.

Hard hitting in the last frame of Sunday's game at Canadea, put the contest on ice for the local boys. The game opened with the score six to nine in favor of the Canadea Club. The K. O. T. M. boys staged a hitting rally that lasted until seven more runs had been added to their side of the sheet. The rally consisted of four singles and two doubles. Canadea was not able to help their side of the sheet any in this half of the inning.

Howland for Andover and Adams for Canadea both pitched a good consistent game but were both hit freely. Howland was able to keep the hits scattered along thru the game better than his opponent.

Following is the box score:

All Andover people join the News in extending congratulations and best wishes to the happy couple.

Healthographs

Measles is a disease that is highly communicable. Measles is prevalent in nearby communities. There were less than half the cases the week from June 29th to July 3rd, then there were in 1924.

The earliest symptom is an apparent cold in the head, which exists two or three days before the rash. At this stage measles is most easily spread. A rash appears, behind the ears and on forehead and face, about the third day.

Measles is especially dangerous in children under three years.

Know where your children are and where they are going.

Run no risk of contacts with affected children.

Card of Thanks

The undersigned wish to express their thankfulness to the many kind neighbors and friends who assisted us by word or deed at the time of our recent bereavement. Especially are we grateful to those who furnished automobiles at the funeral.

DESCRIPTIVE OF TRIP TO THE SOUTH SEAS

L. E. Jordan Gives News Readers Interesting Account of His Trip.

We steamed up the harbor of Nassau, New Providence, the largest island of the Bahama group at seven o'clock, p. m., Wednesday, March 25th, which is our last port of call for our boat and here I am left to find my own way home, as I did not care for the ocean trip to New York, so am going from here to Miami, Florida, as it is only 225 miles, while it is 1,000 miles to New York.

The harbor at Nassau is so shallow our boat cannot enter and we were taken ashore in a tender from the port. The last one left for the boat at five o'clock, p. m., and the passengers waved us a last farewell as they sailed out to the boat. These hundreds of islands have something over 4,000 square miles, and make the Bahamas the largest in area of all the West Indian colonies. It was an island of this group, San Salvador, that was first sighted by Columbus in 1492, and is now called Wetlands-Island, and we could see the light house on the shore as we passed it on our way here.

Nassau, the capital and largest city, is built upon a coral strand and situated on a beautiful harbor. To one accustomed to the muddy waters of some of our own rivers and harbors, the trip in the tender from the Megantic to the shore in water transparent and clear as crystal with myriads of various colored fish sporting beneath the surface, presents a scene never to be forgotten. Arriving at the quay one steps ashore straight into a foreign climate and a typical tropical scene of white streets and houses and shady trees.

Among the many beautiful sights of Nassau are the beautiful sea gardens about five miles out of the city and easy accessible where thru a glass-bottomed boat may be seen the many charms and wonders of life beneath the sea. A wonderful submarine garden, filled with growing sponges and coral and tenanted with gorgeously colored fish and other marine life and ugly cuttle fish and octopus also can be seen. There are also a number of good bathing beaches where one can enjoy the clear salt water bathing and the invigorating fresh sea breezes of the ocean.

We were out in a very nicely rigged up gasoline launch with a large plate glass bottom thru which we could look down onto the bottom of the sea where one never tires of looking at nature's most wonderful scene, which no writer can describe and no artist can paint so the best we can do is to give all praise to the Creator who does all things well, and which no man can improve.

Automobile drives about the city and its outlying suburbs of Grants Town, Fox Hills Lake Cunningham, Killarney and the caves are also very popular. Directly back of the city on the summit of a hill stands old Fort Fincastle, from which an excellent view of the city can be had and where one can see for miles around the country and harbor. The time was all too short at every place we stopped to get any good idea of the beauties of this wonderful country.

The approach to the old fort is by way of the Queen's Staircase which is cut out of solid rock, a flight of 50 or 60 feet high and was chiseled out to hand. The steps are about twelve inches wide and about sixteen feet long. The walls of this cliff are nearly perpendicular and very hard. Forts Montague and Charlotte are also points of interest as one can see long distances at both places and see something different at every turn. Nassau contains many good shops where appropriate souvenirs of the island may be obtained.

There are a number of good hotels on the island, the passengers from the Megantic were entertained at the Colonial Hotel, where we were served with a very elaborate luncheon at the very moderate price of three dollars per plate. English is the standard currency but United States money goes at par and is gladly taken by all dealers.

David A. Clarkson Distributing Company, of Bay Street, Nassau, sent the following wireless: Managers White Star Line, S. S. Megantic: "The tourists on board are cordially invited to visit our warehouse while at Nassau, and inspect our stock of cigars and cigarettes, also make our offices their headquarters while in the city. Our office and warehouse is just east of the Rawlinson Square, one minute walk from the tender landing."

Here we found a very large assortment of the very best Cuban cigars at very moderate prices compared to what one pays in the United States, for the same brands, from $8 to $15 per hundred, owing to the difference in duty. Each member of a family is entitled to take into the United States 300 cigarettes or 50 cigars, duty free. Some of the veteran smokers, including myself invested to the limit.

Nassau is the very cradle of American history. Here Columbus cruised on the voyage of his discovery, here Kid, and Dampier and Olinos, came to escape the natives of Spain. Here the buccaneers, the brotherhood of the coast, made their headquarters and cloaked their deeds with riotous carnival as the scarlet hounds of a gnarled old oak. There is still an air of brooding mystery, of romance, which hangs about this quaint old city, at once modern and up-to-date and yet fraught with memories of the days that have been.

Out of the beaten path, the great majority of travelers have passed by the quaint old English city of Nassau, the principal seaport of the British Bahamas. This fact makes it doubly alluring now that the S. S. Collier County has placed it within easy reach of Miami, for which city we sail at ten o'clock tonight, and will try and find something of interest to tell you about when we get to the good old U. S. A.

The extended drought in several parts of the state has cut the June first estimate of hay still further. The crop of tame hay is now estimated at 6,145,000 tons, compared with 7,241,000 tons last year. The states of Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa have light crops of hay this year. The total production of tame hay is now forecast at 73,396,000 tons in the United States compared with 98,009,000 tons in 1924. A reduction of nearly 20,000,000 tons. Those farmers who could not market last year's large crop of hay should be able to dispose of it this year.

Many pastures had become pretty dry during June but rains the latter part of the month improved them considerably. The northern portion of the state has suffered the least from the drought. The condition figure is 88 compared with 92 a year ago and with 86 on June 1st, 1925.

Author of New Textbooks

The success of a new textbook, "Elementary Principles of Physics," published in April this year by Fuller, Browlee and Baker, is of much interest to Andover people, as D. Lee Baker, a former Andover man and graduate of Andover High School, is one of its authors. The book is rapidly being adopted by many high schools. One state has adopted it exclusively. The schools of Philadelphia are using this textbook. The authors are Robert W. Fuller, Raymond B. Browlee and D. Lee Baker, brother of E. D. and A. R. Baker of Andover.

EIGHTH ANNUAL FARMERS' PICNIC

Will be Held at Island Park, Wellsville, N. Y., Thursday, August 13th.

The eighth annual Farmers' Picnic of Allegany County will be held at Island Park, Wellsville, on August 13th. This is the big annual gathering of the farmers of the county and is a joint outing under the auspices of the Dairymen's League, the Farm and Home Bureau and the Grange.

The county picnic committee are actively engaged in making the necessary arrangements to assure the success of the eighth annual event. A committee on concessions, composed of Messrs. Claus, Schrader and Carter, has been named and they are now endeavoring to furnish the multitude that will attend this picnic with attractive events that will add greatly to the enjoyment of the annual picnic. "Scotty" Ahern, Wellsville's popular athletic director, will act on the sports committee with Messrs. Champlin, Lester and Claus and the ball game will be one of the big events of the day. Messrs. Collins, Wright and Ferry are the committee in charge of the quill tournament that has created much rivalry at the previous outings. The business men of Wellsville will contribute prizes for each of the athletic events.

The committee in charge are making arrangements to entertain at least two thousand people at this annual picnic. It was estimated that last year's attendance was about that number and there is no doubt that there will be many more at Island Park this season to enjoy this day of fun and frolic.

Among the other attractions now being planned is the selection of a speaker to address the farmers at this outing. The committee are in touch with several prominent men who are conversant with the agricultural problems of the farmers and in the next issue of the News, announcement will be made of their final choice.

The date is Thursday, August 13, and every farmer in the county is urged to make arrangements to be among those present at this annual picnic. It is not confined to the members of the above named organizations and everybody who is a resident of the county is assured a cordial welcome.

Birthday Surprise

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Orvis, on July 10th, a birthday surprise was given in honor of Mrs. M. A. Orvis. The day also being the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Orvis.

Those present at this celebration were, Dr. Hiram Ingalls and wife, of Hanover, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. James Baker and son of Howard; Mr. and Mrs. George Crosby of Canisteo; Mrs. Mildred Banks and daughter, Miss Alice Baker of Hartsville and Mrs. Emily L. Swain and children, Ernestine and Roger of Canaseraga.

Class of 1923 Hold Picnic

The members of the 1923 graduating class of the Andover High School held a picnic last Sunday afternoon, July 12. They motored to a most beautiful ravine several miles east of Andover, on the road to Greenwood.

Out of the original class of ten members only five were able to be present owing to the fact that they were out of town and unable to come. It is only two short years from graduation but the members have already become quite widely scattered from their home town, thus making it hard to even hope to be able to all be together again.

The picnic was indeed a huge success and the class all hope and mean to make this an annual affair.

FRESH AIR KIDS ARE IN ANDOVER

A fine lot of Fresh Air Children arrived in Andover, Wednesday evening, July 8th. There were sixteen of the little tots ranging in years from five to twelve years, clean and wholesome, and well behaved. They were accompanied from New York by Miss Elizabeth Folsing, R. N., of New York.

The Andover people and the name of the children to whom they are acting as hosts, follows:

The children will return to New York Wednesday, July 22, Miss Emma Folsing chaperoning them.

Mrs. F. M. Acker

Purdy Creek, July 13.—Mrs. F. M. Acker, Sr., passed away at her home Friday, July 10th, at 2:00 p. m., after a lingering illness, at the age of 53 years, having returned the previous day from the Root and McNeil hospital at Indianapolis, Indiana, where she had been a patient the past ten weeks. Her death came as a shock to her many friends who were looking and hoping for a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Acker was a quiet, unassuming lady, respected by all of her acquaintances and loved for her noble qualities, generous, loyal and always ready to lend a helping hand to those in trouble. She was a member of Hartsville Grange and spent her entire life here. She was devoted to her family who will ever cherish the loving memory of wife and mother. Her survivors are her husband, two daughters, Mrs. Lloyd Allen and Mrs. John French; one son, Francis M. Acker; a sister, Mrs. Archie Mullen; two brothers, Merton and John Kennedy and four grandchildren, all of this place.

The funeral was held from the residence on Sunday, at 2:00 p. m., Rev. Alma G. Broadhead, officiating. The high esteem in which she was held was plainly manifested by the large concourse of people that assembled to pay their last tribute of respect. Burial was in Hartsville Center cemetery.

"Lancastria" Arrives in London

A card, under date of July 10th, has been received by the News editor, which tells of the safe arrival of the "Lancastria" at Lisbon. This will be of especial interest to our readers as Mrs. Hattie Eggleston of Andover is one of a party of tourists aboard.
