Investigate Death of Spring Mills Man

John Heliker, postmaster at Spring Mills, was found propped up in bed Sunday morning, dead, from a wound inflicted with a .44 calibre revolver. The bullet had entered the body below the heart and emerged through the back. It was evident the shooting had taken place in the post office and Mr. Heliker had managed to get to his bed, a distance of fifteen feet, or had been carried there. Nothing was missing from the postoffice. A thorough investigation is being made by authorities to determine whether it is a case of suicide or murder.

Vorhees Hill Labor Day Picnic

About two hundred former scholars, teachers, friends and neighbors of the Vorhees Hill school, gathered at the old pine grove on Vorhees Hill on Labor Day for their annual picnic. After a sumptuous dinner was served the various committees took charge of the afternoon program which ended with a ball game between the married and single men which was won by the married men.

This was more than an ordinary year in the history of this school as it is eighty years ago that the school was founded. Seventy-five years ago the first wood school house was built and fifty years since the present school house was built.

H. B. Adams was re-elected president and Burritt Perkins secretary and treasurer for the coming year.

Ford Airplanes Soon to Transport American Mail

Detroit, Sept. 8.—Airplanes of the Ford Motor Company will carry United States mail between Detroit and Chicago, beginning within the next two weeks, it was announced tonight, following a conference to-day between Postmaster General Harry S. New, Henry Ford and William J. Mayo, of the Ford company.

When the postmaster general left for Washington earlier this afternoon, he refused to announce definitely that arrangements had been made, asserting that bids would have to be asked before a contract could be closed. Later, it was learned at the offices of the Ford company that the postmaster general would advertise for bids, but the matter would be largely a formality, as the Ford company now had airplane service which would be able to carry the mail.

The Ford company also said two planes would fly between Detroit and Chicago.

Auto Owner Responsible If Bootlegger Uses Car

Syracuse, Sept. 8.—Federal Judge Frank Cooper, in a decision today, held that the owner of an automobile is legally responsible for the uses to which it is put and is under a moral obligation to see that it is lawfully used.

The decision held specifically that an expensive imported car owned by James J. Bennett of Detroit, in which Harold Parry, a Buffalo man, was arrested with a load of Canadian whiskey near Odgensburg last fall, was properly seized and is subject to confiscation by the government under the Volstead act.

The principle laid down in the decision is, in effect, that the owner of a car used in transporting liquor cannot plead ignorance that the car was to be used for that purpose, and must suffer the penalties prescribed by law, even if the said owner had not active part in violating the law.

TRIBUNE-TIMES IN NEW HOME

Prosperous Hornell Daily Successfully Moved Hugs Plant in Four Days.

The Hornell Tribune-Times came to our desk Tuesday evening, edited and published from its fine new $250,000 home, corner Cass and Canisteo street.

The tremendous task of moving the intricate material composing a modern daily newspaper plant is a stupendous task, but it was accomplished on schedule time, without mishap.

The Tuesday issue of the Tribune-Times, the first printed in the new plant gives a history of the growth and success of the paper. Since 1870 the paper has been owned and personally directed by a member of the Greenhow family ever since. February 4, 1878, the first issue of the paper was issued in the office on Broad street, which is now being abandoned for larger and more commodious quarters.

In speaking of the late William H. Greenhow, his widow, now owner of the new building, and the larger share of the Evening Tribune-Times says:

"Mr. Greenhow was that rare combination, a keen business man and an able writer. His trenchant pen was always wielded for the good of this community which he loved next to his own family. He looked far ahead and deep down into every issue and fearlessly declared himself for whatever he believed to be right. With enterprise and foresight he equipped his plant with the latest and most approved machinery, always well in advance of the immediate need. To house this constantly growing establishment became a serious problem. The adjacent building was bought and fitted, the space under the sidewalk was utilized. Every available square foot was so occupied that for a few years previous to his death in 1918, Mr. Greenhow was seeking a site for a new and larger building. Many a time he longed for the corner on which the present new home for his paper has just been erected. He longed for a substantial building where his faithful and beloved employees might work in comfort with sufficient light and proper ventilation. The site he so much desired could not be bought during his life. Two years ago it was procured by Mrs. Greenhow with the greatest satisfaction. The erection of the substantial and comfortable and doubtless permanent home of The Evening Tribune-Times, has given great happiness to Mrs. Greenhow's family. They look upon the building as a suitable memorial to his memory and as a visible pledge that the Evening Tribune-Times will continue to work for the advancement of Hornell and vicinity and for the uplift and inspiration of the community."

Montclair, N. J., Sept. 8.—Harrison W. Noel, 20-year-old former college student and escaped inmate of an insane asylum, who kidnapped and killed six-year-old Mary Daly because of a craving for $4,000 in ransom money, seems likely to be ordered confined for life as were the slayers of Bobby Franks in Chicago.

WILL DOUBLE PLANT AT WHITESVILLE

Big Borden Condensory Will Be Enlarged, Owners Aver.

The capacity of the Whitesville Borden Condensory now one of the largest in the state, is to be doubled during this coming winter, C. L. Travis, manager of the plant announced. The enlargement will make the condensory one of the most important in the Borden System outside of the huge plants in New York City.

An entirely new plant is to be added to the present buildings. Construction work is to be started soon and by next summer the plant capacity is expected to be about twice as large as it is at present. The Whitesville condensory now occupies a great deal of ground and with the new portion built on, it will be one of the largest in the state in respect to size as well as capacity.

More than fifty thousand pounds of milk are handled daily in the Borden plant. Dairymen from Adrian to Shinglehouse, a distance of nearly 100 miles, send the product of their herds to Whitesville, where it is condensed.

The enlarged plant will serve as an outlet for a great deal of the milk produced by the dairy herds of the southern tier which it is now unable to handle. The modern features which will be incorporated in the new plant will facilitate the rapid and sanitary handling of 100,000 pounds of milk each day.

INSANE YOUTH KILLS LITTLE GIRL

Escaped Lunatic Kidnaps and Kills Six-Year-Old Mary Daly.

Montclair, N. J., Sept. 8.—Harrison W. Noel, 20-year-old former college student and escaped inmate of an insane asylum, who kidnapped and killed six-year-old Mary Daly because of a craving for $4,000 in ransom money, seems likely to be ordered confined for life as were the slayers of Bobby Franks in Chicago.

Noel pleaded guilty yesterday to the kidnaping charge. He denied he shot and killed the girl or Raymond Pierce, negro taxicab driver, to get an automobile for the abduction. He awaits arraignment on charges of murdering the girl and the wounding of John Sandin, chauffeur, who gave chase after the kidnaping. Sunday he confessed with boastfulness and a grin to all of the crimes.

Captain James A. Mason, head of the Essex county detectives, says Noel is "hopelessly insane." A committee of alienists is to be sought by John A. Bigelow, prosecutor of Essex county, to examine the youth. If found insane, he will be committed to the state hospital at Trenton. If he is found sane, his plea of guilty of the kidnaping charge exposes him to a sentence of life imprisonment. There is no lesser sentence for that crime in New Jersey.

Three persons have narrowly escaped death at Noel's hands, records at the county insane asylum at Overbrook show. Noel escaped from the asylum, two months ago, after five months' confinement at the request of his parents. Recaptured, he was released on his parents' promise to keep him home.

Noel attacked his father, asleep in a tent on a camping trip, with a Boy Scout hatchet in 1923. Confined in the Craig Sanitarium at Beacon, N. Y., he beat an attendant insensible with the arm of a chair. Last year as a seaman on a trans-Atlantic liner he tried to kill a cook.

An investigation of the handling of Noel's case at the Overbrook asylum is under way by J. A. Earl, chairman of the state board of control, at the request of Governor Sizer.

Eighty members of the Swain family met Labor Day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Swain at Canasraga, for their annual reunion. At one o'clock a fine dinner was served on the lawn. A short business meeting consisted of minutes of last meeting. Secretary and treasurer reports, election of new officers was held.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lockwood of Dalton, extended an invitation to meet at their home Labor Day, 1925, which was accepted.

Among those attending the Swain reunion were: Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Orvis, Mr. and Mrs. John Dodge and family, Edward Swain and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bines.

A Citizen Void of a Civic Consciousness

Granted that no greater punishment could be visited upon one than a knowledge of being without God, yet Edward E. Hale, as he depicts the life of Phillip Nolan, makes one feel the awfulness of being without a country. Sir Walter Scott decries such a one in most scathing terms. True these characters are unreal and represent extreme cases. Still, are there not many who (judged by the way they live) are as one without a country, a citizen void of a civic consciousness? Yes, there is something more required in our good old "U. S. A." than a declaration of patriotism or an avowed loyalty of being 100 per cent. American.

In this land of ours, there are all kinds and classes of folks, but nearly every class has citizens void of civic consciousness.

There are three types, that, to the writer, are very pronounced: Type number one is generally regarded as the worst, altho as far as influence is concerned, he is not so dangerous as others who are more respected. This citizen has no regard for law nor order; he construes liberty for license; consequently he makes a sad affair of life. Everyone dubs him a law breaker, a citizen void of a civic consciousness.

Type number two respects all law and authority; he is classed as a worthy citizen and he would be stunned if told he had no civic consciousness, yet he draws about himself a pharisaical cloak of respectable citizenship; allows degenerate law breaking to go on all around him, while he listlessly says: "Let George do it," when it comes to law enforcement. A few years later, he wonders why his neighbors' children and sometimes even his own, have no higher sense of right and wrong.

Type number three believes that some laws are more valid than others. His personal liberty is a great thing. He has no civic consciousness that tells him social control spells democracy; individual control autocracy.

Many other types might be mentioned but may these set us to seriously thinking that we shall decide to so develop our civic consciousness that we shall come to know the glory of being absorbed by that which is greater and more beautiful than ourselves. Then Andover will come into its own. Andover will be our longed-for Utopia.

Kindly consider these words of Edward Burke:

"All persons possessing any portion of power ought to be strongly and awfully impressed with an idea that they act in trust, and that they are to account for their conduct in that trust to the one great Master, Author and Founder of Society."

MANY REAL ESTATE FIRMS INCORPORATE

Beauty Parlors and Radio Houses Falling Off.

Albany, Sept.—The Florida real estate boom, as well as the recent one at Rockaway, made itself felt the past month in Secretary of State Knapp's office, when an unusually large number of companies incorporated to enter the real estate business. Out of a total of 2,019 companies of all sorts that incorporated in New York State last month, and which ranged from one that will turn out cookies to another that will supply corks, no less than 715 gave real estate as their business. Companies incorporated from 40 counties in the state, with Nassau county leading with 43 and Erie county second, with 36 companies. Comparatively few companies are incorporating these days to run beauty parlors while radio fell off during the month.
