The Birth Control Dean. Gas War "Barbarous?" If So, We Need It. Respectable Real Estate.

Be careful about little things. Sigmond Briehart, called the strongest man in Germany, bent iron bars with his hands, tore horse shoes apart, held two horses pulling against each other. He scratched himself with his nail, blood poison developed—he's dead! Germs too small to be seen with a microscope are stronger than any man. Such germs are usually on the hands.

Dean Inge, eminently respectable clergyman at the head of St. Paul's Cathedral in London, favors birth control. He says "LIMIT FREE EDUCATION to not more than three children, from any one family." He believes parents will limit the number of children, if they have to educate all but three at their own expense. Good, gloomy dean, he knows little about human nature. And he worries, because common people have most of the children, the birth rate being lowest among the educated classes.

What would the dean have said to Nancy Hanks, with bare feet, a lady unable to read or write, caring for a heavy baby in a hut with a dirt floor, and without windows? He'd have said: "Leave child bearing to the educated upper classes my dear." But the big baby was Abraham Lincoln. You never can tell.

The latest saine, intensely dangerous proposition is that the United States should sign an international "protocol," pledging ourselves against the use of chemicals, including poison gases and other gases in future warfare.

Chemical warfare, in addition to being MODERN warfare, is the least brutal, most merciful form of war thus far devised by human brutality. Chemical warfare could render unconscious the inhabitants of a whole city, capturing without killing them. The old style of war was to burn the city, kill the men and women. The poison gases, so called, mustard gas, tear gas and other gases do more mischief than powder or bullets, just as powder and bullets are more merciful than weapons of an earlier kind. In the big war entire regiments, made temporarily blind by tear gas, were taken prisoners and brought into camp, tears streaming down their faces, unable to see their way, with not a man wounded. Not one died, and the blindness did not last.

Only a sickly sentimentalist can call that kind of warfare "more horrible" than the old fashioned war that shot men to pieces and left them to die of festering wounds on the battlefield.

Meanwhile, the army's chemical department, concentrated on study of chemical warfare and chemistry generally, is engaged in work of value to the nation, APART from war.

We are not going to attack anybody, and should develop to the highest point every known chemical of warfare, including warfare, to be ready for attack.

Meanwhile, poison gases are to be used more and more in LEGITIMATE war, in fighting the boll weevil and the European corn borer, which has already appeared in several States, and might, if unchecked, blight the corn crop as the boll weevil does the cotton crop.

Real estate is a respectable and considerable business. August Keesler, who says he is like the old cow horse in Oklahoma, that would fall down if its driver allowed it to stop, goes on working and occasionally buys something.

A few days ago for "all cash" he bought a 32-story building at No. 31 Broadway, New York, for $17,000,000. That would surprise old August, who used to buy farms on Manhattan Island.

Moral: Buy a piece of real estate now, where the $17,000,000 building will be later.

IS YOUR WORK HARD?

Many Andover Folks Have Found How to Make Work Easier.

What is so hard as a day's work with an aching back? Or sharp stabs of pain at every sudden twist or turn? There is no peace from that dull ache.

No rest from the soreness, lameness and weakness.

Many folks have found relief thru Doan's Pills. They are a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys.

Andover people recommend Doan's. Mrs. E. J. Howland, N. Main St., Andover says: "I over-did around the house and when I stooped, I was stiff with a sharp, irritating pain across my back and could hardly stoop. I had dizzy spells, my eyes appeared before me, and I was troubled with kidney weakness. Doan's Pills and is a great relief. Doan's Pills, J. C. Doan & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.
