tour of his wonder gardens at Santa Rosa, California. The world, to which he has given stoneless plums, seedless oranges, and a hundred other "fruits of his labors," is glad to hear he will not retire, nor will his garand was inclined to be morose and dens be sold as was reported.

Burbank's Message

The rumor was circulated that Mr. Burbank intended to cease all experiments and retire. That the University of California was to buy his gardens, where for a half century this great horticulturist has wrestled with nature, solving her secrets, changing her plans, unrelentingly bending her most stubborn plant children to his will. In reply to our telegram about his reported retirement, Luther Burbank sent the following message:-

TO THE WORLD:-I am not contemplating any change of any kind. I am personally carrying on the work on the six places as usual. I have more experiments on hand than ever before. Am happy in the work of serving others with better grains, trees, fruits and flowers. LUTHER BURBANK.
