Why do they Come?

Among the many thousands of visitors who go through the Niagara power plants every year are scores of engineers who come from all over the world to study American methods of hydro-electric development and

A great many of these foreign experts come from government-owned or operated power plants. Why do they come thousands of miles to study the results of private enterprise at Niagara Falls?

Any one who has travelled abroad on government-owned railroads, or has waited for a government-operated telephone connection, can tell you the answer!
