It does no Republican harm to admit that Woodrow Wilson was a great president both in peace and in) war. Nor does it harm a Democrat to admit that Theodore Roosevelt also was one of our greatest and most, useful Americans, altho here and there an original Taft man is still bitter against him.

It hurts, but usually it cannot be helped and should be borne as ungrudgingly as possible. The real question is not the number of dollars spent, nor even the tax rate itself, but the wisdom of the particular expenditures and the care with which the money is handled. Well spent taxes, especially when devoted to public investment in long-lived or rermanent improvements nearly always pay big dividends, not only in public use ent say: "I do not want my daughter unsettled." and enjoyment but in the creation of new wealth which

THERE was once a man who worked at night and slept in the day time, and did not get to see his children often; but on Sunday morning would stay up long enough to read the morning paper before retiring for his day's sleep and at which time his children would get a glimpse of him. This is one of the ways in which the nation is paying for the privilege of using automobiles. It is comnplace to say that the automobie is playing an everso average American healthier by keeping him out in the il unity. As he travels back and forth, the average citizen of the west is finding that the average citizen o New England thinks and acts about as he thinks. and) the typical southerner is finding that he doesn't differ \ very much from the typical northerner. In short we are learning by contact that, as good Americans, we | lare pretty much the same, that we depend upon one another, and that our rise or fall can only come with the rise or fall of the entire country.

If the automobile can wipe out sectional prejudice, as it gives promise of doing, it will be worth all that is spent on it. The future of America depends upon our national feeling which is but another word for patriottism. So long as we think and act as Americans there little danger of our getting into serious trouble as la nation. With the east and the west, the north and the south, thinking and acting alike, in time of nation-I danger, Uncle Sam does not have to be greatly in

And too, while the automobile costs money, it the thing years ago for a Republican to call all the in every walk of life. Let us see, therefore, by sound), leading Democrats hard names and vice versa, but in national legislation, to keep our prosperity at high tide, the war period we had to pull together in a common so that we can keep our automobiles. For it is difficult, cause, and the more sensible part of our people since to make a revolutionist out of a working man who can la then have modified or cast off the former attitude of lafford to spend his holidays skimming over perfect l Iroads, taking his fill of fresh air and sunshine.

Unless every city, every town and every community, no matter how large, is made a safe place for all of us to live, it will not be a safe place for any of us very long. Society as constituted under our form of govern-
