Strip your walls of curtains, window glass, paint. Move out the davenport, radio, phonograph, magazines, telephones. Banish pepper, salt, sugar and all but home prepared foods from your pantry. Go back to the flint for your fire, the fields for your bread, the sheep on the hills for your clothes.

Without advertised products your life would seem both drab and hard. You would have little comfort or convenience; know nothing of the means to secure them. Unhelped, your ingenuity would tend to limit your pace. Your progress would be at a snail's pace; you might not progress at all.

Advertisements sweep you on to new enjoyments. Read them and know about advertised goods. They give your life new ease.

Pin your faith to advertised goods—its merchandise of no regrets. Every time the merchant advertises he puts his reputation in your hands. His products or his wares must make good. His service must be as advertised.

That is why it pays to read the advertisements, to deal with advertisers and to buy advertised goods.

"A Woman's Work Is Never Ended"

Time was when the truth of this old proverb seemed as inevitable as fate. It isn't any more. A woman's work can be ended in time to give her a little healthful leisure and joy in life.

The wonderful mechanical progress and marvellous electrical development that have shortened the working days for men can and will do the same for women in the home.

American men have the reputation of being the world's best husbands. They themselves admit it. Let them, therefore, step briskly up to some electrical store—and say it with vacuum cleaners and dish-washers.
