and opportunity carries with it responsibilities. It is not a time for trifling, but then neither is it a time for hopeless gloom, or surrender in the face of difficulties.

Strength may be had-and hope, too-from the sacred memories which all lives have, and so it is impossible to think wisely of the future, or to face it as dre it should be faced, except as related to the past, and having a vital connection with it.

· A Happy New Year? Yes, surely, but better yet a New Year consecrated to truth, and to the service . of man, for that will bring, if not happiness, blessed ness. The old and the new unite, the present and past merge in each other and in the present, and life is one and continuous. What sort of old year will the new year, on which we are about to enter, be?

So the needed message at this season seems to be one mHE federal trade commission put 270 fraudulent! concerns out of business in a year, saving the taxpayers of the country a sum estimated at $1,000,000, member of the commission recently said in an ad-

> The commission proposes to put up even a more determined fight to exterminate fake advertisements of "anti-fat" remedies, patent medecines for incurable iseases, beauty lotions, cream soaps and other cosmotics "guaranteed" to have some healing value, and industrial schools practicing fraud.

Since the female skeleton has become the fashion, firms selling flesh-reducing concections have made fabulous sums, and they have not alone practiced fraud but have impaired the health of those who have pat-

This type of fraud is more dangerous and more to on to being robbed of one's health, or even life The federal trade commission expressed the view This girl, judging from newspaper accounts of her that quicker and more lasting results in the campaign lers who advertise these fake remedies, than by weedling out the concerns one by one. He asserted that magazines were the worst offenders, and that he could produce one magazine that had 50 of the "vile, dishonest and indecent advertisements."

The great evil done lies in the fact that those east able financially to lose money are the prey of this brand of fleet and cunning crooks, who have no Iscruples and no conscience.
