Joseph Honegger
(From Union City Paper)
With full military honors, Joseph Honegger, 41 of Union City, who served overseas in the World War as a corporal, and who died Saturday at his home, was buried Monday in Fairview cemetery.
Mr. Honegger served in France with Company C, 309th Infantry of the 78th Division. He was gassed October 18, 1918, in the Argonne Forest drive, and never fully recovered. From 1911 to 1914 he served as a gunner's mate in the United States Navy, and was stationed in South American waters. His occupation was textile weaving, but ill health prevented him from working recently.
The services were conducted at the home at 2 p. m. by Rev. Allen Greene, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, Union City. Military services had been held Monday night by North Hudson Chapter No. 9, Disabled American World War Veterans, who also conducted and took part in the funeral.
Forty members of the Disabled Veterans chapter marched behind the body from the home to the cemetery. A mounted escort of Union City police led the cortege, and the casket was guarded by the Union City municipal firing squad. After it had been lowered into the grave, a last salute was fired.
Mr. Honegger is survived by his father, Karl Honegger; four sisters, Mrs. Elsa Kunz, Mrs. Anna Simms, Mrs. Bertha Mundwiler and Mrs. Emma Renna and two brothers, Charles and Hugo of Andover.
Mr. Honegger was born in West Hoboken and attended the old North School. He resided in the West Hoboken section all his life except for the periods in army and navy.

South Dakota Pheasant Outwits Hunters 19 Years
Watertown, S. D.—One of the original pheasants released in South Dakota 19 years ago—from which the state's present millions have come—is still alive.
The pheasant, a cock, was found during a recent snowstorm and is being cared for by Frank Bramble, who maintains a home here for crippled birds.
The fowl bore a leg band showing it was one of 200 brought here in 1913 from Poughkeepsie, N. Y. It bore no injuries or bullet scars, and Bramble expressed the opinion it had "learned to duck."
An orange-colored dye, for use in tinting silk and wool, was obtained from castor oil in recent experiments in India.

Avoid Pessimism
Pessimism is merely a disease of the mind. It places wrong construction on what has happened and denies absolutely any faith in or hope for the future. The pessimist is never happy. What is more, he gives the rest of us a pain in the neck also.—Grit.

HEALTH in the HOME
Practical Studies for Wives and Mothers
By Dr. ERNEST H. LINES

FOOD FOR THE FAMILY
IT is not easy to lay down specific diets for everybody. Various factors enter into the constitution of a diet. A man doing manual labor can utilize more heavy food than an office worker. Old people need less nourishment than those of middle age. People in cold northern climates require more meat and fat than those in warmer countries. A growing child needs more food proportionately than an adult to build up the growing body.
DIET FOR YOUNG CHILDREN
For very young children milk is still the staple article of their diet. In addition they should have some cereal daily, fruit cooked or as julus once or twice, eggs, vegetables and some bread. At the younger ages meat is not essential and usually the child is better off without it. The tendency, when too much meat and other solid foods are given, is for the child to drink less milk. Milk contains more vitamins and other constituents, such as calcium, which are essential to a growing child.
QUESTIONS:
All wives and mothers should be able to answer these questions:
1. Should old people eat more or less than those of middle age?
2. How can young children be induced to eat food that is good for them?
3. Should meat be given to very young children?
This is the seventh of a series of 12 articles on Health in the Home. The eighth will be on Children at School Age, and Adolescence.

WHITTLE FOR A PRIZE
$1000.00 in cash prizes and one thousand other prizes are offered for examples of skill with a jackknife. Entries may be any kind of model, figure or special carving, requiring skill and ingenuity, made entirely of wood, and with no other tools than a jackknife.
