Miss Coleman Marries Elmira Man
 On Monday morning occurred the marriage of Agnes Veronica Coleman and Mr. George Good of Elmira in St. Mary's church in Rexville. The marriage rites were performed by Rev. C. A. Silke, pastor of the church.

The couple was attended by Miss Louise Coleman, sister of the bride and Francis O'Dea of Elmira. The bride wore flesh Mouseline de Soie over taffeta with picture hat of horsehair braid. She carried a bouquet of pink roses, blue gardenias and baby's breath. The bride's attendant wore blue embroidered organdy with a horsehair braid hat and carried yellow roses and blue gardenias.

The reception and wedding breakfast was held at the bride's home, following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Good left on a motor trip to Washington, D. C., and other Southern points. Mrs. Good's traveling dress was a tailored dark blue crepe with accessories to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Good will reside at 208 West Chemung Place, Elmira, where Mr. Good is associated with J. P. & M. Sullivan Co.
 Out of town guests included: Mrs. Margaret Good, Mr. and Mrs. Francis McNulty and daughter, Mary Francis of Elmira; Miss Helen Doolan of Hornell and Miss Mary Prendergast of Hall.

HOW, WHAT and WHY?

The Andover News has arranged with the Office of Information of the New York State Colleges of Agriculture and Home Economics to answer questions about problems of farm and home. If you enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope and mention the name of this paper, you will receive a direct reply to your query from the colleges.

Address your queries to How, What and Why, Room 201, Roberts Hall, Ithaca, N. Y.

Hens Have Lice
 H. C. R. asks: "Is nicotine sulfate effective as a treatment for poultry lice?"
 Professor Glenn W. Herrick says this method is now one of the most commonly accepted ways of controlling lice on fowls. You paint the nicotine sulphate, about a pint for 150 to 200 feet of perch, on the perches about a half-hour before the hens go to roost. The tobacco fumes rise best on warm, quiet nights. Prevent strong air currents from blowing thru the house, but provide some ventilation lest the fumes injure the fowls. Since chickens are troubled with several kinds of lice, and mites in addition, we are sending you bulletin E-115 about chicken lice and mites and their control.

Hog Rations
 C. B. D. says: "I have six pigs and have had no experience feeding them. What makes a good hog ration?"
 Since you do not mention whether pasture is available for the pigs, John B. Willman suggests two rations. If the pigs are kept in a pen, use a two-compartment self-feeder; have corn, corn meal, or hominy in one compartment, and a mixture, by weight, of 50 per cent. tankage or fish meal, and 25 per cent. each of linseed oil meal and chopped alfalfa hay in the other compartment. If the pigs have access to pasture, use the same sort of self-feeder with corn in one compartment and a mixture of 50 per cent. each of tankage or fish meal, and 50 per cent. of linseed meal in the other compartment. This mixture can be fed until the pigs weigh about 125 pounds.

Mare Has Sore Feet
 L. M. H. writes: "We have purchased a horse; she lifts her front feet while in the stall, as if they hurt her. What could be the cause of it? How often should the stall be cleaned to keep her in health? My nephew says not often, for the manure is good for her feet."

To this query, Professor M. W. Harper of the animal husbandry department of the college of agriculture makes this reply: "The horse stall should be cleaned daily, and fresh bedding put down each evening if the feet are to be kept in good condition. I should suppose, from your description, that the mare's feet were sore, but not knowing anything of her condition, of course I am unable to suggest the cause. It might be advised that any condition which does not respond readily to simple treatment deserves the attention of a veterinarian."

To Prune Raspberries
 B. C. K. asks: "How should black raspberries be pruned?"
 Professor Gilbert Peck says the pruning for black raspberries, purple canes, and blackberries, is quite similar. When the new growth has reached the desired height of about two feet, pinch off the tips. It will be necessary to go thru the planting four or five times at intervals of a day or two to do this job properly. It is a serious mistake, he says, to allow the new growths to reach a height of three feet and then to cut them back to two and a half or two feet. Weak laterals and winter killings are likely to result. After the crop is harvested the old canes may be removed. The old canes cut easier when they are still green than they will when the wood is old and dried out in the late fall or spring. Spindling new growth may be cut when the old wood is removed.

Whittle for a Prize
 $1000.00 in cash prizes and one thousand other prizes are offered for examples of skill with a jackknife. Entries may be any kind of model, figure or special carving, requiring skill and ingenuity, made entirely of wood, and with no other tools than a jackknife.
 First Prize.....$250
 Second Prize.....$100
 Third Prize.....$75
 Fourth Prize.....$50
 Fifth Prize.....$25
 And also three ten-cent and fifty of $5.00 each. In addition, 1000 special jackknives will be distributed to all winners of cash prizes and to those receiving honorable mention. In case of ties duplicate prizes will be given.

The Family DOCTOR

More "Heart Failures"

I feel sure my readers will pardon me for hammering away at this subject so often—there is no more vital topic, or one more dread with warning.

My big city paper this morning announced two sudden deaths, both from "heart disease." One was the owner of a trained dog troupe, and he was standing on the stage, busy with the performance, when he dropped dead instantly in full view of the audience. The onlookers at first thought it was a part of the program, until the man was pronounced dead! The paper stated that he was apparently in "perfect health the hour before." Should such terrible happenings be passed up as if they were just news items?

The other fatality was that of a millionaire oil man, and a true philanthropist. He was also just a little past middle age, stricken as by a bolt from the blue sky. Just "heart disease," let it pass.

Both of these men died of CARELESS EATING, overloading the stomach at wrong hours, and without any respect for the laws of diet. One was an overworked man—spending his nights at hard business endeavor, in order to make both ends meet. He paid no attention to his bodily requirements; he was exerting himself to the utmost strain, to keep a thin pocketbook nourished. Did it pass?

The millionaire was just resting on his oars; he was satisfied with life, and eating all he could hold, at whatever hours he chose. He dined on the viands that tasted best to him, and in quantity limited only by appetite's demands. And paid—with his life. Heart disease! Was it true? A goodly, kindly man, who delighted in providing recreation sports for children. What a pity that he died in the middle of so noble a career!

My good friends, overloading at six o'clock does it.
