contribution that government can make to business. I shall select for your new cabinet men who I consider have labored constructively for the ideals of liberal thought and action.

BY HADFIELD WOODLEY AUTOCASTER WASHINGTON BUREAU

Washington, D. C.—Congress has done nothing toward reducing government expenditures and lowering taxes so far, except to struggle with the bill to legalize beer, which is still being hailed as a great revenue producer, but probably will be vetoed if passed.

President Hoover's recommendation for the consolidation of 51 Government-bureaus and offices into smaller bureaus, fewer in number, and under the direction of Cabinet officers, has not been disapproved so far.

The Senate has refused to hold an executive session to act on Presidential appointments, except in the case of Roy D. Chapin, who was named as Secretary of Commerce during the Congressional recess, and whose term will expire in any event with that of President Hoover.

Those War Debts

Nearly a hundred million dollars of the war debt instalments due to the United States from Europe were paid promptly on Dec. 15th. Great Britain paid her share, the protesting that she must have a reconsideration of the whole subject before the next payment comes due in July.

With Congress

In the Senate, the discussion of the bill to grant independence to the Philippines is still under discussion. The proposal is to enact a law now promising the Filipinos that they can run their own government after 12 years.

There is not very much prospect of any important constructive legislation by this dying Congress.

The general desire is to pass everything of importance on to the new Congress. President-elect Roosevelt is reported as not wanting to have to call Congress into session before next December, but unless this Congress enacts some revenue and appropriation bills it will be necessary for him to call the new Congress together by April, at the latest, since the Government's fiscal year ends on the last day of June and nobody can spend a cent of Government money after that date unless laws are passed authorizing it.

Postmaster General Brown is coming in for a lot of kidding because of his testimony before the committee holding hearings on the Post Office bill. Eight old Government automobiles were traded in by his department for a Lincoln. Then the Postmaster General found, he said, that the new car was no good for his personal use on formal occasions because the top was too low for him to wear a silk hat in it!

The New Cabinet

The next President has not given any inkling of his Cabinet selections. It is regarded as certain that Chairman James Farley of the Democratic National Committee will be Postmaster General. That is the distinctly political Cabinet post, having a great deal of patronage to give out to the faithful, and exercising a great deal of power when it comes

Around Our House

WINTER CLOTHES

"Warmth without weight" should be every mother's motto when she buys or makes winter clothing for her children. Weight does not always make warmth, and may even make a child colder by hindering the vigorous play which helps keep him warm.

The child who lives in a furnace-heated house may wear the same light cotton undergarments and dresses or suits which he wears in the summer. These can be kept clean more easily than wool, and prevent overheating in the house.

Suits with knitted bands which fit snugly around the ankles and wrists and at the waist if a two-piece-suit is chosen, keep out wintry breezes. Overshoes fastened over the ankles keep the child practically snow and cold proof. Patented fasteners or large buttons which the child can manage himself make for independence. The helmets which often come with purchased suits or knitted caps, are ideal head coverings.

Costs should be light in weight, with raglan or other loose type of sleeves to permit wearing sweaters in sharp weather.

to lining up the party organization. It is believed in some circles that Senator Carter Glass of Virginia can be Secretary of the Treasury, the post he held under President Wilson, if he wants it. His poor health may prevent him from accepting, however.

All indications now point to the largest crowd of office-seekers that Washington has seen in 40 years, beginning to assemble in the Capital City immediately after New Year. A lot of them are here now, for that matter, and everybody who is suspected of having any "influence" with the Democratic leaders is being besieged with appeals to help get a Federal job for Tom, Dick or Harry.

Meantime, the one farm relief project which is receiving any sort of serious consideration is the Domestic Allotment plan, outlined in these dispatches last week, the outlook for which does not at the moment appear very promising.

To Be Cheerful and Happy

Jesus was the center and soul of a glorious existence; a bringer of news so wonderful that those who received it should be marked by their radiance as by a badge. Of course, he disregarded the narrow code of the Pharisees.

"You shall walk only so far on the Sabbath," said the Code. He walked as far as he liked.

"These things you may eat and these you shall not," said the Code. He ate what he pleased.

"You're not defiled by what goes into your mouth," he answered, "but by what comes out."

"All prayers must be submitted according to the forms provided," said the Code. "None others are acceptable."

It was blasphemy to him. His God was no Bureau, no Rule Maker, no Accountant. "God is a spirit," he cried. "Between the great Spirit and the spirits of men—which are a tiny part of His—no one has the right to intervene with formulae and rules."

He told a story which must have outraged the self-righteous members of his audience. He said that a certain man had two sons. The elder, a perfectly proper and perfectly uninteresting young man, worked hard, saved his money and conducted himself generally as a respectable member of society.

The younger was a reckless ne'er-do-well, who took his portion of the estate and went into a far country party of commissioners... I shall prevent efforts which will give one favored group priority...

Relief to All My responsibility will be to relief to all these groups together. I shall prevent efforts which will give one favored group priority...

The depression has opened the eyes of many men to their social responsibilities. It has opened the eyes of many politicians to their true political responsibilities to the nation. I have little personal acquaintance with those men—Democrats and Republicans alike, who have been thinking so long in the outworn partisan grooves that they cannot see the merit of accomplishment unless it bears the label of their own party.

Notice of Annual Meeting

The Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of the Andover State Bank will be held at the office of the Corporation in the Village of Andover, New York, on Tuesday evening, January 10th, 1933 at 8 o'clock, for the election of Directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting.

R. O. SNYDER, Secretary. The loss caused by barley smut and oat smut from untreated seed, equals about 15 per cent. of the New York State crop; seed treatment cuts the loss 70 to about five per cent.

Dec. 28.—A Happy New Year to all.

The beautiful Christmas spirit that has been in the air for many days is now slipping into the past, joining many gone before. It was truly an enjoyable season in the fine weather attending it.

South Hill's little children of the Blessed Sacrament church of Andover, with their parents, attended the Santa Claus program in the parish hall, Sunday, Dec. 18th. They again assisted in a fine program at the Dean school house Thursday evening, Miss Dolan of Wellsville, teacher.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Dean accompanied by Miss O'Leary of Andover and Mrs. Danier of Wellsville were Hornell visitors, Wednesday.

A number of our residents attended the funeral of Mr. McDonough of Andover from Blessed Sacrament church last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Dean and Mr. and Mrs. A. Dougherty were called to Wellsville last week by the death and burial of the ladies' uncle, Mr. Jerry Duggan of Messery Hill, Wellsville.

Miss Lenora Dean arrived home from Cleveland, O., Saturday night for one week's Christmas vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Schoonover and daughters attended the Christmas exercises in Baptist church, Andover on Christmas eve. The girls took part in the fine program.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Dougherty and children were guests Christmas Eve, of Mrs. Dougherty and daughters of Andover and were dinner guests at the Danier home in Wellsville on Christmas Day.

Many from here attended midnight services in Blessed Sacrament church, Andover.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Horan and children joined the Horan family in a Christmas dinner with their father at the homestead in Andover.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Dean and children spent Christmas Eve with the Danier family in Wellsville. They ate Christmas dinner with Mrs. M. Dean and family.

Mrs. J. Danier spent Wednesday on South Hill with her daughters.

All wondered at our very spring-like Christmas Day. The writer distinctly remembers being a resident of Mt. Jewett, Pa., in 1890 and the holiday was warmer and more balmy, with no wind, than the past one. Doors were open during midday and pitches in use. It was a winter of rain and mud galore.

Whitesville

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Bassett attended the funeral of her uncle, Cassius Livermore of Shinglehouse, Pa., Saturday.

The Misses Anna Deck and Alice Stafford are home from Buffalo Normal school for the vacation.

Miss Rose Horseman is home from Albany, N. Y., for the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. Ella Millsbaugh went to Andover Friday to visit her son, Lee and family and they all spent Christmas day with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McCracken and family of Wellsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Crittenden and family and brother, Earl, of Milton, Pa., came Friday to pass the holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Crittenden.

Miss Vada Graves was married to Mr. William Harrison, both of Whitesville, Tuesday evening, Dec. 20th at the home of the bride by the Rev. H. J. Marquis.

The bogus gas rates published by the Empire Gas and Fuel Co. of this section are a great disappointment to the patrons of the company. They had been hoping for some relief at this time of need and suffering but there is practically no relief for those who need it most. Coal stoves are already being installed and more will be if these rates become effective. It is earnestly hoped that the parties which are reported to have secured the right of way for a gas line into this territory will proceed to develop the enterprise as soon as possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson and son of Independence were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Fitzpatrick on Christmas Day.

Davis Hill

(Mrs. Floyd Slocum, Reporter)
