EDITORIAL MASTERS, NOT SLAVES

In this modern, busy world, we must use all the advantages we have. We must learn what is advantageous for our progress. Success will depend on the individual's ability. There are feasible things which you can practice that will give you a start toward success. Be punctual. Be able to calculate the time so that you don't keep others waiting. Concentrate. Center your mind and attention on one object. Never allow yourself to day dream. Keep your mind on your work and use your free time doing something definite. Be like the runner, who makes every move count. Take advantage of your opportunities. Use every chance you have to improve yourself. Do common daily duties by habit. This saves you time that would ordinarily be used in decision. Make your head work for you. It will save you time, energy and unnecessary catastrophes. We often think we make our minds work for us when we really don't. If you can do a task in 15 minutes, and you take a half an hour, you have not used your head. Like the swinging pendulum that makes the hands turn ahead, we should make progress by every motion. Be masters of your action, if you want to lead the parade into tomorrow's world. Slavery would be a cruel punishment for negligence!

TWO OUT AND THREE MEN ON BASES

Louis Folkerson. Two out and three men on bases was the predicament Jim Davis, pitcher for Hilton Academy was up against. Jim was not much of a batter but a certain ball could not get by him. Two strikes and three balls called the umpire. Jim's nerves were all strung but he kept cool. His heart leaped as he saw the pitcher throw a slow ball. He waited until the ball was even with his hat and swung with all his might. The ball ticked the end of his bat and sailed on over the catcher's head. The next ball was the same kind, but this time he didn't miss. It went sailing gently over the center-field wall. Jim was the hero of that game, the ending score being 4-3 in favor of Hilton. When he got into the dressing room he said, "Well, Edmington lost today 6-0."

GUESS WHO?

This person is a member of the Senior Class. He is very tall and has black hair. He can be seen as well as heard from a great distance. He is a good sport and takes part in nearly all of the athletic activities of A. H. S. This person takes great delight in laughing and causing others to laugh also, especially in the study hall. Come on, think hard! Who is this big guy? A-H-S. More than two-thirds of Alabama's 2,646,248 inhabitants are rural residents.

NEW STATE DIPLOMA REQUIREMENTS

The revised requirements for the issuing of Regents diplomas are as follows: Group I. Constants required of all pupils. English, four years - 4 units. American History - 1 unit. Science, ninth year - 1 unit. Social Studies, ninth year - 1 unit. Group II. Sequences in two different fields elected by the pupil. Major sequence - 3 units. Minor sequence - 2 units. Group III. Electives - 4 units. Total - 16 units.

All subjects in Group I, except English, may be counted toward major or minor sequences in Group II, provided a total of 16 units is earned. Pupils may select major or minor sequences from the following fields: Mathematics, science, social studies (history and related subjects), foreign languages, business subjects. Pupils must pass Regents examinations in all required subjects in which Regents examinations are given. The ninth year social studies requirement in Group I can be met by the passing of civics and economic citizenship. Note that business subjects may now be counted in Group II for the major or minor sequence. However, certain specified groupings must be taken. Note that altho the total requirement has been raised to 16 units, this receives compensation by the fact that four units are now allowed for the four years of English instead of three units as heretofore. The requirements for the special diploma in business subjects have also been revised, but the requirements for this diploma are such that it will be difficult for the smaller schools to meet them. Therefore, pupils are advised to use their business subjects as major or minor sequences for the regular Regents diploma. The requirements for the Regents College Entrance Diploma have not been changed, altho an anticipated change in the near future will allow the substitution of three years of science for three years of foreign language. At present a pupil must pass Regents examinations in the following subjects: English four years, Latin or French three years, intermediate algebra, plane geometry, and one paper selected from the following: American history, physics, chemistry, or two years of a second foreign language. He must obtain an average rating in all of at least 75%, with a minimum passing mark of 65% for any paper. He must have completed at least 15 units of approved high school work. For the present, Regents diplomas will be issued based on either the old or the new requirements.

HELPING MOTHER TO CLEAN HOUSE

Barbara Bassett, English, 8th Grade. It was a beautiful day in spring. Just the kind of a day to go swimming with the girls, but instead of going I was to stay at home and help mother clean. We were having some rich and much too fussy relatives come and spend the week-end. I had never seen them and I didn't feel, that morning, as tho I'd care very much if they didn't come. I got up real early on account of having to help clean. Well, after breakfast we done up our dishes and went upstairs to start to clean. I went to the spare bedroom first. It was very large and all the furniture was rather antique with notches and so on. I cleaned my bedroom and the halls. I went downstairs and swept and dusted the rooms. We picked up all the magazine and once I wished we didn't have so many. I had just gone into the kitchen to help get dinner when the phone rang. I answered it and it was one of the girls asking me to go on a picnic. I had to say that terrible "no thank you" because we are having company. So very ungrateful for everything I went back to my work. After dinner we finished up our tasks and I changed my clothes. I had just come downstairs and went to the desk for something when, oh, dear, my arm knocked the ink bottle over and it went all over me. I went upstairs and changed my new dress with a few tears and this time I had to put on an older dress which I wasn't half so proud of. I was just coming downstairs when I heard Mother greeting the company. I went down and greeted them with my best manners. The week-end went off very well and I enjoyed it, as well as being happy the house looked so nice. After all was done I felt relieved it went off so well and I felt it paid me to stay home from a picnic that day and clean. Rock crystal was once thought to be a hard form of ice.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Mary Teresa Payne. Try as I would, I could not get from humming to myself "Stars Fell on Alabama." This had run thru my mind all the way coming to school. The same old thing, "Stars Fell on Alabama." This same phrase all the while almost drove me crazy like it almost did the men in the prose selection, "Punch, Brothers, Punch," by Mark Twain. School called. Have you ever had an embarrassing moment? Well I have had. This day we had to find area of rectangles. I guess my heart was in the world of music because I kept humming to myself the same old thing—"Stars Fell on Alabama," with my heart keeping time. The teacher had said, "Mary Teresa, what is the formula you use when you are finding the area of rectangles?" But of course I was humming "Stars Fell on Alabama." There was about five minutes silence. I was wondering what all the silence was about so I turned around; then all the kids laughed. I then remembered her asking someone something. I thought she said "What is the answer to the fourth one when you pound the area of the rectangle so I began to rattle off this $3,566,000.59." The kids then just roared. The teacher herself laughed and I didn't blame her one bit. She said, "What were you doing when I asked you that question?" Have you ever seen a red, red, rosy apple? Well, I was one when she asked me that. I said "I was thinking." She said, "Well, I suppose you have got so much to think about." From then on I tried to pay attention to the teacher and keep in touch with my classes. The fright I had took that old "Stars Fell on Alabama," out of my head.
