Food Market Advice

Lamb Prices Tumble

The price, of lamb has gamboled gally down hill to a point well below that of other meats. Lamb will be bought and eaten until all the surplus is gone and then the price will prevently take an electron up to the former level. Forequarter cuts of beef are a little less expensive but prices of hind-quarter cuts and pork, both fresh and smoked, are unchanged. Veal prices are slightly lower.

Eggs and Butter Slightly Lower The slight reductions in the prices of eggs and butter will be welcomed by the housewife. The feeling of wholesalers is that both products have probably gone as low as they will go this spring. Bulk American cheese has not changed in price tho all packaged cheeses are noticeably higher.

Many Vegetables High

When such standbys as onions, cabbage, beets and spinach are high the bottom seems to go out of the expensive menus. However, yellow turnips and potatoes are still cheap, parsnips fairly so, and green beans and carrots within reach of modest budgets. Cauliflower, broccoli and Brussels sprouts are all higher, and peas are also higher. The various kinds of lettuce and salad greens are inexpensive. Mushrooms, too, are relatively cheap.
