In the Matter of Nothing more sacred belongs on earth. I have nothing but contempt for those who willfully trample this beautiful arrangement in the swinish muck of commercialism and lust.
And—must I say it? too often the press refers to marriage and divoreand public license as—a joke!
If you contemplate marriage and public license as—a joke!
If you contemplate marriage and sublud—as a sacred institution, you are a good man—a good woman; the minute you enter the marriage state with sinister designs, your pedestal as an angel is crumbling, tottering, with the whirlpool of tears and sorrow at its base!
Upon the sanctity of the marriage vows rests the security of this republic. When woman is prostituted —dragged down to the old testament level—man will hecome degenerated into the beast he was then, with his concubines and his harems and his queens selected for their fleshly attractions. Would you, dear readerlike history to repeat itself? No?
If the form we have the marriage reads
