Food Market Advice

(Mrs. Ella Millsbaugh, Reporter)

Seedless Thompson grapes and red Malagas are both in market and their presence brings grace to the fruit bowl. Nectarines are new in market, Bartlett pears are now plen- tiful and the numerous varieties of plums in varying colors, shapes and sizes are fascinating. Peaches are temporarily scarce and tho the big season is over they will be more plentiful later this month.

Baking, Eating and Pio Apples Available The earliest apples were all suited to sauce and pie-making but 20- ounce for baking and box Graven- steins are now coming to market.

The heavy demand on limes and lemons has slackened with lower prices resulting. Bananas, too, are cheaper, cantaloupes are low in price, honeydew and honey-bell melons moderate and watermelons high. Small fruits with the exception of huckleberries have nearly disappear- ed from the markets.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee G. Millsbaugh and Mrs. Ella Millsbaugh attended the Graves family reunion at the former Marlin Graves home in Shon- go, Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. Crossley left this morning for Ransomville and Pulaski, to spend the remainder of the week with their daughter until Satur- day.

A succession of heavy thunder showers accompanied by torrents of rain Saturday afternoon produced near-flood conditions in and about Whitesville. In the evening water ran in rivers between the houses near the railroad station and cover- ed the road east and west of Main street bridge. Three families left their homes when water ran into their houses and many gardens and fields were covered with mud and water, and a bull belonging to Ira Bacon is said to have been drowned in the flood. The rain ceased in the early evening or conditions would have been serious.

PLAN WESTERN NEW YORK FIELD DAY

Sheep Dog Trials, Banquet and Pam- phlet to be Held at LeRoy, N. Y., Thursday, Sept. 26.

A ram sale, sheep dog trials, the annual lamb feeders banquet, judg- ing contests, parasite demonstrations and a baseball game, according to H. A. Wilman, College of Agricul- ture, will feature the sheep day pro- gram on Thursday, September 26th, beginning at 10:30 at Wood-yard's Farm and at the Barn, LeRoy, N. Y.

The program in detail is being plan- ned by the Western New York Sheep Growers and County Agricul- tural Agents.

Paul Pasco, internationally known sheep dog expert, will stage a sheep dog exhibition with his champion sheep dogs. Pasco has won the major sheep dog trials in America the past two years. His feature alone should make a day well spent at the sheep field day.

Prominent breeders will place on exhibition for private sale about 75 head of select young registered rams from which you may select just the breed and kind of a ram that should head your flock. A competent judge will grade some rams as a demon- stration to show how to select a ram and just what kind of a ram to buy. A ram judging contest will follow the ram grading demonstra- tion and likewise a contest in judg- ing wool and identifying various grades of wool. Suitable awards for the winners will be provided by lo- cal merchants.

A post-mortem of a sheep to show worm troubles will be given by Dr. D. W. Baker, of the New York State Veterinary College. Parasites are the greatest enemies of New York State farm flocks and their damages usually become more apparent dur- ing late summer.

Professor George Brown of the Michigan State College of Agricul- ture, who will be the main speaker at the annual lamb feeders banquet, scheduled at 7 p. m., at The Barn, will also appear on the sheep day program, according to the lamb feed- ers banquet committee.

Features will be provided for 4-H

HOW, WHAT and WHY?

(Mrs. Ella Millsbaugh, Reporter)

The Andover News has arranged with the Office of Information of the New York State colleges of ag- riculture and home economics to answer questions about problems of farm and home. If you enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope and mention the name of this paper, you will receive a direct reply to your query from the colleges. Do not ask more than one question in one letter or on one post card. Ask as many questions as you like, but make each one a separate communi- cation.

Poisonous Snakes J. A. B. asks: "How many kinds of poisonous snakes are there in New York State? In what parts of the state may they be found? Do any live in the region around Sodus Bay? Does any snake sting with its tail?"

Dr. W. J. Hamilton, Jr., answers: "Two poisonous snakes, the rattlesnake and the copperhead, may be found in New York State.

"Both of these are not uncommon in the Ramapo mountains on the New York-New Jersey shore. They are also found in the Hudson Islands and sparingly, in the western part of the state in Allegany park.

"There are no poisonous snakes in the neighborhood of Sodus Bay or in that part of the state bordering Lake Ontario. Neither is there any snake that stings with its tail. A copy of a little bulletin that tells something about snakes has been sent to you."

"Concealing" Screens T. P. D., Norwood, asks: "Can screens, used to enclose porches, be painted a certain color to conceal the background from passers-by?"

"If so, please advise the color of paint to use and which side of the screen to paint."

Professor H. W. Riley of the de- partment of agricultural engineer- ing replies: "This is not possible, so far as I am aware.

"If you should learn of some way in which this can be done, I would be glad to hear from you and to learn about it."

"There is, however, a special kind of glass which is scientifically sur- faced that it is possible to see thru it in one direction but not to see thru it from the other. This glass is used for windows in obser- vation play rooms where scientific desire to observe the action of chil- dren at play without letting the chil- dren know they are being observed.

"We know of no other one way vision device of this kind."

"Markouk," Syrian bread, is a staple food in Syria and is made in thin wafers about one foot wide.
