

THIS WEEK IN ALBANY

Albany, Aug. 28.—Representatives of nearly 1,000,000 organized workers in New York State this week gave their ringing approval to the administration of Governor Herbert H. Lehman and the accomplishments of the 1935 Legislature, Democratic in both branches.

Speakers at the annual convention here of the New York State Federation of Labor were extravagant in their praise of what has been done for the workers by the Governor and the legislature. They declared that the program of social and labor legislation enacted at the last session was the most progressive in the history of the state.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared that Governor Lehman "espoused a social justice program unequalled in the history of our nation" and George Meany, president of the state federation, said the Governor is "a friend of every man and woman in the state of New York who works for a living."

Representatives of the state administration who addressed the convention included Governor Lehman, Speaker Irwin Steingut of the Assembly, Industrial Commissioner Elmer F. Andrews and Senator John J. Dunnigan, majority leader of the Senate.

Some of the pertinent remarks they uttered follow: Governor Lehman—"With all the emphasis at my command let me state my faith in the powers of our democratic form of government. I believe it can be made to operate so that all groups in our society, whose interests are necessarily interdependent, shall be fully respected and protected."

Speaker Steingut—"I feel that I am entirely justified in calling to your attention, as the representatives of organized labor in this state, the fact that the interests of labor have progressed further in this state in one year of Democratic control of the legislature than it has in the previous 20 years. Continue that control!"

Commissioner Andrews—"I trust that none will assume that the friends of progressive social legislation can rest on their oars. The opponents of such legislation, make no secret of their plans for a counter attack upon this legislation at the next session of the legislature and in the courts."

Senator Dunnigan—"The Democratic party in New York state has always been labor's best friend. During the recent session of the legislature, when the Democrats controlled both houses, we enacted into law the greatest labor program in the history of not only the state of New York, but the United States."

The final word was expressed in the New York State Federation of Labor Bulletin, which reported: "Taken together, the enactments of the 1935 Legislature established an achievement in social and industrial well-being for men, women and children that has no parallel in the legislative history of this or any other state in the American continent."

That endorsement will be repeated frequently during the forthcoming Assembly campaign. Speaking of that campaign, the Democratic drive to retain control of the Assembly will swing into full stride Wednesday at Owego.

The Democrats of Tioga county have arranged for a mammoth affair, which will attract delegations from most of the counties in the Southern Tier and many from other parts of the state. It will be the largest gathering of its kind this summer. A notable array of speakers will be heard at the rally, headed by Speaker Steingut. It is reported that the speaker, in addition to discussing new legislation enacted, will take off his gloves and strike back at some of the statements which have been made in recent weeks by Republican orators.

Those behind the gathering say there is a real chance of winning some Assembly seats in the Southern Tier counties, most of which have remained in the G.O.P. column heretofore.

Motor Vehicle Commission Charles A. Harnett revealed some rather startling statistics the other day concerning motor vehicle accidents in New York State last year. He said a person was killed every three hours during the year and that a person was injured every 15 minutes.

"From the night of the Boston Tea Party to the conclusion of the World War in 1918," said Commissioner Harnett, "America's losses in all its wars were less than 250,000 lives. For the ten years, 1925 to 1934, inclusive, more than 300,000 persons lost their lives thru automobile accidents in this country."

Commissioner Harnett warned that one of the most serious problems involved is the care of thousands of women and children who are left destitute when their husbands and fathers are killed in highway accidents. He suggests that the next Legislature give serious thought to the question of compulsory automobile insurance.

We have another report on hand from Allen Reagan, director of the new state publicity bureau.

Mr. Reagan reveals that tourist trade in nearly all sections of the state is running far ahead of other years and that those who cater to this trade are smiling for the first time in many moons.

The idea of publicizing New York State's countless attractions appears to have worked out well and the bureau is expected to be continued by the next Legislature.

Cigars were in order at the Capitol the other day.

Majority Leader John F. Killgrew of the Assembly, was celebrating the birth of a daughter. John says he expects the young lady will be the first feminine President of the United States.
