Christmas Seals Are Now Out

The annual Christmas Seal Sale was launched in Andover this week. Letters, 300 of them, each containing 200 seals were mailed in the local postoffice addressed to residents of Andover.

Clare Jackson, Noble Grand of the I. O. F. Lodge, is general chairman for the Christmas Seal Sale in Andover.

The goal this year is double last year's goal in order to make possible the employment of a visiting nurse to follow up cases which have been found in need of such care at the chest clinics operated by the Allegany County Public Health and Welfare Association. This organization cares for hundreds of undernourished and underprivileged and carries on a constant fight against tuberculosis and other diseases.

Won't you help establish this much needed nursing service?

Too Full For Utterance

When the last piece of pie has departed, And the cake becomes crumbly and dry, And the nuts in the pastry are fewer, And the pickle jar measures less high; When each vestige of turkey is eaten, And the bones are put on to boil, And the living turkeys feel safer, And we dope up with castor oil, There's a pause in the business of gorging, Till another year is done, And we know from our extended waistline That Thanksgiving's come and gone!

In New York State, the furs of skunk, fox and raccoon are usually in a good condition for trappers by mid-November, while muskrat and beaver rarely acquire a prime coat until late in the winter.
