Ford Completes 25,000,000th Car

Recently Henry Ford stood at the end of the final assembly line at the Ford Motor Company rouge plant and watched workmen build the 25,000,000th Ford.

By his side was his son, Edsel Ford, the president of the Ford Motor Company, and the chiefs of his world-wide organization. The only other observers of the historic event were a small group of newspapermen.

As the 25,000,000th car reached the end of the final assembly line and the inspectors had finished their work Mr. Ford climbed into the front passenger seat. His son slipped into the driver's seat, pressed the starter button and drove the car off the line.

Completion of the 25,000,000th Ford represented the manufacture, over the last 33 1/2 years, of more motor vehicles than are registered for operation today all over the United States.

Mr. Ford, his son, other Ford executives and the invited guests watched the entire progress of the 25,000,000th car from the time it began its journey down the final assembly line—a bare frame, with running gear attached, until it reached the end, a sleek shining de luxe Ford touring sedan, with body in cream, wheels in chromium and the 25,000,000th legend decorating the body panels and the trunk compartment hatch.

It's winter now and the pond's a good place to skate.

This town is so small the visitor with his trailer is an uncommon sight, but he can get accommodations at the hotel for the night.

There is the farmer with the fresh wholesome milk. The village folks are healthy and industrious as may be seen by the appearance of the First National bank.

The village is made up of toys brought to school by the pupils and arranged under the direction of Miss Marjorie Ellis, the first grade teacher.

Treatise on Peanuts!

Peanuts are very fattening, but stout people eat them, so what? They tell me that peanuts grow under the ground in a somewhat similar fashion to potatoes. I cannot swear to that but I suppose maybe they do. They seem to "hit the spot" when that peculiar lank feeling is felt around the belt. I like the brand of peanuts with shucks on because it takes a certain amount of time to shuck them; consequently, one cannot eat them so rapidly. That is how I keep this "perfect thirty-six" figure of mine thirty six around the neck!

Helpington, Holden and Pickett all lived on the same street in One Day, Ala.

Mr. McGee: "Lively, have you taken a shower?"
E. H.: "No, is there one missing?"

Mr. Host: "John, take your gum out of your mouth and put your feet in." (Mr. Host should have added, "out of the aisles," to his latter request.)

Miss Day: "Bud, use the noun Egypt, in a sentence."
Bud: "The fruit dealer, 'Egypt me'."

Miss O'Connell: "Can you give me a well known date in Roman history?"
Ernie Burdick: "Yes, Antony's with Cleopatra."

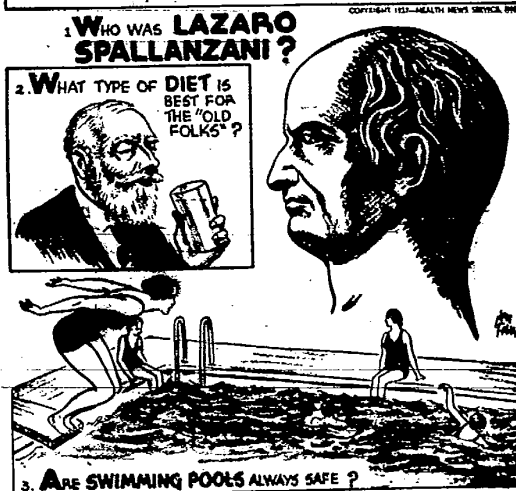

Miss Day: "How would you punctuate this sentence: 'The wind blew a ten dollar bill around the corner.'
Clyde Briggs: "I'd make a dash after the bill."
Miss Day (reading a poem to the English four class): "Then came the great dragon, belching forth flames from his mouth."
F. Witter: "Didn't he say 'excuse me'?"

What Do You Know About Health?

By FISHER BROWN and NAT FALK

Answers: 1. Irritation of the prime of life. The diet because like that of children during the first five or six years. Milk, eggs, strained vegetables, fruit juices, well-cooked cereals and cereal puddings should form a large part of this diet. 2. Simple meals at frequent intervals, are usually more easily assimilated by the aged than are the heavier meals of men and women in every known health and sanitary safeguard. Otherwise they are a menace to health, no matter how beautiful they may appear.

LITTLE BITS OF HUMOR

Mr. Oldgent—So your first name is Bessie? What is your last name?
Bessie: "Don't know yet. I ain't married."

"You've already had leave, Ferguson, to see your wife off on a journey—for your mother-in-law's funeral—for your little girl's measles—your boy's christening—what is it now?"
"I'm goin' to get married, sir."

Mistress: "What has happened to these sausages, Norah?"
Norah: "Well, ma'am, you told me to fry them like fish and when I cleaned them out there wasn't much left."

Baggsby: "Who do you consider the greatest man this nation ever produced?"
Crabshaw: "I used to think it was either Lincoln or Jefferson, but now I'm becoming convinced it was my wife's first husband."

The reporter was sent to write up a Sunday school picnic. Next day the editor called him to his desk.

"Look here, what do you mean by this? 'Among the most beautiful girls was Horatio Lucian Dingley.' Why, you crazy idiot! Old Dingley isn't a girl—and besides, he's one of our principal stockholders."
"I can't help that," remarked the realistic reporter. "That's where he was."

Fat Man (in a movie to little boy sitting behind him): "Can't you see, little fellow?"
Little Fellow: "Not a thing."
Fat Man: "Then keep your eye on me and laugh when I do."

Doris: "It seems to me, my dear, that there is something wrong with the cake."
Jane, smiling triumphantly: "That shows what you know about it. The cook took care it was perfectly delicious."
