GRADE NEWS

After a study of Abou Ben Adhem, the following story was writ-ten by Clyde Shellman, a sixth grade student:

Many years ago there was a man aamed Abou Ben Adhem, who had a dream. He was not a bad man and he loved his fellowmen. So in his dream he awoke and saw an ange!
writing in a golden book. He asked ensued in the sixth grade room showed him the names of the people who loved God. And Ben Adhem's name was at the top of the list.

The following bits of poetry were written by members of the Eighth Grade in their first attempts in des-criptions by means of verse: Lights Seen Through Fog Lights Seen Throug...

Lights seen thru fog
Look like, when in the fall
The flames cast their faint shadows
