It rests rather on what ideals, attitudes, and habits have been established in the minds and hearts of the young people. If we can succeed in raising even a little bit the standard of "living with each other" and thereby promote real happiness, then we have succeeded in education.

I am deeply grateful to the Board of Education, the faculty, parents faculty and student body to Mr. Backus and the Andover News for the newspaper space alotted weekly for the Hi Herald.

-A-H-S SENIOR CLASS POEM

Written by Edward Mullen

Gather round you guys and gals And I'll tell you a tale, Of the class graduating in '37, Having stood the gale.

We are a gang of boys and girls That just can't be surpassed And the record that we're leaving Never'll be outclassed.

Alan Tuttle is our president And he deserves that place-or he always works to help him class In any sort of case

ean is an illustrious graduate Her head is filled with knowledge We feel she knows as much, As those who we gone thru college

Cleon Pease and Leo Fulkerson They are a lucky pair
When they play with a basketball
We can only sit and stare.

Regina is a gay girl With ideas for making dough She made a mint of money Sponsoring a show.

Fran. Mead. At present you are Ida Mae Howland and Hilda Clark Even the they never shirk, Are always ready for a lark And like the hardest kind of work.

On the dance floor or in the gym One that will always fill the bill
You can always picture him—
He's in our class—Bruce McGill.

Max C. The crystal seems to Bill Woodruff is the class "Romeo;"

For he's a fine smart lad.

He's always on the excused list

And his marks are never bad.

With his wit and humor rare.

'Frankie' Mead, the class farmer,
He always works without a care.

Who are the boys who for a goal

Will strive with all their might? Raymond Briggs and Eddie Kemp You've guessed that one just right.

There's the Burdick brothers Nicknamed "Tish" and "Punk" If you think those names mean anything Why-that's all bunk.

Whenever there's work to do
For a dance at Andover gym
"E!" Howland is there on the spot You can always depend on him.

Bea Kruger and "Max" Crandall Are very popular too, They steal the hearts of many a boy Who them attempts to woo.

Who's telling this story to you.

Your name Edward Mullen. In the crystal appears a horsehide, l You will seek a job as printer. I ing to do with it as yet. Oh, yes, can see you painting signs, for the there it comes; you will pitch ball william Woodruff Cheese Co., with for the Greenwood Hill Yellow Jackbranches in every corner of the ets, which will be undefeated behind The horse's collar should be thorology cleaned each evening after the world.

Regina Lynch. I see a big ocean be the right-handed Carl Hubble.

wonder if there will ever exist A Senior Class exactly like this? We throw paper-wads, books and boards,

boards,
Which brings from disgusted teachers "Oh, Lord!"
Of course we never do any harm,
If we can get everyone under out

And wish us ne'er to return?
I wonder—!

Friend Doris is so clever As often has been said That often people wonder how She gets such ideas in her head.

Marian is so tender-hearted, Now really this is true,
That when a little mouse was caught
It made her feel quite blue.

—T. Ahrens.

Charley is a funny lad, Whose hair is wavy and brown; He never is so very bad, Until he comes to town.

Thelma is a brilliant scholar,
A blonde, good-looking one
Who looks so neat and diligent, And has her work well done.

Helen is a pretty girl,
But Mary is the better;
Helen would like to go with Carl
But Mary will not let her.
