power to itself. No state, no city, no single group was allowed to assume the power vested in Congress. now we find a new and startling situation arising. they stop trucks on the highways and overturn them; ask your own price for that. they even intercept and censor mail. Goods cannot be pickets refuse to let me who want to work get to their auction in London for £8,000. There are only jobs. They try to stop production of automobiles and coal because they are engaged in a fight with steel mills. Their aim is to use their every ability to stop!

The question is a pertinent one: Shall Congress, vested by the Constitution with the sole power to regulate commerce among the states, complaisantly vield that power to an organized minority? For out of the 128,000,000 people in the United States fewer than 5,000,000 belong to all the labor brought $72,500 when it was sold a few years ago.

His Policy Is Sound

THE modern and enterprising merchant never questions the need and value of advertising. It fits naturally into his plan of operation. When he receives a new consignment of merchandise he finds it advisable to inform the public of that! fact thru the columns of his local newspaper. When he prepares for a new season and finds his shelves stocked with goods which will soon be out of date, he knows that good merchandising demands that he move they haven't thought much about American war debts. this stock as quickly as possible. He realizes that it never pays to carry it over to another season. To accomplish this end he naturally reduces the price and It may be another ten to fifteen years before the Gypsy advertises the fact.

This is why the experienced shopper knows that one can always get better merchandise and better valpaper space. Dictators are so sure of themselves that they are
