In the peaceful hour of twilight— When I find myself alone, Dreaming of the happy moments That the fleeting years have shown, : 50 often am reminded That the best things life extends Are associated closely With our dear ones and our friends

Twilight memories—how often They bring wistfully to mind Recollections of the places And the folks I've left behind! How they fill my heart with gladness, As they carry me away To the scenes of youth and childhood And the joys of yesterday!

Cares are very soon forgotten, As my thoughts again recall Certain friends who, time has taught me Are the best friends, after all; And, I'm sure, as true a pleasure As a man will ever know
