A PLEA FOR THE GIRLS' GLEE CLUB

Andover High School has excellent facilities for musical education. It is well equipped with pianos in advantageous places. We have a well-trained music director, and curricular credit is given for participation in the orchestra and glee clubs to stimulate interest and consistent attendance at practices.

There is, however, one factor which could be improved, namely, the room in which the Girls' Glee Club rehearses at the present time. A more adequate room for Glee Club practice ought to be provided. At present the room which is being used is rather small. If, however, another meeting place could not be arranged, the present room could be made more desirable than a better system of ventilation and sufficient seating accommodations. Perhaps the four or five desks could be replaced by auditorium chairs. These folding seats would enable the girls to relax at the end of each selection, whereas now they stand first on one foot and then on the other, getting weary every minute. The fifth grade room has been suggested as a possibility for rehearsals. If it is roomy and not too available to the present use, it could be made more desirable.

BOOK WEEK

The national roster for Book Week, captioned, "The Magic Highway to Adventure," expresses in a few words the thrill to be found in books. Take the words one by one—Magic it is indeed, magical that we have for the taking the products of some of the most brilliant minds of our times as well as those of previous generations. Just glance at a few of the titles posted in the library this week: "Talking Wires," for example, tells in understandable and not too technical language, the story of telephones. It is magic brought to us thru the medium of books. Highway to Adventure.

In the famous story "Mutiny Bound," there is a tale of adventure on the high seas. "Half Mile Down" the breath-taking story of Dr. Beebe's half-mile descent down into the ocean is a book filled with the wonders of a world still unknown to other men. Yet we can vicariously experience this remarkable trip with Dr. Beebe thru his story of it—"Little America" is one of the greatest books of exploration which has ever been written. "Little America" is enthralling with its tale of the aerial exploration in the Antarctic and the flight to the South Pole.

The main purpose of this national institution, "Book Week" is to remind us anew that there is open to us a magical road to joy and adventure. Let us travel on it.

Audiometer Tests Given Students

Audiometer or hearing tests were given last week to all the school children of Andover, from grades two thru twelve. Out of the 332 tested, only ten were reported as having a hearing loss. These are excellent results, about 96 per cent having normal or better than normal hearing capacity.

The procedure used in testing was as follows: Each student taking the test was supplied with a set of earphones. These were connected with a victrola-like machine placed in the front of the room. A record was then put on the machine and first a woman's voice listed a column of numbers, and then a man's voice likewise. The voices diminished in strength as the end of each column was reached, until they became barely distinguishable. The students being tested listed each number as it was heard thru the earphones. The hearing of each ear was tested.

The testing work was done under the supervision of Mrs. Mary White of Rochester, who supplied the necessary equipment.

Blackfriars to Present Play In Assembly

"Grandma Pulls the String," a one-act comedy, will be presented in assembly Wednesday, Nov. 24th, by members of the recently formed "Blackfriars."

The central character of this delightful one-act play, Grandma, demands respect on the part of the entire family and has her own ideas on the "right" way of doing things.

The play opens in the parlor of the Cummings home. We soon learn that the entire family is tense and concerned about a proposal which they expect Bill Thornton to give to Julia, the second daughter of the house. They are particularly worried because it is Bill's last night in town, and if anything prevents his making the proposal, there is no telling when another opportunity will present itself.

In this hilarious comedy, Grandma nearly alters all the well-laid plans of the family group which is composed of the following:

Mrs. Cummings, the mother, does all she can for her children. She has gone thru the same experience two years ago when Nora got married. She must help Julia because it is Bill's last night home.

Hildogarde is the youngest of the daughters, a girl of ten, who wants to help with everything. Tonight, of all nights, she must make things come out all right.

Nona is the oldest of the three Cummings sisters. She has been married two years and knows all there is to know about married life.

Julia is the second sister. She is young and in love. She wishes that they weren't so concerned about Bill's coming to say good bye.

Bill Thornton, a young gentleman friend of Julia's who has a job for two months is returning to his hometown. Tonight will be a last night for Julia and her family.

The public is invited to attend this production if they are interested in dramatics and find out what happens.

The cast, Katherine Barber, Charlotte Cook, Doris Honneger, Eleanor Northrup, Thelma Ahrens, and George Joyce, have been rehearsing diligently for this performance.

Since this program will take place the day before Thanksgiving, Vivian Connor, personifying a pilgrim of the seventeenth century, will give a reading entitled "The First Thanksgiving."

Coach McGee Urges Attendance At Games

At assembly Tuesday, Nov. 16th, Mr. McGee gave a pep talk, the first of the season, to the pupils of grades seven thru twelve, arousing a great deal of enthusiasm for the new basketball season.

The team this year is an entirely new outfit. The strength of the team is unknown, therefore a large crowd is expected Saturday night at the high school when the team will make its first appearance against Greenwood.

There is a change of schedule this year. We are in Class C, which is divided into two divisions. Class C schools are all schools having less than 125 pupils for an average yearly attendance. The schools which Andover plays league games with are Alfred, Whitesville, Almond and Angelica. There will also be two games with Greenwood which is in the Class C, Steuben county league; two games with Wellsville, one with the Alumni and possibly two with Belmont. None of these last mentioned games will be league games.

There is a new rule this year which eliminates the center jump. After a team makes a basket, the opposing team will take the ball out of bounds under the opponents basket. There are only two center jumps, one at the start of the game and the other at the half.

A total of nine games will be played on the local court and student season tickets may be had for 75c in the home rooms or in the office. All students and basketball enthusiasts are urged to turn out 100 per cent.

After Coach McGee's talk, the student body got in training for Saturday night by practicing cheers. The cheer leaders for the coming season are Charlotte Cook, Josephine Butler, Marion Buehler, Marion Swarts, Doris Honneger and Lenore Karnein. If the routing classes given in assembly Tuesday are any indication, the boys on the team will have a lot of cooperation from the students.

Library News

The library this week is especially interesting and should be observed carefully. On the bulletin board, book covers have been posted on bright colored wings. Over each division of shelves in the library, there is a book cover to illustrate the particular subject matter of the book underneath. Also, in the study hall, there are displayed different books from Junior fiction to biography. The French department has a valuable display for French students and those who do not take French might find it amusing.

Some pupils have asked if all the books whose covers are displayed can be found in the library. Why not discover for ourselves? If the covers look interesting, find the book and perhaps that will bear out promise of the cover.

You don't know what you're missing by not reading. Begin now, and make up for lost time.

Supposin'

Dick Clair didn't like to carry musical instruments (get it, Hardy?) Jean Dunham couldn't tap dance? Dolores forgot Terry for once? George Joyce behaved once in a while? Jo Butler couldn't giggle? Charlotte Coryell was four feet tall? Some of the Freshmen grew up? Roland and Nancy had a fight? The Junior play was over and we could have Social Hour? All of the A. H. S. boys suddenly disappeared? (How lonely some girls would be.) Thelma Ahrens had a hair out of place? Margaret Joyce didn't mind being called "Stubby." Inez suddenly turned "mysterious" on us?

Humor

Mrs. McGee: "Montrose, why should we study citizenship in high schools?"
Montrose: "To help us know about the government."
Mrs. McGee: "But why do we need to know about the government?"
Montrose: "To help us when we grow up some day."
Helen Dean: "I had just come suddenly to earth after a lazy day dream."
Mary Greenan: "My goodness; has that hammock given away again?"
From a school boy's essay: "A colon is a period sitting on top of a comma. Some think that the first time a semi-colon was used was when some man did not know whether to use a comma or a period, so he used both of them."
We hear some of the Senior girls are rather flippant. One of them said "Good afternoon" to Mr. Host when he arrived the other morning.

"Yimmie Yonson" Matinee Successful

A matinee performance of "Yimmie Yonson's Yob," the Junior play, was given Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 17th at 2:30 for the grade students. About 160 pupils attended this very successful performance of a rollicking comedy with its hint of the mysterious.

The outstanding acting of the afternoon was done by Jack Saunders as "Yimmie." From the moment he first boomed loudly onto the stage as a Swede from "Mannasata" he captivated his audience. Those who are planning to attend the play this evening or tomorrow have a rare treat in store for them as they witness the delightful interpretation of Mary Teresa Burns as an Irish cook, Charlotte Coryell and Montrose Greene gave an excellent portrayal of a mother and father. The pathos of the scene where Charlotte weeps for her lost son would do credit to a more experienced actress.

Louis Fulkerson is good both as a detective and a sweetheart of the impetuous Kitten, Edna Honneger, Laura Backus, as Sylvia, a niece, has a difficult part to play because she arouses the resentment of the audience which is naturally not in sympathy with her. The role is difficult also because she has to change quickly from girlish sweetness to the sophisticated anger of a very scheming young lady whose plans go awry. Laura does this very effectively. Clyde Briggs as a clerk, scheming with Sylvia, plays his part with ability. Bethel Millsbaugh as Belle, a stepdaughter, and Charles Spicer, a farm hand, are convincing in their roles.

You will be missing a very entertaining evening if you don't come tonight, Nov. 18th, or tomorrow, Nov. 19th to see "Yimmie Yonson's Yob." This gay, laugh-provoking play with its hint of the mysterious which keeps you sitting breathless upon the edge of the seat, will be an evening of unusual pleasure to come.

Junior Play - Tonight - PRIMARY PUPILS HAVE NEW ROOM

The pupils in grades 1 and 2, instructed by Miss Lempeges, found a new room awaiting them upon their return from the Armistice Day vacation. The new room is the one formerly occupied by the fifth grade and has been equipped with new movable desks and chairs of the most modern type.

The fifth grade has been transferred to the seventh grade room, which gives that group much needed larger quarters. The typing room has been converted into a new seventh grade room. The typing equipment has been transferred to room A and a new high school class room has been provided by building a partition thru the study hall. This leaves a combined study hall and library with a seating capacity of 65, which is ample for high school needs. The building changes have been approved by the State Education Department.

Alfred to Have Practice Athletic Field

The "old terra cotta" plant at Alfred is being razed and the site will be converted into a practice athletic field. This field adjoins the new gymnasium on the back and will be much more convenient for practice purposes besides preserving the condition of the Merrill field, which will be used for games. A road connecting the two fields will also be built.

A. H. S. to Play Greenwood Here Saturday Night

Andover opens the basketball season in a game with Greenwood, Saturday, Nov. 20th. This game will be played in the Andover gym.

Greenwood has a good, the inexperienced team, which includes three experienced transfers, two from Canisteo and one from Whitesville. They have a new coach who has had quite a bit of experience coaching basketball.

In spite of the fact that Andover lost a lot of their good players last year, they still have enough left to make this game with Greenwood a fast one.

Next Tuesday, Nov. 23rd, Andover's team will go over to Greenwood to play them on their new basketball court.
