BEING FRIENDLY

You want friends. Everyone does. You want to be liked by the people you admire, and you want to share with them your interests and similarities. One of the most helpful assets a person may have is the ability to make friends. A problem as important as education or skill is "getting along with other people." A person must learn this if he is to make a success of life.

If you want to have friends, you must first learn to be one. Perhaps you have sometimes admired some popular person whom everybody seems to like. The secret of this success is within the power of almost everyone. Almost everyone has the power to develop his ability to attract people and win friends.

Be friendly! Develop a warm and sincere interest in the other people around you and try to be of service to them. The person who has acquired the "good turn" habit can not help having friends. It is one of the surest ways known to overcome the human tendency that we all have to be selfish, and develop a habit as a capacity for thinking of others. This will greatly enlarge your capacity for friendship.

Remember that the things we have in common with other people are much more important than the things in which we are unlike. It does not matter if someone does something differently from the way we have learned to do it. The thing is to pick out what we do alike. Form a custom of being like your companions and your companions will like you. —Donald Oakes

Don is an important student in Andover High School. He is the present editor of the Hi Herald. His past high standard has not been lowered this year partly due to his untiring efforts and he has originated many new columns. The ease with which he accomplishes his assignments is remarkable. He is popular with his class and enters in almost all of the school activities including track, soccer and basketball. We are all sure that if Don always as studious and ambitious as he is around school, he will realize his ambition. Good luck, Don!

New School Project Regents Schedule Is Progressing

Excavation Continues Despite Cold Weather

The new central school project is well under way after a good start a few weeks ago. In spite of the freezing cold weather workmen with the aid of a steam shovel, have begun the excavation for the main foundation.

Due to the fact that the land on which the school building is to be built is quite swampy, a large drainage ditch is being dug thru the site for the purpose of draining the land, thus making the foundations more convenient to lay.

The present excavation is being done by a Wellsville contractor and as soon as he is finished with the foundations the new building will begin to take shape. Sooner than is expected the students of A. H. S. will be students of A. C. S., Andover Central School.

Christmas Gifts Are Topics of Conversation

Tuesday morning the Economic Geography Class reviewed the list of their Christmas gifts in order to discover just how much business was promoted by the seven people in the class.

All of the gifts were listed on the blackboard as each person told what he had received. The approximate value was then determined by a general discussion. It was found that a total of $320 was turned into the channels of business for just seven people, which gave an average of about $46 per person.

This was a revelation to the class as the students did not realize that the gifts of seven people could stimulate business to this extent.

Regina Richardson Writes Poem

Almost all the poems, published in this year's Hi Herald, were written by a member of the Sophomore Class, Regina Ann Richardson. She wrote the following poem upon her return to school in order to convey to you an idea of what school was like Tuesday morning:

"T'were the day after Christmas
And all thru the halls
Of the school—on Tuesday
I heard squeals and squalls.

The squalls were on having
To come back to school,
And hard work and lessons
And obeying each rule.

The squeals came from many
A group in the hall
And they proved admiration
For the presents of all.

Well it's over again for another year
And all squeals and squalls are past,
But no matter how noisy and confusing it is
We'll all say "It's fun while it lasts!"

Radio Guide

Radio: Do You Still Like Crooners?

"If you were asked 'Do you still like crooners?' you would, no doubt, think for a moment and say 'I would have to hear a few more, besides Bing Crosby.' If you are still in doubt, tune in on the following tips and find out for yourself:

Of course one hears Bing Crosby at 10 on Thursday nights over WBEN, WHAM and CBL. Lanny Ross is a favorite among many and he may be heard on "Your Hit Parade" any Saturday night. Rudy Vallee is on over WBEN at 8 on Thursdays and Jane Warren will be this week's guest. Of course women can sing too. Lucille Manners is on at 8 over WBEN on Fridays, Martha Tilton sings with Benny Goodman's orchestra over CBS at 9:30 on Tuesdays and Frances Langford is on every Wednesday evening at 9 in Star Theatre.

If you're tiring of all of your favorite orchestras, why not get Artie Shaw's orchestra? If you can't stay awake until 12 on Wednesday nights or 11:15 on Thursdays he can be heard over WEBR on Fridays at 7 o'clock.

Programs concerning the motto, "Crime Doesn't Pay," are being more and more presented. Criminal cases can be heard at 8 over WEBR on Fridays. "Gang Busters" is on at 8 over WGR on Wednesdays.

Regents Schedule Is Announced

To Be Held Week of Jan. 19-23

Principal Glenn Bretsch has announced the schedule for the January Regents examinations which are to be held January 19-23. The schedule has been advanced two days, thereby starting on Thursday instead of Monday.

P. M.—Spelling, Silent Reading, Physics, Chemistry.

Monday, Jan. 23
A. M.—Elementary Arithmetic, Intermediate Algebra.

P. M.—French, 3 years.

Tuesday, Jan. 24
A. M.—History A, Business Law.

P. M.—English, 3 years.

Catherine Lynch Interviews Grade Children

What's your name?
Mary Margaret Dean.

What grade are you in?—Second grade.

Did you have a good time during the Christmas vacation?—Yes, I played with my toys, my little brother and my cousins.

Was Santa good to you?—Yes.

Did he bring you everything you wanted?—No, he didn't bring me a bracelet.

What did Santa bring you?—He gave me a snowsuit, ring, wrist watch, paints, color book and hair clips.

Are you glad to get back to school?—Yes.

Why?—I don't know.

Acting as a reporter for the Hi Herald, Catherine Lynch interviewed several grade children and found that Santa Claus was especially good to them, leaving trucks, snow suits, dolls, airplanes, tea sets, sweaters, paints, color books, wagons, sleds, and a host of other toys.

Most of the children spent the holidays sliding down hill, playing with their new toys and visiting relatives in nearby towns.

The reporter found that the majority of them were glad to get back to school Tuesday morning. Most of the pupils said that they liked school, much to the surprise of the interviewer. One little girl said that she wanted to learn something for her reason, and a little boy said he didn't like school because there was too much work to do.

Up-to-the Minute Books

Now that the holiday season is nearly over, it is a good time for everybody to check up on his reading. "Students should read at least one book a week. In order to do this they want good, interesting stories.

For a list of the best published books of 1938-39, the following, by your favorite authors, are on sale: "The Prodigal Parents," by Sinclair Lewis; "Heartbroken Melody" by Kathleen Norris; "Maris," by Grace L. Hill; "Riders of Spanish Peaks," by Zane Gray; "Malice of Men," by Warwick Deering, and "March of Democracy" by James T. Adams.

There are many others available. Why not choose a good piece of literature and pass the winter evenings by reading?

Around A. H. S. With C. Coryell

By all the new sweaters, lockets and pins that are displayed this week, I take it that Santa Claus treated everyone very well.

Progress is being made on the new school houses, I see.

Review classes for the intermediate algebra students are in session. The covers on the Readers Digest are getting prettier every time.

By the way, how many questions from the radio program "Information Please," that were in the Readers Digest could you answer?

Bethel M. and Dot Sweet didn't see each other very much so they have taken every opportunity to talk together this week.

It is really impossible to tell whether the students are glad to get back to school. I haven't heard any complaints.

Two weeks till Regents. Oh! I wonder what Marion B. did to her thumb? She probably caught it in a door.

Let's have some more crossword puzzles. They aren't too hard to make, once you get the "hang" of it!

Andover to Meet Belmont

This Friday night the purple and white basketball team will meet the Belmont team on the opponents' court. The Andover team has defeated Belmont once before this year. Belmont, however, is expected to be much better by now and a real battle should result.

The local boys have been doing some extensive training lately and are looking much better than they did at any time last year or this year so far. Belmont pulled a "fast one" last year by beating Andover on their court. They are tough opponents on their own court.

Plan to follow your home team on some of its out-of-town games this year. Why not start with the Belmont game next Friday?

Grade News

Eighth Grade Joins Organization

The Eighth Grade is joining the organization, Men With Wings, in trying to bring back to the United States Orville Wright's first airplane which is now in England. This organization is obtaining petitions signed by as many people as possible who are interested in seeing Orville Wright's plane brought back to this country. Signers of these petitions hope that Orville Wright will ask the London Museum to return his plane to the Smithsonian Institute. Orville Wright objected to the label which the Smithsonian Institute intended to put on his plane when it was offered to them at first, twenty years ago. He wanted the label to read, "The first powered plane capable of flight while carrying a man." This label, however, was already on a plane so the Institute refused. Orville Wright then sent the plane to London.

Guess Who

This Senior boy is tall and slim. He has blue eyes, dark brown hair and fair complexion.

He is very ambitious when it comes to playing basketball for his school. Once in a while he might appear on the honor roll. He tries to make jokes by passing remarks and quite often he is successful. He is very popular with his classmates.

Another hint. Lately he has been wearing a blue ribbed sweater.

The answer to last Guess Who was Donald Oakes.

Humor

Nancy S.: "Oh, father, how grand it is to be alive. The world is too good for anything. Why isn't everyone happy?"

Mr. Snyder: "Who is he this time?"

"When water becomes ice," asked Mr. Holmes, "what is the greatest change that takes place?"

"The greatest change, sir," said Paul Ryan, "is the change in price."

Miss Cappuccelli: "Now, pupils, you can see that giraffes grow to be very tall. Some of them grow as tall as twenty feet."

Don Emery: "Oh no they don't grow to be twenty feet high because I measured the picture of the giraffe and he is only an inch and a quarter high."

Wise Guy: "I say, driver, is your Noah's Ark full?"

Cab Driver: "One monkey short, sir. Jump in."

"Do you have many lines to speak in the new play?"

"No, I take the part of the husband."

Two small boys at the newsboys' dinner put their grimy hands side by side on the tablecloth.

"Mine's dirtier'n yours!" exclaimed one triumphantly.

"Huh!" said the other disdainfully, "you're two years older'n me."

Teacher: "Jimmy, are you eating candy or chewing gum?" (both were forbidden in school.)

Jimmy: "No'n; I'm just soaking a prune to eat in recess."

Wife: "Well you love me when my hair is gray?"

Hubby: "Why not? Haven't I stuck to you thru' brown, black, red and blonde?"

Bill: "Daddy has a job with five thousand men under him."

Joe: "Some job. Where's that?"

Bill: "Mowing cemetery lawns."

Client: "I want to file suit against Johnson."

Lawyer: "What's your charges?"

Client: "What are yours first?"

Mother: "Dorothy, you have disobeyed mother by racing around and making all that noise. Now you shan't have that piece of candy."

Father (entering a few minutes later): "Why so quiet, little one?"

Dorothy: "I've been fined for speeding."

Fit Company for Ourselves

I have to live with myself, and so I want to be fit for myself to know. I want to be able as days go by Always to look myself straight in the eye.

I don't want to stand with the setting sun

And hate myself for the things I've done.

I don't want to keep on a closet shelf A lot of secrets about myself, And fool myself as I come and go, Into thinking that nobody else will know

The kind of a man I really am; I don't want to dress myself up in a sham.

I want to go with my head erect, I want to deserve all men's respect; But here in the struggle for fame and self

I want to be able to like myself. I don't want to look at myself and know

That I'm bluster and bluff and empty show.

I never can hide myself from me, I can see what others may never see. I know what others may never know I never can fool myself, and so

Whatever happens I want to be Self-respecting and conscience free!

FRUIT, FLOWERS AND GARDEN

WINTER HOMES FOR BIRDS

Winter need not be a slack season for bird enthusiasts. Provide food and shelter for the birds, and they will flock to your home.

Birds welcome bread crumbs and suet, but in winter when the winds howl and the mercury drops, they especially like to have shelters provided for them.

Most persons forget to give birds suitable roosting quarters during cold weather. Leaving nest boxes up during the winter will help some. Another clever idea is to put boxes behind knot-holes in the barn or in other buildings.

Winter roosting boxes should be water-proof, with a southern exposure for the entrance. They should be firmly attached to supports. Place them at an average height of eight to ten feet. To give added warmth, put the boxes in a spot that is protected from the wind. A sheet metal guard, tacked closely around the pole or tree, will keep out four-footed marauders.

Lady in restaurant: "Why don't you shoo your fies?"

Chef: "Well you see it's a bit hot today, so I thought I'd let 'em run barefooted."

Jack: "I wish I was in your shoes."

Clyde: "Why?"

Jack: "Mine leak."

Lady: "How much are these tomatoes?"

Grocer: "Seven cents a pound, ma'am."

Lady: "Did you raise them yourself?"

Grocer: "Yes, they were five cents a pound yesterday."
