DISH FOR THIS WEEK

With the hot-cereal-for breakfast season now at its height, comes the question of how to use left-over cooked cereal. One answer is oatmeal muffins.

Oatmeal Muffins

1 cup of cooked oatmeal
1 1/2 cups of flour
2 tablespoons of sugar
4 teaspoons of baking powder
1/2 teaspoon of salt
1 egg
2 tablespoons of melted butter.

Sift the flour before measuring, then measure and sift the flour, salt, and baking powder, mixing them thoroughly. Thorough mixing is necessary because the batter itself is to be stirred only slightly; over-mixing of muffin batters makes peaked and tunneled muffins.

Beat the whole egg slightly and combine it with one-half the milk and the melted butter. Mix the remainder of the milk with the oatmeal and stir this mixture into the egg-milk mixture. Pour the liquid ingredients into the dry mixture and stir until the flour is just a little more than dampened. Then, fill the greased muffin tins at once about two-thirds full. Place them in the oven within 15 minutes and bake in a moderately hot oven (about 375 degrees) for about 25 minutes.

For a luncheon or supper menu, the New York State College of Home Economics suggests: hot oatmeal muffins, raspberry jam, cream of corn soup, shredded carrot and raisin salad, molasses cookies, milk for the children, and milk or tea for the grown-ups if desired.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Irritation and No Fat
Everything from Soup to Meat
The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, spicy or rich food, when you are nervous, hurried or when your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach, food never takes a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. There is a little black tablet called Ball-on for indigestion to make the stomach digest food harmlessly, relieve pain in 10 to 30 minutes and put you back on your feet. Ball-on is so quick it is guaranteed and one package proves it. Ask for Ball-on for Indigestion.

"What do I do when I go to the zoo?" asked Mike.

"You be careful about the zoo," advised Pat. "You'll see foine animals if you follow the words, 'To the Lions,' 'To the Elephants,' but take no notice of the one 'To the Exit,' for, Mike, it's a fraud, and it's outside I found myself when I went to look at it."

"February Anniversary Month Celebration" at Babcock, Wellsville

For the opening program in their "February Anniversary Month Celebration," the Babcock theatre in Wellsville has secured Warner Bros. technicolor featurette, "Lincoln in the White House." Widely acclaimed as a worthy successor to "The Declaration of Independence," which won Warner Bros. lavish praise from patriotic organizations and individuals throughout the land, the latest production in their historical patriotism series opens with Abraham Lincoln's inauguration on March 4, 1861, and gives a vivid portrayal of the Great Emancipator during the trying years of the Civil War. The film builds to a climax with Lincoln making his immortal Gettysburg address.

The feature offering on the same program is Wallace Beery and Robert Taylor, co-starred in "Stand Up and Fight," a robust drama of the early conflict between stage-coach lines and the westward building of the railroads.

Other programs during the week at the Babcock include Jack Benny in "Artists and Models Abroad," shown Wednesday and Thursday Feb. 1-2. On Friday and Saturday, Feb. 3-4, in addition to a double feature program, the Babcock management has secured "Serum to Windham," an unusual dramatic subject produced by the New York State Department of Health, dealing with modern science's battle with pneumonia.
