AROUND OUR HOUSE

GIVE FURNITURE A BATH

Furniture needs more than just dusting, says the New York State College of Home Economics. It needs oil occasionally to keep it from drying, cracking and warping, or the veneer from loosening. The dry air in many homes is as bad for furniture as it is for people.

A good "oil bath" to use once or twice a year on oiled or varnished furniture is a mixture of two-thirds boiled linseed oil and one-third turpentine. The oil feeds the wood, and the turpentine loosens the dirt and helps the oil to penetrate the wood. This polish removes the dull film and makes a checked surface less noticeable.

Apply the mixture with a soft cloth, and wipe off all excess polish with a clean cloth. To polish, rub the surface the way of the grain until the wood is thoroughly dry and the fingers leave no mark on the surface.

In addition to keeping the furniture well-oiled, it is a good thing to keep the room air moist by having a pan of water near a radiator, register or stove.

If the wood is badly soiled, before giving it an oil bath it may be washed with a mixture of one quart of hot water, three tablespoons of boiled linseed oil, and a tablespoon of turpentine. This mixture should be kept hot in a double-boiler while it is being used. First the wood should be washed with a soft cloth wet with the solution, then immediately wiped and polished with a dry cloth.

A recipe for an every-day furniture cleaner and polisher that may be made at home at small expense is: One-half cup of powdered rottenstone, 1/2 cup of cold-drawn linseed oil, 1/2 cup of turpentine, 1/2 cup of naphtha, 1/2 cup of strong solution of oxalic acid, 1/2 cup of wood alcohol, and 1/2 cup of cold water to which has been added 1 tablespoon of sulphuric acid. These ingredients should be put into a quart bottle in the order listed.

January Motor Deaths Show Decline

Albany, Feb. 27.—Motor vehicle accident reduction which accounted for a saving of over 500 lives last year in New York State is being extended into 1939, it was disclosed today when Commissioner Carroll E. Mealey of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles announced a further decline in January.

The January death toll in the state from motor accidents was 153 compared to 187 fatalities in January, 1938. It was the 14th consecutive month with less traffic deaths than in the corresponding month of the previous year—by far the longest "life-saving" period on record in the state.

"Great Deal Like Eating"

Advertising is a great deal like eating. You cannot eat one big meal and then expect to go without eating for the next several weeks. Neither can you advertise successfully by using a medium once and then dropping out of sight for the next three or four weeks. People forget easily in this fast-moving world.—Publishers Auxiliary.

Five Miles Down!

Oil-well drillers are talking about drilling five-mile oil wells within the next five years. Already they have reached depths of nearly three miles, and they think drilling to the still lower reaches not entirely impossible when, as and if necessary.

Already the deep wells are tapping oil sands which once could not be reached, and oil men are guessing at the amount of oil to be found at the lower depths. They're willing to bet the oil is there!

Technologists are not fearful of the exhaustion of oil supplies in this country in the near future. They believe that the United States can produce all the petroleum the world can consume for many years. However, the restriction of oil production to current needs is advocated, since there is less evaporation of oil underground than occurs after the oil is brought to the surface.—Bollivar Breeze.

LITTLE BITS OF HUMOR

"Melvin"
"What, ma?"
"Are you spitting in the fish bowl?"
"No, ma, but I'm coming pretty close."

Dottie: "I never could understand why they call a boat 'she'."
Joe: "Well, you wouldn't because you've never tried to steer one."

John: "When you asked Susie Sitback to dance did she accept quickly?"
Tom: "Did she! She was on my feet in an instant."

Little Bobby came crying into the house, rubbing the places where he had been bitten by a pet sheep.
"But what did you do," his mother demanded, "when the sheep knocked you down?"
"I didn't do nothin'," Bobby declared protestingly. "I was getting up all the time."

The Negro parson was preaching from the text: "And darkness fell upon the earth, and gross darkness upon the minds of the people."
"Now, brethren," he started, "dere may be some ob yo who jes doan't know what dat 'gross darkness' do mean. Well, Ah'll tell yo. It's one hundred an' fo'ty-fo' times darker than dark."
