DISH FOR THIS WEEK

Dandelion greens, carefully cooked so that their green color and full nippy flavor are preserved, are a popular winter green for the early spring months; and when a well-seasoned stuffing is added to them, they make a good main dish for lunch or supper.

Stuffed Spring Greens
1 quart of cooked, chopped greens

1 cup of fine, dry bread crumbs
½ cup of cold, cooked ground ham

1 tablespoon of butter
1 tablespoon of chopped onion
1 teaspoon of horseradish sauce

Crushed tomatoes, canned or fresh.

Mix together the bread crumbs, ham, butter, onion and horseradish and moisten the mixture with crushed tomatoes, either canned or fresh.

This mixture will make enough stuffing for one quart of cooked chopped greens (about two pounds of uncooked greens.)

Place half of the cooked greens on a greased baking pan and flatten them with a spoon to form a layer; cover with the stuffing, then place the remainder of the greens on top, flattening them to cover the stuffing. Put thin slices of bacon across the top and bake in a moderate oven (between 350 and 400 degrees Fahrenheit) for 20 minutes.

With the stuffed greens for luncheon or supper, the State College of Home Economics suggests: cottage cheese salad flavored with onion or green pepper, whole wheat bread and butter, lemon sponge pudding, milk for the children, and coffee, milk or tea for the adults.

Book Item
Warden: "I am sorry, but I find we made a mistake. You should have been released a week ago."

Prisoner: "That's okay, warden. Just credit it up for the first week of my next stretch."

Old Lady: "My poor man, it must be dreadful to be lame, but think how much worse it would be to be blind."

Poor Man: "Dat's right, lady. I tried bein' blind, but dey was always slippin' me counterfeit money."

THEATRE NEWS

Friday and Saturday, May 26-27

Mickey Rooney is starred in one of his best and most hilarious roles in "The Hoosier Schoolboy" filmization of the famous novel of the same title, which heads the double feature program billed at the Andover theatre for Friday and Saturday.

Rooney is seen as the schoolboy in Indiana, whose life and adventures form a thrilling and entertaining story.

Second feature is the Tim McCoy Western adventure drama "Two Gun Justice." McCoy is seen as a hard riding, quick shooting son of the West, whose activities bring an evil gang to their just end.

Comedy and news round out the program.

Sunday, Monday and Tuesday

The most romantic outlaw in the history of America, the desperado whose daring colored a whole era and endowed it with the title of the "Serious Seventies"—the man who invented bank holdups and introduced train robberies—has been brought to the screen at last in Darryl F. Zanuck's production "Jesse James," the 20th Century-Fox technical epic, starring Tyrone Power, Henry Fonda, Nancy Kelly and Randolph Scott, which heads the program billed at the Andover theatre for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, May 28-30.

"Jesse James" opens with the introduction of the "Iron Horse" in its journey thru the old West, cutting ruthlessly across the farms of the simple, hardy pioneers.

It shows how Jesse James and his equally notorious brother, Frank (Henry Fonda), begin their career of crime as a direct result of the mother by an unscrupulous hiring of the St. Louis Midland railroad, in the person of one Barshee, played by Brian Donlevy. Jesse shoots Barshee and swears to avenge his mother's death. A murderer with an ever-increasing price on his head he goes from raid to raid.

Love comes to Jesse in the person of Zerelda, better known as Zee, played by Nancy Kelly, a gently nurtured girl who gave up a life of ease to share the wild reckless life of this hunted outlaw as his wife, and to bear his son alone in the hills. When Zee finally leaves him, Jesse becomes a cold and ruthless desperado, and the film follows his reckless deeds across five states, climaxing in his betrayal and death at the hands of Bob Ford, the "dirty little coward" of song and story, who sold him to the law.

A special showing of "Jesse James" is scheduled at the Andover theatre for Decoration Day, in order to give those who may miss the feature on Sunday or Monday, ample opportunity to see the film.

AROUND OUR HOUSE

Color in Kitchens

One of the easiest ways to make a cheerless kitchen attractive is to treat it with color.

Color, correctly used, can help to make a dark kitchen light, a cold and gloomy kitchen bright, and a plain and uninteresting kitchen modern and attractive. The three things to remember when planning color schemes are: paint the walls a cheerful light, but not bright, color; use a colorful floor covering which will harmonize with the color of the walls; and use the brightest colors in accessories, such as curtains, utensils and dishes, which will accent the principal colors used in these backgrounds.

For example, in a kitchen with cream walls, might be used a figured floor covering with brown, soft yellow and brick-red colors, and accessories of brown, brighter yellow and brick-red with a few green articles for variety.

Most kitchens already have some colorful equipment, so often there is no need to buy extra gadgets, but only to sort out and arrange the old ones to best advantage. For instance, dishes, if colorful, may be arranged on cupboard shelves to add to the color scheme, and pots and pans with colored backs and handles may be similarly arranged, says the New York State College of Home Economics.
