DISH FOR THIS WEEK

Rhubarb with its refreshing tart taste and lovely rosy color is an old-time favorite for sauce and pies. However, many other delicious ways of serving this valuable spring tonic include short cakes, puddings, bettles, sherbets, sponges and countless others. Here's an unusual rhubarb sauce that is especially appetizing at breakfast:

Baked Banana and Rhubarb Delight

2 quarts of rhubarb
4 ripe bananas
1 cup of sugar
¼ teaspoon of salt
Butter.

Select tender rhubarb, wash and cut it into two-inch pieces. Leave on all the skin because it helps hold the rhubarb in shape and also gives a rosy color to the dish.

Peel, scrape and split the bananas lengthwise. In a greased shallow baking dish, place a layer of rhubarb, then the banana halves and then the rest of the rhubarb. Over the top sprinkle a cup of sugar mixed with a quarter-teaspoon of salt. (The salt helps to bring out the flavor of the fruit). Over the sugar dot tiny pieces of butter.

Cover the baking dish and set it in a moderate oven (about 350 degrees Fahrenheit) for 20 minutes or until the fruit is tender. Remove the cover and continue to cook it for 30 minutes, or until the sirup thickens. Serve the sauce either hot or cold.

For a Sunday or "company" breakfast, the New York State College of Home Economics suggests: Baked banana and rhubarb sauce, graham date muffins, soft-cooked eggs, bacon strips for the adults, milk for the children, and coffee or milk for the grown-ups.

AROUND OUR HOUSE

HOW SAFE IS YOUR HOME?

Last year more than one-third of the fatal accidents in the country happened in homes. To help prevent such accidents, ask yourself these questions on common home danger spots:

Are the stairways and steps well-lighted and in good condition? Are they free from skates, sleds, toys, shoes, clothes, brooms, pails and other hazards? Falls are responsible for nearly one-half of household accidents.

Do you have a sturdy stepladder, or do you improvise one with tables, chairs or boxes?

Do you refuse to use scatter rugs at the top or bottom of stairs? One slip may mean a bad fall; but any rug may be anchored with an anti-slip pad. Do you use rubber mats in shower baths and tubs and do you have a firm hand-rail for your bath tub? Do you remove wet leaves promptly from the walks, and scatter ashes, sand or sawdust on icy walks to prevent falls?

To keep small children from burning and scalding themselves, do you turn the handles of saucepans away from the edges of tables and stoves out of reach? If there is a creeping child in the house, do you use table cloths that are not long enough for him to pull? Do you place the electric coffee pot and toaster where they cannot be reached by young children, and arrange the cords so that nobody trips over them?

Since your boy may want a gun when he is 12, do you train him when young never to point a wooden gun, toy pistol, cane or stick of wood at anyone as he would not do with real firearms? If these suggestions are carefully followed, the boy will later realize the dangers that lie in every weapon, says the New York State College of Home Economics.

Homespun Yarn

Every child needs a place of his own, treasures of his own, and time for his own activities.

Brewed coffee, put up in cans, and ready to be served either hot or cold, is now on the market.

Strawberries should be washed and hulled just before serving, because moisture hastens decay.

Cooking in aluminum pots and kettles is not harmful to health.

Eggs, labelled "fresh" must be fancy or Grade A eggs and not more than 30 days old.

For light, fluffy cooked rice, hot water should be used to rinse the rice both before and after cooking.

Dry-cleaning with gasoline, even outdoors with no flame nearby, may be unsafe. The friction caused by rubbing clothes in gasoline or naphtha may provide the static spark that will ignite the vapors.

Searing a roast of meat does not help to keep the juices in, but instead it drives them out.

Stew in some form is a national dish and a favorite in almost every country in the world.

Cupboard space is saved when vertical partitions are added so that flat articles like platters, trays and pie tins can stand upright.

Handicapped

A hillbilly, planning to go to the "city" for a visit, asked the station-master to flag the train for him.

"Sure I will, Zeke. But where's your trunk?"

Zeke looked puzzled and asked, "Trunk—what's a trunk fer?"

"Why, to put your clothes in," replied the agent.

"What! An' me go naked?" exclaimed the scandalized hillbilly.

Uncle Ab says if you can change your mind you can't go crazy.
