COME ON, GIRLS!

In last week's editorial "I Say, Girls," the boys thought the girls should have a softball and basketball team. We understand that we can't play against other schools, but why can't we have scheduled games among ourselves? Why can't we have a game of softball where the sport fans will turn out and cheer for us? Why can't we have a basketball team and play the preliminaries before the boys' game? Is it lack of co-operation on the part of the girls or aren't we capable of playing in front of an audience? Come on girls, let's get to the bottom of it and turn over a new sports leaf for A. C. S. —B. A. Greene

COLUMBUS TOOK A CHANCE

Men have taken chances since the beginning of time. In fact, in everything we undertake, we are taking some kind of a chance. In 1492, Columbus set out to prove what he believed to be true. In other words he took a chance of being lost at sea and being reported officially dead. But he didn't get lost and he wasn't reported dead. He discovered a new world, he encountered new ideas and customs. He made his story! October 12 has been set aside as a national holiday in honor of a great man who actually had the courage to defy death for a great discovery. Perhaps we wouldn't make history, probably we wouldn't discover a new continent, but if we "moderns" would take more of a chance and make the best of what we have, our country would be a more democratic place in which to live. —B. REFLECTION IS GOOD FOR THE SOUL

Are we as co-operative as we should be? Just to find out about it, I pictured myself as a new pupil for a day. The first thing I noticed was that many pupils were writing their Hi Herald assignments or voluntary activities. Here was real enthusiasm, but when I attended band and orchestra rehearsals, I found that some of the members were lacking enthusiasm. When I attended the intramural classes, I discovered that some games had been started without the supervision of a teacher, but then I found many students on the benches and not getting in the game. As I attended these different activities, I encountered many students wandering as one might call it, in the halls. However, I did find some students who were making good use of the few minutes before morning and afternoon classes. I never realized how funny (haha) I must appear to others when I chew gum, until I particularly observed student gum-chewers. How about it, students, why don't you sit back a day and watch yourselves in the halls—in the gym—and in classes—and see how you would rate yourselves? —Coretha Mead

ADVICE TO FRESHMEN

We, the Juniors of Andover Central School, wish to pass on some helpful advice to you, the Freshmen of Andover Central School. We know of the many hardships you have to bear as Freshmen. Never mind them—just bear in mind that some day you will be Juniors, giving your well-earned knowledge back to the Freshmen. To begin with, keep scrapbooks. This may sound childish, but it truly isn't. In this scrapbook keep articles from the Hi Herald which depict the things you have done all thru your

Troupsburg to Play Andover

On Tuesday afternoon the Andover football team will play Troupsburg on the Andover athletic field. Up to date Andover has lost one game and tied one.

The past week Andover has been drilling on a defense to stop the opponents' passing attack and also an aerial attack to subdue Troupsburg. The probable line-up:

Left end, Harold Rice; lg, Bud Dolan; c, Ken Gath; rg, Don Lynch; re, Ardean Matison. The starting backfield will be picked from the following boys: Louis Fulkerson, Bud Dolan, Bill Dugan, Bob Perry or Wilbur Lehman. They will have a strong reserve team with Jim Trowbridge, Jack Dean, Leo Nobles, Lyle Ordway, Vic Oakes, John Howland, Stan Ruger, Don Emery and George Karcanes. —B.D.

Hi Herald Presents New Student

The Hi Herald introduces this week, as a new member of Andover Central School, Violet Barney of Wellsville. She is in the Junior class and is taking the subjects typing, history A, Home Economics 6, and English III. She says she likes the Andover school very much because everyone is friendly and make her feel at home. During the summer she visited the Black Forest of Pennsylvania. —ACS

Letha Callaghan Leads Fairy Tale Contest

In the cub writers' contest of fairy tales, Letha Callaghan's fairy tale, "Mrs. Farmer Brown Badly Frightened by Three Blind Mice," won first prize. The other cub writers who came in second, third and fourth are Mary Baker, Barbara Temple and Ethel Crowner, respectively. The prize fairy tale follows:

Mrs. Farmer Brown Badly Frightened by Three Blind Mice! Yesterday evening, while working in her kitchen, Mrs. Farmer Brown spied a mouse under her working table. When she bent down to strike it with the carving knife, she perceived not one mouse but three. In the mad scramble which ensued, Mrs. Brown managed to cut off the tail of each mouse. This act seemed to greatly infuriate the mice who forthwith turned and pursued the now thoroughly terrified Mrs. Brown causing her to find refuge upon a chair.

When, a few minutes later, Mr. Farmer Brown took charge of the situation and clubbed the three mice to death, he discovered that all of the mice were blind. —J.B.

Grade News

The sixth graders are making a terrarium in which they are going to keep small live animals such as grasshoppers and crickets. Mrs. MacKay has come back to the first grade to help Miss Butler, due to the large number in the class. She will teach one hour in the morning and one hour in the afternoon. Mary Ellen Driscoll has returned to the third grade after a long absence with whooping cough. —E.P.-M.J.H.

four years of high school life. This material would be wonderful for your prospective scrapbook, which you publish in your Senior year. Our next advice is to purchase an autograph book in which to keep your schoolmate's signatures. Oh, what a glorious souvenir this will be in years to come when you grow old and gray and feeble!

Why not join all the school clubs as much as possible? At least, participate in a few of them. They are so many and assorted, it seems only logical that every single one of you could find one to become interested in. Last, but not least—study. That is the main objective of schools. Don't wait for the five-week exams, or the final Regents to commence to "dig in." Do each day's homework earnestly, and you will most certainly not dread the finals. Now, you Freshmen, and the would-be graduates of the Class of 1943, follow these few well-wished suggestions and you will make a class which A. C. S. will long remember! —Mary Mesler

Freshmen Have Best Attendance

The Freshmen are to be complimented on their good record of perfect attendance with the average of 92 per cent.

The Juniors come in second with an average of 79 per cent. The Seniors, Post Graduates and Sophomores didn't stand so well with the averages of 58, 55.5 and 53 per cent respectively. —C.M.

Biology Students Dissect Frog

Wednesday morning the biology students dissected their first animal of the year. This time the frog met his fate and Mr. Maloy promises many other demonstrations.

The students were shown the parts of the frog and much to their amazement the frog's heart was still beating. —S.R.

Sophomores Hold "Weinie" Roast

Wednesday night the Sophomores journeyed to the grove where they had a wiener roast. After several fruitless attempts to build a fire, Mr. Holmes proceeded to show them how.

After eating they sang many songs, among them "Long Long Ago," "Hold Tight," "Over the Rainbow," led by Mr. Giffin. —S.R.

Letter to the Hi Herald Adviser

Dear Hi Herald Adviser: The problem I am about to reveal may at first sound rather silly, but it is most embarrassing to me and I hope you will be able to help me solve it.

My problem is stammering. How or where I ever acquired this defect I don't know; but I have it and now I want so badly to rid myself of it. What do you suggest I do in such a case? Very sincerely, TROUBLED.

Dear Troubled: I am afraid you have asked the wrong person about your problem, as I am not a doctor or medical adviser, but, nevertheless, I shall try to help you. The stammering is a nervous affliction and is most troublesome when you become excited or nervous. Practice getting somewhere alone and talking to yourself. This may sound foolish, but it will help. Do not become too excited and try not to talk too fast when you are conversing with a group of friends. Take your time and speak very clear and distinctly.

If you do this I believe you will be able to correct your affliction and in a little while, you will not stammer when you talk. As a final suggestion, get one of your teachers to help you. Go to him or her and have them talk over your lesson or some other project with you. I believe this practice in talking with people will help you very much. I hope you will profit from my advice. Yours truly, Your Hi Herald Adviser —ACS

Freshmen Hold Meeting

The Freshman Class held their first meeting Wednesday, October 4 in Room C for the purpose of deciding on a Halloween party. After the date of the party was decided, Principal G. E. Bretsch discussed with the class the method of conducting a formal meeting. —D.J.M.

Guess Who?

The person who is putting in her appearance for Guess Who is a member of the Senior Class. She has dark hair and is of medium height. This girl is popular, very good in sports and is a good dancer. Last year she was a prominent actress in the Junior play. Last week's Guess Who was Irene Trowbridge. —J.B.

Comic Comments!

If you'd but try it You would see That Social Hour is fun, We cannot help but think That you should go— Right on the run! —R.A.R.

Gettin' Around -

The score was close between Aline Reisman and Jessie Burger's teams. The fight was hard and fierce. 26-2 is the third quarter!

By the look on Bud Dolan's face, he didn't like the Junior singing. They were just bolstering up courage for tests. Cheer up! The first five weeks tests are always the toughest—Or are they?

I put it directly up to you boys—How do you like to see girls dressed: Colorfully or in black? The Economic geography boys didn't know. The Seniors would like a masquerade ball for their first dance. More power to them. It's never been done and who doesn't like something different?

So Gath threw a 40-yard pass, eh? Some girls would like to know whether attendance will count toward a letter as it has always done.

The Juniors started things, as usual, with the first party of the season. Following are a few of the highlights: 1—Mr. Giffin firmly believes Patricia Lynch's hill would be good to ski on. (Incidentally Mr. Giffin, lumberjack, built the fire. Oh yes, he did, Dugan.)

2—Mr. Holmes heroically tried to rescue the lost bat and ball, and got lost in the huge "Grove" himself!

3—Spys on the outskirts of the campfire. Who were they?

4—A college spirit found an outlet in the Maine, Cornell, Wisconsin, Syracuse and Notre Dame alma matters.

5—Betty Jo and Ethel Crowner ran into a barbed wire fence, but Dugan and Gath fell in a hole.

Mr. McGee told his geometry students that 1 plus 2 equals 3 and 4. Some were stupefied until he explained.

That notice to Freshmen in Room C was forceful: "Be there—or else." Nothing like being clear.

The Seniors were relieved to hear Miss Larkin's explanation of the lipstick on her dress. The Juniors claim that they are grown up, but I doubt it. For English III they read books that were on a level with the Freshmen and Sophomores.

Ernie Burdick is back in school again after a vacation of two weeks. Don't take a week off to rest up after that Ernie.

These short weeks are not much help. The students think of the fun they are going to have to neglect their studies.

The inventive genius of O. C. S., Ernest Burdick, is going to invent a flag holder for the flagmen who stand in the middle of the road holding red flags. This invention is so that the men won't have to work so hard.

This column is trying to solve a deep mystery. Who is the master mind who is tracing down the one who took money and a watch from some of the boys' clothing in the locker room? You tell us. How come our paper doesn't have many cartoons in it? The staff artist better get busy!

The boys of the hardwood better begin training. Basketball season starts Nov. 15.

I wish someone would use a little mental telepathy on me as I need some more material for this column. —B.J.L.-L.O.

Juniors Gain Lead

The Junior boys have gained the lead in the number of games won in touch football league, which is part of the intramural program. The Junior boys have won two games, lost one and tied one with the Seniors.

The Juniors gained the lead when they beat the Seniors last Monday by the score of 12 to 0. The Juniors got their first touchdown by a run by Wilbur Lehman which was on the first play. The Juniors again scored when Dick McAndrew ran back a punt the length of the field behind the good interference and blocking of Wilbur Lehman and Ken Gath. The next game will be played next Monday with the same two teams. —J.L.

Bureau of Information

There are only five red-haired pupils in Andover Central School of which Jean Button is the only girl. There are four blue-eyed pupils in the P. G. homeroom which Louise Fulkerson is the only boy.

The tallest boy in the P. G. homeroom is Leo Nobles; the tallest in Senior homeroom is Bob Hall.

There are 99 shelves in the library. Did you ever count them?

Only 16 pupils were at the Junior weiner roast. Were you one?

There are usually two pupils from each homeroom in the halls until one minute before the bell rings. Are you one of them? —L.M.V.-D.J.
