to give a lot of time and consideration to what she was going to wear tonight. Everybody would notice. (Miss Darlington appeared in a blue wool dress and a slightly battered felt hat. That wouldn't make good copy—not so far as Lane was concerned, at least.)

Dress after dress was discarded in Lane's search for the proper costume. Success was hers tonight. She'd dress for it. Tonight she had California to look back on and forward to, and tonight, well, he had met her at the train and he'd probably—Last year he hadn't even noticed her!

Knock! Knock! Lane looked up annoyed. "Come." In dashed her younger sister. —"How's the exclusive reporter! You will have to hurry, that guy's here. Gee, Lane! Why'd you have to go out with him on your first night home from college?"

Humor

Miss Larkin: "Define fictitious." Wanda Dolan: "A form of fiction."

Miss Wood (in Homemaking class): "Hey, I've found a tack in this doughnut."

O. Greene: "Why the ambitious little thing. I'll bet he thought it was a tire."

Mr. McGee: "Do you know any reliable rule for estimating cost of living?"

—John: "Yes, take whatever you earn and add ten per cent." —M.L.

Comic Comments

No Social Hour, what will we do? This certainly is something new!

All tests are over for the minute.

Breathe a sigh of relaxation.

Study hard this next five weeks—

You'll be able to sigh with more elation!

The Student Council is complete.

Seven members, girls and boys.

Here's hoping that it can't be beat

And works with dignity and poise.

—R.A.R.

Now here's something I know will pass.

About Student Election in the Junior Class:

The election came out in favor of a boy

Which proves to us the girls are coy.

The lucky lad was Johnny Lynch.

The class knew he'd work in a pinch;

Now if you think the class was wrong,

Remember the old Progressive song.

POET'S CORNER

The Devil's Sneeze

I didn't know that I

Could feel so very good

Especially since I haven't

Done a gosh darn thing I should.

It couldn't be the weather

With its balmy summer breeze,

It must be the devil in me

Simply has to sneeze. —C.H.

"A Teacher's Thoughts"

I must not interfere with any child,

I have been told

To bend his will to mine, or try to shape him thru some mold

Of thought. Naturally as a flower

he must unfold.

Yet flowers have the discipline of

wind and rain,

And tho I know it gives the gardener

much pain,

I've seen him use his pruning shears

to gain,

More strength and beauty for some

blossoms bright,

And he would do whatever he thought right.

To save his flowers from a deadening blight.

I do not know—yet it does seem to me

That only weeds unfold just naturally.

Guess Who?

I know you've seen this boy before,

For he's a mighty Sophomore;

He's big and strong and head of his class

And he's sometimes seen with a

Wellsville lass.

Now if you haven't guessed his name

before,

Here's a hint that will tell you sure:

He's on the second team in basketball

And for A. C. S. he'll give his all!

So don't be shy,

Come on and try—

And I'm sure he'll guess his name.

Last week's Guess-Who—Victor

LITTLE BITS OF HUMOR

Professor: "Now if I were to be flogged, what would that be?"

Class (in unison): "That would be corporal punishment."

Professor: "But if I were to be beheaded?"

Class (still in unison): "Oh, that would be capital."

"So your name is George Washington," the old lady asked the small Negro bellhop.

"Yessum."

"And you try to be exactly like him, or as nearly so as possible?"

"Lak who?"

"Like George Washington."

"Why, Ah jes' kaint he'p bein' like George Washington, 'cause dat's who Ah is!"

Landlord: "Well, how do you like your quarters?"

Tenant: "These aren't quarters—they're eighties."

Optician: "Weak eyes, have you? Well, how many lines can you read on that chart?"

Patient: "What chart?"

"Upper or lower berth," inquired the would-be traveler, "What's the difference?"

"Well," replied the ticket agent, "the difference is two dollars. But that is not all. The lower is higher than the upper one. The higher price is for the lower. If you want it lower, you have to go higher. We sell the upper lower than the lower. Most people don't like the upper, altho it's lower on account of being higher. When you occupy an upper you go up to bed and get down to get up."

The captain of the liner smiled down on his dozen guests. There was a heavy sea and he nearly stumbled when he rose to greet them:

"My friends," he said, "I hope all
