Current Comments CHRISTMAS HAPPINESS

As we read the newspapers about the war conditions in Europe, do we think very much about it?

As we ride along the highways in the evening and during the night, we see cheery lights or Christmas eccurations greeting us. We will be greefed by many exclamations of "Merry Christmas" and "Happy New Year." As we go Christmas shopping we can see the ray lights of we can see the gay lights of we can see the Christmas decorations.

Somehow, everything seems changed at Christmas time; everyone has renewed vigor. brisker step and brightened look, Andover not being overlooked by the world-wide epidemic. The following poem fits in with the new scheme of things:

"Christmas Joy" Over the world, with outspread wings, . The Spirit of Christmas broods and Of happy, hopeful, helpful things,

Charity wide and deep and high Peace that close in the heart will lie

All these gifts are free! Then what do we care for the things that tear,

And rust, and fade, and break?
For love will keep us while we sleep
And greet us when we wake!

Letter to Hi Herald Adviser

Dear Hi Herald Adviser: I have been a pupil of this schoo most of my school years and have most of my school years and never-been very good friends with every-one. I would like to have advice on how I can be more friendly with more students this year. All the students have a cheery hello for me but I can tell it is not what they felt toward me in former years.

Dear "Troubled":

You seem to feel that the students have changed in their friendly

dents have changed in their friendly stitude toward you.

Perhaps it is your own fault that they just have a cheery hello for you and no further friendly rela-tionship. Have you eyer stopped to tionship. Have you eyer stopped to think that it may be you that has changed in the last year or two to cause this barrier between you and your fellow students? Perhaps you have become a bit conceited and "stuck up" so that they do not think o much of you. If this is the case, ou should change your attitude and
