Among the natives of New Guinea 1. it's not cricket for the local rain i maker to take a bath during the I rainy season, as this act would, ac- 1. cording to belief, bring down veritable deluges. Native superstition says that when the rain maker bathes, rain will fall; when he shuns . I the tub, the rain will cease. If the rain maker should by chance feel I that he is not well enough paid for i his services, he has only to go against the will of his village in his weather making. Seeing the point, the people will usually raise his
